PSALMS

OF

D A V I D,

IMITATED IN THE LANGUAGE OF THE

NEW TESTAMENT.

PSALMI. Common metre.

The way and end of the Righteous and the Wicked.

BLEST is the man who shins the place Where sinners love to meet; Who sears to tread their wicked ways, And hates the scotlers feet:

2 Who in the flatness of the Lord Has plac'd his chief delight; By day he reads, or he as the word, And meditates by night.

[3 He like a plant, of gen'rous kind, By living waters fet, Safe from the florms and blafting wind, Enjoys a peaceful flate.

A Green as the teaf, and ever fair Shali his profession shine; While fruits of holmess appear Like clusters on the vine.

5 Not fo the impious and unjult; What vain defigns they form! Their hopes are blown away, like duft, Or chaff, before the floria. 6 Sinners in judgment shall not stand".
Among the four of grace,

When Christ, the Judge, at his right hand!
Appoints his fain's a place.

7 His eye beholds the path they tread;
His heart approves it well;
But crooked ways of finners, lead
Down to the gates of hell.

PSALM I. Short metre.

The 'aint happy-The faner miferable.

THE man is ever bleft

Whe fluns the finner's ways,

Among their councils never flands,

Nor takes the feomer's place:

2 Who makes the law of God His fludy and delight, Amidit the labors of the day, And watches of the night.

3 He, like a tree final thrive, With waters near the root; Fresh as the leaf his name final like 33 His works are heav'aly fruit.

A But the ungody race
Can no fuch bleffings find;
Their hopes will fly like empty chaff:
Before the criving wind.

5 How will they bear to fland Before that Judgment feat, Where all the faints, at Chrise's right hand? In full affembly meet!

6 He knows, and he approves
The way the righteous go;
But finners, and their works, will meet
A dreadful overthrow.

PSALM I. Long metre.

The difference between the Righteous and Wicked.

HAPPY the man, whose cautious feet
Shum the broad way which finners go,
Who hates the place where atheits meet,
And fears to talk as scoffers do.

2 He loves to pass his morning light.
Am ong the fratures of the Lord,
An' spends the wakeful hours of night,
With pleasure pond'ring o'er the word.

3 He, like a plant, by gentle freams, Shail flourish in immortal creen; And heav'n wile finite with kindeft beams On ev'ry work his hands begin.

A But finners find their counfels croft;
As chaff before the tempest flies;
So shall their hopes be blown and lost,
When the last trumpet shakes the skies.

5 In vain the rebels keek to fland
In judgment with the plous race;
The dieadful Judge, with flein command,
Divides them to a diffrent place.

6 "Straight is the way my faints have trod; I blefs'd the path, and drew it piain; But you would choose the crookee road, And down it leads to endless pain."

PSALM II. Short metre.

Translated according to the Divine pattern.

Alls, iv. 24. Sc.
Christs dying, rifing, interceeding and reigning.
[Marker and for reign Lord
Otheav'n, and earth and feas;
Thy providence confirms thy word,
And answers thy decrees.

2 The things to long forefold B' David are fulfill'd, When Jews and Gentiles join to flay

Jesus thine holy child.

3 Why did the Gentiles rage, And Jews with one accord, Bend all their councils to defirey Th' annointed of the Lord?

A Rulers and kings agree To form a vain defign: Against the Lord their powers units, Against his Christ they join.

5 The Lord derides their rage, And will support his throne,

The Lord who rais d him from the dead Hatu own'd him for his Son.

PAUSE.

6 Now he's afternded high, And asks to rule the earth, The merit of his blood he pleads, And pleads his heavinly birth.

7 He afks, and God beftows A large inheritance;
Far as the world's remotest ends,
His kingdom shall advance.

8 The nations that rebel,
Must feel his iron rod;
He'll vindicate those honers well,
Which he receiv'd from God.

[9 Be wife, ye rulers, now,
And worship at his throne;
With trembling joy, ye people, bow
Fo God's exalted Son.

To If once his wrath arife,
Ye per ift on the place:
Then bieffed is the foul that flies
For refuge to his grace.]

PSALM II. Common metre.

WHY did the nations join to flay
The Lord's annointed Soa!
Why did they cast his laws away,
And tread his gospel down?

2 The Lord who fits above the flices, Durides their rape below; He speaks with vengeance in his eyes, And fulkes their spirits through.

3"I call him my eternal Son, And raife him from the dead: I make my holy hill his throne, And wide his kingdom speed.

A-Aik me my Son, and then enjay.
The utmost H other lands;
The red of iron shall di kroy
The rebei who withhands.

5 Be wife, ye rulers of the earth Obey the annointed Lord, Adorethe King of heavirly birth, And tremble at his word.

6 With humble love address his throne,
For if he frown, ye die:
Those are secure, and those alone,
Who on his grace rely.

PSAL M II. Long metre-

Christ's death, resurrection and a constant
WHY did the Jews proclaim their rage?
The Romans, why their swords employ:
B 2

Against the Lord their pow'rs engage, His dear annointed to destroy.

2 "Come let us break his bands, they far.
This man shall never give us taws,"
And thus they cast his voke away
And nail d the Monarch to the cross.

3 ButGod, who high in glory reigns, Laughs at their pride, their rage controlls; He'd vex their hearts with inward pains, And fpeak in thunder to their fouls.

a "I will maintain the King I made On Zion's everlasting hist; My hand shall bring him from the dead, And he shall stand your Sov'reign still."

Is His wond'rous rifing from the earth Makes his eternal Godhead known; The Lord declares his heav nly birth, this day have I begot my Son.

6 "Afcend my Son, to my right hand, There thou field ak. and I'll befrow The utmost bounds of Heathen lands, To thee the Northern fles shall bow."]

7 But nations, that refift his grace, Shail fall beneath his iron firoke; His rod fluil crush his focs, with eale, As potter's earthen work is broke.

PAUSE.

8 Now ye who fit on earthly thrones, Be wife, and ferve the Lord, the Lumb; Now at his feet jubmit your cromps, Rejoice and tremble at his name,

With humble love address the Son, Left he grow angry, and ye die; His wrath shall burn to worlds unknown, It ye provoke his jealousy.

To His florms shall drive you quick to hell! He is a God, and yo but dust;
Happy the fouls that know him well,
And make his grace their only trust.

PSALM III. Common metre.

Doubts and fears suppressed: or, God our defines

MY Go 1, how many are my fears!
How fast my foes increase!
Conspiring my eternal death,
They break my present peace.

2 The lying tempter would perfuade There's no relief in heav'n; And all my fwelling fins appear Too big to be forgiv n.

3 But thou my glory and my firength, Shalt on the tempter tread. Shalt filence all my threat ning guilt, And raise my drooping head.

4 I cry'd and from his holy hill He bow'd a lift'ning ear;

I cail'd my Father and my God, And ke iubdu'd my fear.

5 He shed foft slumbers on mine eyes, In spite of all my foes;

I'woke, and wonder'd at the grace Whichguarded my repose.

6 What though the hofts of death and held All arm'd against me stood!

Terrors no more shall shake my foul; My refuge is my God.

TO PSALM III. IV.

7 Arife, O Lord, fulfil thy grace While I thy glory fing: My God has broke the ferpent's teeth, And death has loft his fing.

3 Salvation to the Lord belongs; His arm alone can fave; Bleffings attend the people here, And reach beyond the grave.

P S A L M III. Long metre. A Morning Pfalm.

O LORD, how many are my foes
In this weak flate of fleth and blood!
My peace they daily dift tompole,
Eut my defence and hope is God.

2 Tir'd with the burdens of the day To Thee I rair'd an evining cry: Thou heard'st, when I began to pray, And thine Almighty help was nigh.

3 Supported by thine heav'nly aid, I laid me down and flept fecure: Not death should make my heart afraid, Though I should wake and rife no more.

4 But God fustain'd me all the night Salvation doth to God belong; He rais'd my head to fee the light, And make his praise my morning song.

PSAL M IV. Long metre.

Hearing of prayer-or, God our partien, and Christour hope.

GOD of grace and right confuels, Hear and attend, when I complain; Thou haft enlarg'd me in charte, Bow down a gracious ear again. 2 Ye fons of men, in vain ye try
To turn my glory into shame:
How long will scoffers love to lie,
And dare reproach my Saviour's name?

3 Know that the Lord divides his faints From all the tribes of men befides; He hears the cry of penitents For the dear fake of Christ, who dy'd,

4 When our obedient hands have done. A thousand works of righteousness, We put our trust in God alone, And glory in his pard'ning grace.

g Let the unthinking many fay, Who will bestow fome earthly good? But, Lord, thy tight and love we pray: Our foul's defire this heav'nly food.

6 Then shall my cheerful pow'rs rejoice, At grace and favor so divine; Nor will I change my happy choice For all their corn, and all their wine.

PSALM IV. Common metre.

An evening Pfalm.

ORD, thou wilt hear me, when I pray:
I am forever thine:
I fear before thee all the day,
Nor would I dare to fin.

2 And while I reft my weary head, From cares at d businefafree, 'Tis fweet converfing on my bed With my own heart and Thee.

3 I pay this evining, facrifice:
And when my work is done,
Great God, my faith and hope relies
Upon my grace alone.

4 Thus, with my thoughts compos'd to peace,
Pil give mine eyes to fleep;
Thy hand in fafety keeps my days,
And will my flumbers keep.

PSALM V.

For the Lora's day morning.

ORD, in the morning thou shalt hear

My voice ascending high;

To Thee will 1 direct my pray'r,

To thee lift up mine eye.

2 Up to the hills, where Christ is gone, To plead for all his faints, Prefenting at His Father's throne Cur fongs and our complaints.

3 Then art a God, before whose fight, The wicked shall not stand; Sinners shall never be thy delight, Nor dwell at thy right hand.

4 But to thy house will I resort, To taste thy mercies there; I will frequent thy holy court, And worship in thy fear.

5 O may thy Spirit guide my feet, In ways of righteenfiefs! Make every path of duty ftrait, And plain before my face.

PAUSE.

6 My watchful enemies combine To tempt my teet aftray: They flatter with a bale delig n, To make my foul their prey.

Lord, crush the serpent into dust, And all his plots destroy; While those who in thy mercy trust, For ever shout for joy.

8 The men who ove and fear thy name, Shall fee their lepes furth? C: The mighty God with conpais them

With favor as a flied.

My find hows down well betry cares;
My find with pain opposed;
My couch is withefe to my tears;
My tears forbid my reft.

3 Sorrow and pain wear out my days; I wake the night with cries, Counting the minutes as they pais, 'Till the flow morning rife.

A Shall I be ftill tormented more?

Mine eye confum'd with grief?

How long my G-d how long, before.

Thy hand afford relief?

5 He hears when dust and ashes speak;
He pities all our groans;
He saves us for his mercy's sake,
And heals our broken bones.

6 The virtue of his fov reign word Restores our faintingbreath; But silent graves praise not the Lord, Nor is he known in death.

PSALM VI Long metre: Temptations in fickness exercome. TORD I can suffer thy retukes When thou with kindness dost chassise-

But thy fierce wrath I cannot bear ! O let it not against me rise !

2 Pity my languithing effate. And ease the forrows which I feel: The wounds thy heavy hands hath made, O let thy geatler touches heat !

- 3 See how I pass my weary days In fighe and groans; and when tis night. My bed is water'd with my tears; My grief confumes and dims my fight.
- 4 Look how the pow'rs of nature mourn! How long, Almighty God how long? When shall thine hour of grace return? When shall I make thy grace my fong?
- 5 I feel my flesh so near the grave. My thoughts are tempted to delpair; But graves can nev r praise the Lord. For all is dust and filence there.
- 6 Depart ve tempters, from my foul: And all despairing thought; depart; My God, who bears my humble mean, Will eafe my pain and cheer my heart.

PSALM VII. Common metre.

God's care of his people, and puri &ment of perfecutors

MY trust is in my heavaly Friend. My hope in thee, my God; Rife and my bleffed life letend From those who seek my blood.

2 With infolence and fury, they My four in piecestear, As hungry tions rend the prey When no deliv'rer's near.

3 If I have e'er provok'd them first,

Or once abuf'd my foe.

Then let him tread my life to dust, And lay mine honor low.

4 If there be malice hid in me, I know thy piercing eyes; I should not dare appeal to thee, Nor ask my God to rife.

s Arife, my God, lift up thy hand, Their pride and power controul: Awake to judgment and command Deliverance for my foul.

PAUSE.

Let finners and their wicked rage Be humbled to the doft: Shall nottle God of truth engage To vindicate the just.

7 He knows the hear, he tries the reigns, He will defend the upright: Lis thup, it arrows he ordains Againg the fons of spite.

8 For me their malice digg'd a pit, But there themselves are can't My God makes all their mischief light On their own heads at last.

That cruel perfecuting race
 Must feel his dreadful tword :
 Awake, my foul, and praise the grace
 And justice of the Lord.

PSALM VIII. Short metre.

God's Sov'reignty and Goodne's; and man's dam minion over the creatures. \times LORD, our heav'nly king,

The Holana of the children; or, infants, praifing

A LMIGITY Ruler of the fkies, Thro' the wide earth thy name is spread; And thine eternal glories rife O'er all the heav'ns thy hands have made.

2 To thee the voices of the young, A monument of honor raife; And habe, with uninfiructed tongue, Declare the wonders of thy praife.

3 Thy pow'r afilds their tender age. To bring proud rebels to the ground; To fill the bold blasphemer's rage, And all their policies confound.

A Children amidst thy temple throng To see their great Redeemer's face; The son of Divid is their song, And young Kejannas fill the place.

5 The frowning feribes and angry pricks in vais their impious cavils bring; Revenge fits filent in their breafts. While Jecoi/h babes proclaim their king.

PSALM VIII. Paraphrafed.

Second part. Long wetre.

Adam and Christ Lords of the old and the new creation.

ORD, what was man, when made at fire,

Adem, the off-pring of the duft-1

That thou should'ft fet him and his race,
But just below an angel's place!

2. That thou should'st raise his nature so, And make him Lord of all below;

Make ev'ry beaft and bird fubmit, And lay the fish es at his feet!

3 But O! what brighter glories wait To crown the second Adom's feate; What honors shall thy Son adorn; Who condescended to be born!

4 See him below his ange's made; See him in dust among the dead, To fave a rain'd world from fin; Then fee him reign with power divine!

5 The world to come redeem'd from all The mistries which attend the fail, New made and gior'ous in all submit At our exacted bariour's feet.

PSALM IX. First port.

Wrath and moves from the Yudgement feat.

I'll my whose heart' come my fond;

Thy wonders I'll program;

Thou Sov'reign Jurge of right and wrong
Wilt put my foes to it ame.

2 Pli fing thy majety and grace: My God prepares his throne To judge the world in righteor finess, And make his vengence known.

5 Then shall the lord a refuge prove
For all the poor oppress'd;
To save the people or his love,
And give the weary rest.

4 The men who know thy name will trust, In thy abundant grace;

For thou hast ne'er for look the just, Who humbly feek thy face.

5 Sing praises to the righteous Lord, Who dwells on Sion's hill. Who executes his threatning word, And doth his grace fulfil.

PSALM IX. Second part.
The soil dom and equity of Providence.
WHEN the Great Judge, Supreme and juff,
Shall once enquire for blood,
The humble fools who mourn in duft,
Shall find a faithful God.

2 He from the dreadful gates of death Does his own children raife: In Sion's gates, with cheerful breath,

They fing their Father's praise.

And inners periffi in the net Which their own hands had foread.

4 Thus by thy judgements mighty God, Are thy deep counfels known: When men of mischief are destroy'd, The snare must be their own.

Pouse.

5 The wicked shall fink down to hell; Thy wrath devour the lands That dare forget thee, or rehel Against thy known commands.

6 Though faints to fore diffress are brought, And wait and long compiain, Their cries shall never be forgot, Nor shall their hopes be vain.

[7 Rife great Redeemer, from thy feat,
To judge and fave the poor;
Let nations tremble at thy feet,
And man prevail no more.

8 Thy thunder thall affright the proud, and put the repearts to pain,
Make them confess that thou art God,
And they but feeble mends

PSALM X. Common metre.

Prayers beard, and faints faced the, pride, atheifm, and oppression punished.

For a humination-day.

WHY doth the Lord frand off fo far?

And why conceal his face,

When great calamities appear,

When great calamities appear, And times of deep diffres?

2 Lord, shall the wicked still deride Thy justice and thy pow'r? Shall they advance their heads in pride, And still thy faints devour?

3 They put thy judgements from their fight, And then infult the poor; They book in their exalted height, That they shall fall no more.

A Arife. O God, lift up thine hand; Attend our humble cry; No enemy shall dare to stand When God ascends on high.

PAUSE.

5 Why do the men of malice rage, And fry, with foolith pride, The God of been in will ne'er engage To fight on Zion's fide?

6 Since thou for ever art the Lord; And pow'rful is thing hand, As when the Hoothen felt thy fword, And perish'd from thy land.

7 Thou wi't prepare our hearts to pray, And cause thine ear to hear: He hearkens what his children say, And puts the world in sear.

8 Proud tyrants shall no more oppress;
No more despise the just;
And mighty sinners shall consess,
They are but earth and dust.

PSALM XI. Long metre.

God loves the righteous and hates the wicked.

MY refuge is the God of love!

Why do my foes infult and cry,

Fly, like a tim'rous trembling dove,

To diftant awoods or mountains fly?

2 If government be all deftroy'd, (That firm foundation of our peace) And violence make justice void, Where shall the right-our feek redress?

3 The Lord in heav'n has fix'd his throne; His eye furveys the world below; To him all mortal things are known; His eye-lids fearch our fpints through.

4 If he afflicts his faints fo far, To prove their love and try their grace, What may the hold transferessors fear! Mis very foul abhors their ways.

on impious wretches he shall rain Tempests of brindtone, fire and death, Such as he kindled on the plain Of Sodom, with his angry breath.

6 The right cous Lord loves right cous fouls, Whose thoughts and actions are fincere, And with a gracious eye beholds. The men who his own image bear.

PSALM XII. Long metre.

The faints' fafety on! hope in equil times: or; fins of the trages complained of, viz. blapkeny, julphood. &c.

ORD, if then do not feed appear,
Vitue and truth will fly away;
A faithful man among us here
Will fearce be found, if thou delay.

a The whole discourse, when neighbours meet, Is hil'd with trifles look and win;

Their lips are flatt'ry and deceit, And their proud language is profane;

g But lips that with deceit abound Shall not maintain their troumph long; The God of vengence will confound The flatt ring and blafpheming tongue.

A. Yet shall our words be free, they cay, Our tongues shall be controul d by none: Where is the 1 and will ask us why? Or say our lips are not our own?

5 The Lord, who fees the poor oppress, And hears oppressions' houghty strain, Will rife to give his children rest, Nor shall they trust his word in vain.

6 Thy word, O Lord, though often try'd, Void of deceit shall still appear;
Not filver fev'n times purity'd.
From drois and mixture, thines so clear.
7 Thy Grace shall in the darkest hour.

7 Thy Grace shall, in the darkest hour, Defend the hoty foul from harm; Though when the vilest men have pow'r, On ev'ry fide will saners swarm.

PSALM XII. Common metre.
Complaint of a general corruption of manners; or
The promise and figns of CHRIST's coming to judgment.

TELP, Lord, for men of virtue fail;
Religion loses ground!
The sons of violence prevail,
And treacheries abound.

Their oaths and promifes they break,
 Yet act the first rers part;
 With fair deceitful lips they speak,
 And with a double heart.

3 If we reprove some hateful lie, How is their fury stirt'd! Are not our lies our onon? they cry, And nobo shall be our Lord?

4 Scoffers appear on cv'ry fide,
White a vile race of men
Are rais'd to feats of pow'r and pride,
And bears the fword in vain.

PAUSE.

5 Lord, when iniquities abound, And blafphemy grows bold, When faith is hardly to be found, And love is waxing cold.

6 Is not thy char'or hastning on?

Hast theu not giv'n the fign?

May we not trust and live upon

A promise to divine?

7" Yes, faith the Lord, now will I rife, And make appreffors fire; I final appear to their furprife, And fet my fervants free."

2 Thy word like filver fev'n timestry'd, Thro' ages shall endure:
The men who in thy truth confide, Shall find the promise fure.

PSALM XIII. Long metre.

Pleading with God under defiction; or, hope in darkness.

Like one who feeks his God in vair? Can'ft thou thy face forever hide, And 1 still pray and be deny'd?

2 Shall I forever be forgot, As one whom thou regarded not? Still thall my foul thy absence mourn? And skill despair of thy return? 3 How long shall my poor troubled breat Be with these anxious thoughts oppress'd? And satan, my mail:cious soe. Rejoice to see me sunk solow?

4 Hear, Lord, and grant me quick relief;
Before my death concludes my grief;
If thou withhold thy heav'nly light,
I fleep in everlafting night.

5 How will the pow'rs of darkness boast, If but one praying foul be lost !
But I have trusted in tay grace,
And shall again behold thy face.

6 Whate'er my fears or foes fuggeft. Thou art my hope, my joy, my reft; My heart first fee: thy love, and rrife My cheerful voice to fongs of praife.

PSALM XIII. Common metre. Complaint under temptations of the devil;

My God, how long delay!
When flial! I feel those heaving rays
Which chace my sears away?

2 How long shall my poor lab'ring soul. Wrestle and toil, in vain? Thy word can all my foss controul, And ease my raging pain.

See how the prince of darkness tries
 All his malicious arts!
 He spreads a mist around my eyes,
 And throws his siery darts.

Be thou my fen, and thou my shield; My foui in safety keep; Make haste, before mine eyes are seal'd In dea.h's eternal sleep. 5 How will the tempter boast aloudif I become his proy! Behold the fons of hell grow proud. At thy follong delay!

6 But they shall sies at thy rebuke, And fatan hide his head:

He knows the terrors of thy look, And hears thy voice, with dread,

7 Thou wiit display that fov'reign grace, Where all my hopes have hung;

I fhall employ my tips in praise, And vict'ry shall be fung.

W HO shak inhabit in thy hill, O God of holiness? Whom will the Lord admit to dwell So near his throne of grace?

2 The man who walks in pious ways, And works with righteous hands, Who trufts his Maker's promifes, And follows his commands:

Who fpeaks the meaning of his heart, Nor flunders with his tongue;

D

Will not promote an ill report, Nor do his neighbor wrong:

4 Who wealthy finners fill contemns, Loves all who fear the Loid: And though to his own hurt he fwears, Still he performs his word:

5 Whose hands distain a golden bribe, And never gipe the poor: This man shall dwell with God on earth, And find his heaven score.

PSALM XV. Long metre.

Religion and justice, goodness and truth; or, Diaties to God and man; or, the qualifications of a christian.

WHO shall ascend thy heavinly place?
Great God! and dwell before thy face?
The manisho minds religion now,
And humbly walks with God below:

a Whose hands are pure, whose heart is clean, Whose lips still speak the thing they mean: No standers dwell upon his tongue; He bates to do his neighbour wrong:

13 Who will not trust an ill report, Nor vent it to his neighbour's hurt: Sinners of state he can despise: But saints are honor'd in his eyes:

A Firm to his word he ever stood.

And always makes his promife good;

Nor car s to change the thing he swears,
Whatever pain or ios he bears.

For succour to the throne I flee.

For fuccour to thy throne I flee, But have no ments there'to picad; My goodness cannot reach to thee.

a Oft have my heart and tongue confess'd, How empty and how poor fam; My praise can never make thee blest, Nor add new glories to thy name.

3 Yet, Lord, thy faints on earth may rean, Some profit by the good we do; There are the company ! keep, Thef. are the choicest friends I know.

4 Let others choose the sons of mirth, To give a retish to their wine; I love the men of heaving birth, Whose thoughts and language are divine.

PSALMXVI. Second part. Long metre.

Christ's: All-Sufficiency.

HOW fast their guilt and forrows rise,
Who haste to feek some idol god!
I was not taste their facrisice,
Their off'rings of forbidden blood.

2 My God provides a richer cup, And nobler food to live upon; He for my life has offer'd up Jefus, his best beloved Son. 3 His love is my perpetual feaft;
By day his counters guide me right;
And, be his name for yet bleft,
He gives me fweetadvice by night.

A I fet him fill Before mine eyes; At my right hand he flands prepar'd, To keep my foul from all furprise, And be my everialting guard.

PSALM XVI. Thirdpart. Long metre. Courage in death, and hope of the refurrection.

TYTHEN God is nigh, my faith is frong,
It arm is my almighty prop:
Be d'ad, my heart rejoice, my tongue,
My dying fleih fhall reft in hope.

2 Tho' in the dust Hay my head,
Yet, gracious God, wilt thou not leave,
My tout forever with the dead;
Nordose thy children in the grave.

3 My fi.sh shall the first call obey, Shake of its dustand rife on high; Then shall thou lead the wend rous way Up to the throne above the sky.

6 When shall my feet arife and stand On heaving eternal hills? There fits the Son at God's right hand, And there the Father smiles.

PSALM XVII. Short metre.

Portion of jaints and finners; or, hope and defpair in death.

A RISE, my gracious God,
And make the wicked flee;
They are but thy challing rod
To drive thy faints to thee.

- 2 Behold, the finner dies!
 His haughty words are vain:
 Here, in this life, his pleasure lies;
 And all beyond is pain:
- 3 Then let his pride advance, And boath of all his flore; The Lord is my inheritance, My foul can with no more.
- 4 I shall beho'd the face
 Of my forgiving God;
 And stand compleat in rightcoushels;
 Wash'd in my Saviour's blood.
- See the new heav'n begun When I awake from death, Dreft in the likeuess of thy Son, And draw immortal breath!

PSALM XVII. Long metra

The finner's portion and taint's tope ; or, the beaven of spare; fouls and the refuncation.

ORD, I am thine, but thou wilt prove My faith, my patience, and my love: When men of force against me join: They are the sword; the hand is thine.

2 Their hope and portion lie helow;
2 Tis all the happing they know;
2 Tis all they feek: they take their shares,
And leave the rest among their heirs.

3. What finners value, I refign: Lord, 'tis enough that thou art mine; I shall behold thy blifstul face, And stand compleat in rightcouners.

A This life's a dream, an empty show; But the bright world to which I go, Hath joys substantial and sincere; When, shall I wake and find me there?

5 O glor'ous hour! O bleft abode!

I fhall be near and like my God;
And fieth and fin no more controu!

The facred pleafure of any foul.

6 My flesh shall I imber in the ground. "Till the last trumpet's joyful found: Then burst the chains with sweet surprise, And in my Saviour's image rise.

PSALM XVIII. First part. Long Metre.

His voice, his frown, his angry look.
Strikes all their courage dead.

6 He forms our gen'rals for the field, With all their dreadful fkill, Gives them his awful fword to wield, (And makes their hearts of fieel,

[7 He aims our captains for the fight, Tho' there his name's forgot; (He gird of Cyrus with his might, But Cyrus knew himmot.) Oft has the Lord whole nations bleft, For his own Churches' fake; The pow'rs which give his people reft, Shall of his care partake.

PSALM XVIII, Second Part. Com. metre. The tonguerrors fong.

To thine almighty arm we owe The triumphs of the day; Thy terrors, Lord, confound the foe, And meit their flieng haway.

2 'Tis by thine aid our troops prevail,
And break united pow'rs;
Or burn their boaited fless, or fcale
The proudeft of their tow'rs.

3 How have we chas'd them through the field, And trod them to the ground. While thy falvation was our flield; But they no fhelter found!

A In vain to idot faints they cry;
They periff in their blood:
Where is a rock fo great fo high,
So pew'if al as our God?

The Rock of Ifr'elever lives;
 His name be ever b'eff:
 'Tis his own arm the vict'ry gives,
 And gives his people reft.

6 On faints who live as Dav d did, He pours his bieffines down; Secures their privitege to their feed, And treats them as his own, PSALM XIX. First part. Short metre.

The book of nature and scripture.

For a Lord's-day morning

BEHOLD the tofty fky

Declars its Maker God,

And at his flarry works on turn.

And an his flarry works on high Proctain his pow'r abroac.

- 2 Tree darkness and the light Stir keep their course the fame; White night of ay and day to night, Divinely teach his name.
- In ev'ry diff'rent land
 Their gen'ral voice is known;
 They flow the wonders of his hand,
 and orders of his throne.
- A America, rejoice!
 He here reveals his word;
 We are not left to nature's voice
 To bid us know the Lord.
- 5 His flatutes and commands
 Arc for by fore our eyes;
 He puts his gooded in our hands,
 Valuere our favation lies.
- 6 His laws are just and pure; his truth without deceit; His promifes forever ture, and his rewards are great.
- Not boney to the tafte
 affords fo much delight;
 Nor gold, which has the furnace paft;
 So much allures the fight.
- White of thy works I fing.
 Thy glory to prociaim,
 Accept the praife, my God, my King,
 In my Redeemer's name 4

S A L M XIX. Second part. Short metre.

God's word most excellent; or, sincerity and watchfulne/s.

For a Lora's-day morning.

BEHOLD the morning fun

Begins his giorious way!

His beams through all the nations rue,

And life and light convey.

2 But where the gospel comes, It spreads diviner light; It calls dead sinners from their tombs, And gives the blind their fight.

3 How perfect is thy word!
And all thy judgments just;
For ever fure thy promise, Lord,
And men securely trust.

My gracious God, how plain Are thy directions giv'n!

O may I never read in vain,
But find the path to heav'n!

PAWSE.

5 Thear thy word with love, And I would fain obey; Send thy good Spirit from above To guide me, left I fray.

6 O who can ever find
The errors of his ways;
Yet, with a boid prefumptuous mind
I would not dare transgress.

7 Warn me of ev'ry in; Forgive my fecret faults, And cleanfe this guilty foul of mine, Whose crimes exceed my thoughts.

While with my heart and tongue I fpread thy praise abroad, Accept the worship and the song, My Saviour and my God.

PSALM XIX. Long metre.

The books of nature and scripture compared or ; the glory and success of the go pel.

THE heav'ns declare thy glory, Lord!
In ev'ry flar thy wisdom shines:
But, when our eyes behold thy word,
We read thy name in fairer lines.

- 2. The rolling fun, the changing light; And nights, and days, thy pow'r confess; But the biest volume thou hast writ Reveals thy justice and thy grace.
- 3 Sun, moon and stars, convey thy praise Round the whoic earth, and never stand: So, when the truth began its race, It touch'd it glanc'd, on ev'ry land,
- 4 Nor shall thy spreading gospel rest 'Till through the world thy truth has run; 'Till Christ has all the nations biest Which see the light, or feel the sun.
- 5 Great Sun of righteouthers, arife!
 Blefs the dark world with heav'nly light;
 Thy gospel makes the timple wise;
 Thy laws are pure, thy judgments right.
- 6 Thy nobleft wonders here we view, In fouls renew'd, and fine forgie'n: Lord, cleanfe my fine, my foul renew, And make thy word my guide to heav'n.

P S A L M XIX. Particular metre.

The books of nature and Scripture.

GREAT God! the heav'ns well order'd frame Declares the giories of thy name;

There thy rich works of wonder fine : A thousand starry beauties there, A thousand radiant warks appear Of boundies power, and skill divine.

2 From night to day, from day to night, The dawning and the dying light, Lectures of heav nly wisdom read: With filent eloquence, they raife Our thoughts to our Creator's praise.

Yet, their divine instructions run

Far as the journies of the fun;
And ev'ry nation knows their voice: The fun like fome young bridegroom dreft. Breaks from the chambers of the east,

And neither found nor language need.

Rolls round, and makes the earth rejoice.

A Where e'er he spreads his beams abroad He smiles, and speaks his Maker God. All nature joins to fhew thy praife; Thus, God in ev'ry creature shines ; Fair is the book of nature's lines, But fairer is thy book of grace.

PAUSE.

s I love the volumes of thy word; What light and jay those leaves afford To fouls benighted and diffrest! Thy precepts guide my doubtful way; Thy fear forbids my feet to fliay; Thy promise reads my soul to rest.

6 From the discov'ries of thy law, The perfect rules of life I draw; These are my study and delight; Nor honey fo invites the tafte, Nor gold, which hath the furnace past, Appears so pleasing to the fight.

y Thy threat'nings wake my flumb'ring eyes, And warn me where my danger lies!
But 'tis thy bleffed golpel Lord,
Which makes my guilty confeience clean;
Converts my foul, fubdues my fin,

And gives a free, but large reward!

8 Who knows the errors of his thoughts?

My God, forgive my fecret faults,

And from preturn of the reference.

And from prefumpt ous fine restrain;
Accept my poor attempts of praise,
That I have read thy book of grace,
And book of nature, not in vain.

PSALM XX. Long metre.

Prayer and hope of cillory.

For a day of prayer in time of war.

Now may the God of pow'r and grace
Attend his people's humble cry!

Jehovah hears when I/r'el prays,

And brings deliv'rance from on high.

- 2. The name of Jacob's God defends Better than shields, or brazen walls; He, from his sanctuary sends Succour and strength, when Zion calls.
- 3 Well he remembers all our fight; his love exceeds our best defects; His love accepts the facrifice of humble groans and broken hearts.
- 4 In his falvation is our hope, And in the name of Isr'el's God, Our troops shall lift their banners up, Our navies spread their flags abroad.
- 5 Some trust in horses train'd for war, And some of chariots make their boasts & Our furest expectations are From thee, the Lord of heavinly hosts.

76 O may the mem'ry of thy name Infpire our armies for the fight! Our foes shall fall and die with shame, Or quit the field with shameful slight.

7 Now fave us, Lord, from flavish fear; Now let our hopes be firm and strong, Then let falvation foon appear, And joy and triumph raise the fong.

PSALM XXI. Common metre.

America the care of heaven.

UR States, O Lord, with fongs of praise
Shall in thy strength rejoice;
And, blest with thy salvation, raise
To heav'n their cheerful voice.

2 Thy fure defence thro' nations round Has fpread thy glorious name;
And our fuccefsful actions crown'd
Thy majefty with fame.

3 Then let our States on God alone For time y aid rely! His mercy, which adorns his throne, Shali all our wants fuppiy.

A But, righteous Lord, thy stubborn fose Shall feel thy dreadful hand;
Thy vengeful arm shall find out those

Who hate thy mild command.

5 When thou against them dost engage,
Thy just, but dreadful doom
Shall, like a fiery oven's rage,

Their hopes, and them, confume.

6 Thus, Lord, thy wond'rous pow'r declare And thus exait thy fame: Whilft we glad fongs of praife prepare For thine almighty name.

Es

PSALM XXI. Long metre.

Christ exalted to the kingdom.

AVID rejoic'd in God his strangth.
Rais'd to the throne by special grace.
But, Christ, the Son appears at length,
Fulfils the triumph and the praise;

2 How great is the Mchain's joy In the favation of thy hand! Lord, thou hast rais'd his kingdom high, And giv'n the world to his command.

3 Thy goodness grants what e'er he will, Not doth the least request withhold, "" Blessings of love prevent him still, And crowns of glory, not of gold.

4 Honor and majefty divine, Around his facred temples thine; Bleft with the favor of thy face, And length of everlating days.

5 Thine hand shall find out all his fees; And, as a fery oven glows With r. ing heat, and living coals, So shall thy wrath devour their souls.

PSALM XXII. First part.

The sufferings and death of Christ.

If Y has my God my foul for fook,

Nor will a spile as ford?

Thus David once in anguish spoke,

And thus our dying Lord.

2 Though tis thy chief delight, to dwell a mong thy praising faints;

Yet thou can'A hear a groan as well And pity our complaints.

Our Fathers trusted in thy name, And great deliv'rance found;

But I'm a worm despis'd of men, And trodden to the ground.

4 Shaking the head, they pass me by, And laugh my foul to scorn: In vain be trusts in God, they cry, Neglested and forlors.

But thou art he who form'd my flesh.

By thine almighty word:

And fince I hung upon the breaft My hope is in the Lord.

Why will my Father hide his face When foes frand threat ning round, In the dark hour of deep duffield, And not a helper found?

PAUSE.

7 Behold thy Darling, left among The cruel and the proud! As buils of B fban, fierce and fir ong,

And lious, roaring loud.

8 From earth and hell my forrows meet, To multiply the fmart; They nail my hands, they pierce my feet, And try to vex my heart.

9 Yet, if thy fov'reign hand let loose The rage of earth and hell, Why will my heav'nly Pather bruise

The Son he loves fo well?

zo My God, if possible it be,

Withhold this bitter cup; But I reagn my will to thee, And drink the forrows up.

II My heart difforces with pangs unknown; In groans I waste my breath: Tay heavy hand hath brought me down

Low as the dust of death.

12 Father, I give my spirit up,
And trust it in thy hand:
My dying slesh shall rest in hope,
And rife at thy command.

PSALM XXII. Second part, Christ's sufferings and kingdom.

"OW from the roaring lim's rage,
"O Lord, protest thy Son!

Nor leave thy darling to engage

"The pow'rs of hell alone.

2 Thus did the fuff'ring Saviour pray, With mighty cries and tears: God heard him, in that dreadful day, And chas'd away his fears.

3 Great was the vict'ry of his death, His throne exalted high; And all the kindreds of the earth Shall worship, or shall die.

4 A num'rous offspring must arise From his expiring groans; They shall be reckon'd in his eyes,

For daughters and for fons,

5 The meek and humble fouls shall see
His table richly spread;
And all who seek the Lord, shall be

With joys immortal fed.

6 The iffes shall know the rightcousiness
Of our incarnate God,
And nations, yet unborn, profess
Salvation in his blood.

PSALM XXII. Long metre,

Christ's sufferings and exaltation.

NOW, let our mountful songs record

The dying forrows of our Lord:

When he complain'd in tears and blood, As one forfalen of his God.

2 The Jour behold him thus forlorn, And shake the head, and taugh in fourn;

"He refcu'd others from the grave,

"Now, let him try himself to fave.

" 3 This is the man did once pretend " God was his Father, and his Friend;

" If God the bleffed lov'd him fo,

" Why doth he tail to help him now?"

4 Barbarous people; cruel priefts! How they frand round like favage beafts: Like lions, gaping to devour. When God has left him in their pow'r.

5 They wound his head, his hands, his feet, Till fiveams of blood each other meet; By lot his garments they divide, And mock the pangs in which he dy'd.

6 But God his Father heard his cry; Rais'd from the dead, he reigns on high ; The nations learn his righteoufness: And humble finners tafte his grace.

PSALM XXIII. Long metre.

Cod our Shepherd.

MY Shepherd is the living Lord, Now shall my wants be well supply'd: His providence and holy word Become my fafety and my guide

2 In pastures where faivation grows, He makes me feed, he makes me relt : There living water gently flows, And all the food divinely bleft.

3 My wand'ring feet his ways mistalse! But, he rettores my foul to peace;

And leads me, for his mercies fake, In the fair path of righteouspels.

A Though I walk through the gloomy vale, Where death and ait its terrors are, My heart and hope shall never fail, For God my Shepherd's with me there.

5 A midst the darkness and the deeps, Thou art my comfort, thou my stay; Thy staff supports my sceble steps; Thy red directs my doubtful way.

6 The fous of earth, and fons of hell
Gaze at thy goodness, and repime
To fee my table ipread so weil,
With living bread and cheerful wine.
[7 How I rejoice when on my head
Thy Spirit condescenasto reft!
Tis a divine anointing, shed
Like oil of gladness, at a feast.
Surely the mercies of the Lord

Attend his household all their days; There will I dwell, to hear his word, To feek his face, and fing his praise.]

PSALM XXIII. Common metre.

Y Shapherd will fupply my need; Jehovah is his name; In pastu: es tresh he makes me feed, Beside the living stream.

2 He byings my wand'ring spirit back, When I forfake his ways,

And leads me, for his morey stake, In paths of truth and grace.

3 When I walk through the shades of death, Thy presence is my stay:

A word of thy supporting breath Drives all my sears away. 4 Thy hand, in spite of all my foes, Doth still my table spread; My cup with bicslings overslows, Thine oil anoints my head.

5 The fure provisions of my God, Attend me all my days; O may thy House be mine abode, And all my work be praise!

6 There would I find a fettled reft, (While others go and come) No more a ftranger, or a gueft, But, like a child, at home.

PSALM XXIII. Short metre

THE Lord my shepherd is,
I shall be well supply'd
Since he is mine, and I am his,
What can I want beside!

2 He leads me to the place
Where heav'ry pasture grows,
Where living waters gently pass,
And full falvation flows.

3 If e'er I go aftray,

He doth my fout reclaim,

And guides me in his own right way,

For his most hoty name.

4 While he affords his aid,
I cannot yield to fears:
Though! should walk through death's dark shade;
My Shepherd's with me there.

5 In fpite of all my foes
Thou doft my table spread;
My cup with blessings overslows,
And joy exalts my head.

6 The bounties of thy love Shall crown my following days; Nor from thy house will I remove, Nor cease to speak thy praise.

PSALM XXIV. Common metre.

Dwelling with God.

THE earth for ever is the Loid's,
With Adam's num'rous race;
He rais'd its arches o'er the floods,
And built it on the feas.

2 But who, among the fons of men,
May vifit thine abode?
Me who has hands from mischief clean,
Whose heart is right with God.

3 This is the man may rife and take The bleffings of his grace; This is the lot of those, who seek The God of Jacob's face.

A Now. let your foul's immortal pow'rs
To meet the Lord prepare;
Lift up their everlafting doors,
The King of glory's near.

The King of giory! who can tell.
The wonders of his might!
He rules the nations: but to dwell.
With faints, is his delight.

PSALM XXIV. Long metre.

Saints Devell in heaven; or, Christ's ascension.

"His spacious earth is all the Lord's,
And men andworms, and beasts and birds;
He rais'd the building on the seas,
And gave it for their dwelling-place.

2 But there's a brighter place on high, Thy palace, Lord, abov. the sky; Who shall afcend that best abode, And dwell so gear his Maker, God?

The who abbors and fears to fin.
Whose heart is pure, whose hands are clean,
Aim shall the Lord the Saviour blds.
And clothe his foul with rightconfues.

4 These are the men, the pious race, Who seek the God of Jacob's face; These shall enjoy the birsful fight, And dwell in everlasting light?

PAUS .

5 Rejoice, we thining worlds on high, Behold the King of glory's nigh! Who can this King of glory be? The mighty Lord, the Saviour's he.

6 Ye heav'nly gates, your leaves display To make the Lord the Saviour way: Laden with spoils of earth and hell, The conqu'ror comes with God to dwell!

7 Rais'd from the dead he goes before; He opens heav'ns eternal door, To give his faints a bleft abode, Near their Redeemer and their Cod.

PSALM XXV. First part.

Waiting for pardon and directions

I LIFT my foul to God,
My trust is in his name:
Let not my foes who feek my blood,
Still triumph in my shame.

a Sin and the pow'rs of hell Perfuade me to defpair: Lord, make me know thy cov'nant well, That I may 'frape the mare.

3 From the first dawning light, 'Till the dark evining tile, For thy falvation, Lord, I wait, With ever-longing eyes.

4 Remember all thy grace, And lead me in thy truth; Forgive the fins of riper days, And follies of my youth.

5 The Lord is just and kind, The meek shall learn his ways, And ev'ry humble sinner find The methods of his grace.

6 For his own goodness' take,
He faves my foul from shame,
He pardons (though my guit be great)
Through my redeemer's name.

PSALM XXV. Second part. Divine Instruction.

Who fears t' offend his God,
Who loves the gospel's joyful found,
And trembles at the rod?

2 The Lord shall make him know The secrets of his heart; The wonders of his cov'nant show, And all his love impart.

3 The dealings of his hand Are truth and mercy, fill, With fach as to his cov'nant fland, And love to do his will.

A Their fouls shall dwell at ease B-fore their Maker's face; Their feed shall taste the promises, In their extensive grace.

PSALM XXV. Third part.

Distress of 'out; or, backstiding and desertion.

MINE eyes and my defire

Are ever to the Lord;

I love to plead his promifes, And reft upon his word.

2 Turn, turn thee to my foul, Bring thy falvation near; When will thy hand release my feet Out of the deadly fnare?

3 When shall the fov'reign grace Of my forgiving God, Restore me from those dang'rous way! My wand'ring feet have trod?

A The tumult of my thoughts
Doth but enlarge my woe;
My fpirit languiflies, my heart
Is defolate and low.

5 With ev'ry morning light My forrow new begins: Look on my anguish and my pain, And pardon all my fins.

PAUSE.

6 Behold the hofts of hell:
How cruel is their hate!
Against my life they rife, and join
Their fury with deceit.

7 O keep my foul from death, Nor put my hope to shame; For I have plac'd my only trust In my Redeemer's name.

With humble faith I wait
 To fee thy face again:
 Of Ifr'el it shall ne'er be faid,
 He fought the Lord in vain.

PSALM XXVI.

Self-examination; or, evidences of grace.
UDGE me, O Lord, and prove my ways,
And try my reins, and try my heart;

My faith upon thy promife flays wor from thy law my feet depart.

2 I hate to walk. Thate to fit With men or vanity and lies: The fooffer and the hypocrite, Are the abhorrence of mine eyes.

a Among the faints will I appear, With kinds well wain'd in innocence; But when I fland before thy ber, The blood of Christ is my defence,

4 Hove thy habitation, Lord, The temple where thine honors dwell There shall I hear thy holy word. And there thy works of wonder tell.

5 Let not my foul be join'd, at last, With men of treachery and blood, Since I my days, on earth have past Among thy faints, and near my God.

PSALM XXVII. Firji part.

The Church is our delight and Sufety.

THE Lord of glory is my light, And my falvation too; God is my strength; nor will I sear What all my foes can do.

a One privilege my heart defires;
O grant me an abode
Among the churches of thy faints,
The temples of my Ged!

3 There shall I offer my requests,
And see thy beauty shil;
Shall hear thy mesiages of love,
And there er quire thy will.

4 When troubles rife, and ftorms appear, There may his children hide; God has a strong pavilion, where He makes my soul abide,

5 Now shall my head be lifted high Above my fees around; And songs of joy and viet my Within thy temple found.

PSALM XXVII. Second part.

Prayer and Hope.

Soon as I heard my Father fay,
Ye chi'dren feek my grace,
My heart reply'd without de'ay,
I'll feek my father's face.

Let not thy face be hid from me,
Nor frown my foul away:
God of my life, I fly to thee,
In a diffrefing day.

3 Should friends and kindred near and dear, Leave me to want or die, My God would make my life his care, And all my need fupply.

A My fainting flesh had dy'd with grief, Had not my foul believ'd To see thy grace provide relief, Nor was my hope deceiv'd.

5 Wait on the Lord, ye trembling faints
And keep your courage up;
He'll raife your spirit when it faints
And far exceed your hope.

PSALM XXIX. Long metre.

Storm and Thunder.

CIVE to the Lord, ye fons of fame,
Give to the Lord renown and pon'r;
Aferibe due honors to his name,
And his eternal might adore.

2 The Lord proclaims his pow'r aloud, Over the ocean and the land; His voice divides the wat'ry cloud, And light'nings blaze at his command.

3 Me focaks, and tempost, hail and wind, Lay the wide forest bare around: The fearful hart and frighten'd hind, Leap at the terrors of the found.

A To Lebaron he turns his voice, And lo! the frately cedars break, To e mountains tremble at the noise; The valides roar; the defurts quake.

5 The Lord fits for reign on the flood; The Thund'rer reigns forever King; But makes his church his bled abode, Where we his awful glories fing.

6 in gentler language there the Lord, The counfels of his grace imparts: Aminst the raging from his word Speaks peace and courage, to our hearts-

PSALM XXX. First part.

Sickness beal d, and jorrow removed.

WILL extol the e. Lord on high,
At thy command difeates fly
Who but a God, can fpeak and fave
From the dirk borders of the grave?

2 Sing to the Lord, ye faints of his, And tell how large his goodness is; Let all your fow'rs rejoice and beet, While you record his holiness.

His anger but a moment flays; His love is life and length of days: Though grief and tears the might imploy, The morning flay rafters the joy.

PS & LM XXX. Second part.

Health, fickness, and recovery.

I'IRM was my health, my day was bright,
And I prefum'd, 'twould ne'er be night;
Fondly I faid within my heart,
"Fleefure and peace shall ne'er depart."

2 But I forgot thine aon was firong, Which made my mountain fland fo long; Soon as thy face began to hide, My health was gone, my comforts dy'd.

3 I cry'd a ond to thee, my God!
What can't thou profit by my blood?
Deep in the duft can I declare

"Thy truth, or fing thy goodness there!

A" Hear me, O Cod ofgrace! I faid,
"And bring me from among the dead;"
Thy word rebuk'd the pains I feit,
Thy pard'ning love remov'd my guilt.

5 My groans and tears and forms of woe, Are turn'd to joy and praises now; I throw my faceloth on the ground, And ease and gladness gird me round,

6 My tongue, the glory of my frame, Shall ne'er be filent of thy name; Thy praise that! sound through earth and heav'n, For fickness heal'd and fins forgiv'n!

PSALM XXXI. First part.

Deliverance from death.

INTO thine hand, O God of truth,
My spirit I commit;
Thou hast redeem'd my soul from death,
And fav'd me from the pit.

2 The paffions of my hope and fear Maintain'd a double firite,

While forrow, pain, and fin conspir'd To take away my life.

3 My time is in thine band, I cry'd, Though I drawn near the dust; Thou and the refuge where I hide, The God in whom I trust.

4 O make thy reconciled face Upon thy fervant fine. And fave me, for thy mercy's fake, For I'm entirely thine.

[5'Twas in my hafte my fpirit faid, I might defpair and die, I am cut off before thine eyes? But thou hast heard my cry.]

6 Thy goodness, how divinely free!
How wond'rous is thy grace,
To those who fear thy Majesty,
And trust thy promises!

7 O love the Lord, all ye his faints, And fing his praifes loud; He'll lend his ear to your complaints, And recompense the proud.

PSALM XXXI. Second part.

Deliverance from flander and reproach,

MY heart rejoices in thy name.
My God, my kelp, my Truft;
Thou haft preferv'd my face from shame,
Mine honor from the dust.

2 "My life is fpent with grief, I cry'd,
"My years confum'd in groans,
My ftrength decays, mine eyes are dry'd,
"And forrow waites my bones."

Among mine enemies, my name Was a mere proverb grown, While to my neighbors I became Forgotten and unknown.

4 Slander and fear, on ev'ry & 'e Seiz'd and befet me round: Ito the throne of grace apply'd, And speedy resour found.

PAUSE.

5 How great deliv's ance thou has a wrought, Before the fo s of men!

The fying lips to filence brought, And made their boaffing vain!

6 Thy children from the first of tongues, Shall thy pavillion saide,

Guard them from infamy and wrongs, And cruth the fons of pride.

y Within thy fecret prefence, Lord, Let me forever dwell;

No tenced city wall'd and barr'd Secures a faint so well.

PSALM KXXII. Short metre.

Forgiveness of fin upon corfession,

O BLESSED fouls are they
Whose fins are cover'd o'er!
Divinely b'est, to whom the Lord
Imputes their guilt no more.

2 They mourn their fallies paft, And keep their hearts with care; Their lips and haves, without deceit, Shall prove their faith fincere.

While I conceal'd my guilt, I felt the feft'ring wound,

Till I confess'd my fins to thee, Axe ready pardon found. A Let finners learn to pray; Let faints keep near the throne; Our help in times of deep diffres; It found in God alone!

PSALM' XXXII. Common metre. Free pardon and fineere obsidience; or, confession and forgiveness.

APPY the man to whom his God No more imputes his fin, But wash'd in the Redeemer's blood, Hath made his garments clean!

2 Happy, beyond expression he, Whose debts are thus discharg'd! And from the guilty bondage free, He feels his soul enlarg'd.

3 His fpirit hates deceit andlies; His words are all fincere;

He guards his hear:, he guards his eyes
To keep his confeience clear.

While I my inward suilt supprest, No quiet could I find; Thy wrath lay burning in my breast, And rack'd my tortur'd mind.

5 Then, I confess'd my troubled thoughts,
My scoret sins reveal'd;
The particular space for case my faults.

Thy pard'ning grace forgave my faults, Thy love my pardon feat'd.

6 This shall invite thy faints to pray; While, like a raging flood,

Temptations rife, our fireigth and ftay Is a forgiving God.

PSALM XXXII. First port. L. Metre.

Repentance and free pardon; or, Justification and Sanctification.

BLEST is the man, foreverbleft, Whose guilt is pardon'd by his God;

Whose fins, with forrow, are confess'd, And cover'd with a Saviour's blood.

2 Bleft is the man, to whom the Lord Imputes not his iniquities; He pleads no merit of reward, And not on works, but grace, relies.

3 From guile, his heart and lips are free 3 His humble joy, his holy fear With deep repentance well agree, And join to prove his faith fincere.

4 How glorious is that righteoufnefs Which hides and cancels all his fins! White a bright evidence of grace, Through his whole life appears and fhincs.

PSALMXXXII. Second part. Long metre, Aguilty con exerce ealed by confission and parden. While I keep filence, and conceal My heavy guilt within my heart. What torments doth my confcience fee! What as onles of inward finart.

2 I spread my fins before the Lord, And all my secret sauts confess; Thy gospel speaks a pardining word, Thy holy spirit seals the grace.

3 For this shall every humble soul Make swift addresses to thy seat; When sloods of huge temptations roll, There shall they and a blest retreat.

4 How fafe beneath thy wings I lie,
When days grow dark, and from sappear!
And when I walk, thy watchful eye
Shall guide me fafe, from ev'ry fnare.
PSALM XXXIII. First part. Com. met.

Works of creation and Providence.

R EJOICE, ye nighteous, in the Lord,
This work belongs to you;

Sing of his name, his ways, his word, How holy, just and true!

2 His mercy and his righteousnesse. Let heav'n and earth prochaim; His works of nature and of grace Reveal his wond'rous name,

3 His wif.lom and aimighty word The heav'nly arches fpread; And by the spirit of the Lord Their shining botts were made.

A He bade the liquid waters flow To their appointed deep; The flowing teas their limits know, And their own flation keep.

5 Ye tenants of the spacious carth, With sear before him stand; He spake, and nature took its birth, And rests on his command.

 6 He fooms the angry nations' rage, And breaks their vain defigns;
 His counfel stands through ev'ry age, And in full glory thines.

PSALM XXXIII. Second part. Com. metro

Creatures vain, and God ell-infficient.

DLEST is the nation where the Lord

Hath fix'd his glorious throne:

Where he reveals his heav'nly word,

And calls their tribes his own

a His eye with infinite furvey,
Does the whole world behold:
He form'd us all, of equal clay,
And knows our feeble mould.

3 Kings are not rescu'd, by the sorce Of armies, from the grave;

Mor speed nor courage of a horse Can the bold rider save.

Vain is the strength of beasts or men,
 To hope for fafety thence;
 But holy fouls from God obtain
 A strong and sure defence.

God is their fear, and God their truft, When plagues of famine forcad; Mis watchful eye feenres the just, Among ten thousand dead.

 Lord, let our hearts in thee rejoice, And blefs us from thy throne;
 For we have made thy word our choice, And trust thy grace alone.

PSALM XXXIII. As the 115th Pfales. First part.

Works of creation and providence.

YE holy fouls, in God rejoice,
Your maker's praife becomes your voise.
Greatis your theme, your fongs benew:
Sing of his name, his word, his ways,
Ilis works of nature and of grace.
How wife and holy, just and true!

2 Justice and truth he ever loves.
And the whole earth his goodness proves;
His word the heav'nly arches spread;
How wide they shine from north to fouth I And by the spirit of his mouth
Were all the starry armies made.

3 He gathers the wide flowing feas, Those wat'ry treasures know their place In the vast store-house of the deep; He spake, and gave all nature birth, And fires, and feas, and heav'n and earth, Mis everlasting orders keep.

64 PSALM XXXIII. XXXIV.

A Let morta's tremble and adore

A God of fuch refittees pow'r;
Nor dare induge their feeblerage;
Vain are your thoughts, and weak your hands,
But, his eternal counfel ftands,
And rules the world, from age to age.

PSALM XXXIII. Second part.

Creatures vain, and God all-fuficient.

O HAPPY nation, where the Lord
Reveals the treafure of his word,
And builds his Church, his carthly throne!

His eye the heathen world furveys,
He form'd their hearts, he knows their ways,
But God their maker is unknown.

2. Let kings rely upon their hoft,
And of his strength the champion boost;
In vain they boost, in vain rely;
In vain we trust the brutal force,
Or speed, one courage of a borse,
To guard his rider or to fly.

3 The eye of thy compatition, Lord, Doth more fecure defence afferd, When death or dangers threathing frand: Thy watchful eye preferes the fuft, Who make thy name their rear and truft, When wars of famine wafte the land.

A In fickness or the bloody field,
Thou our physician, thou our shield,
Send us faivation from thy hinne:
We want to feel up a podness shine;
Let us rejoine in hosp divine.
For all our hope is God alone.

PSALM XXXII. First part. Longmetre.

God's care of the reinte; or deliverance by prayer.

ORD, I will bless thee all my days,

Thy praise shall dwell upon my tongue;

My foul shall slory in thy grace, While faints rejoice to hear the tong.

2 Come, maenify the Lord with me; Come, let us all exalt his name; I fought the Eternal God, and he Has not expos'd my hope to shame.

a I told him all my fecret grief, My fecret groanings reach his ears: He have my inward pains relief, And calm'd the tumult of my fears.

4 To him the poor lift up their eyes Their faces feel the heavinity shine: A beam of mercy from the skies Fills them with light and joy divine.

5 His holy angels pitch their tents Around the men who ferve the Lord: O fear and love him, all ye faints, Taste of his grace, and trust his word!

6 The wild young Lions, pinch'd with pair And hunger, roar through all the wood: But none thall feek the Lord in vain, Nor want supplies of real good.

PSALM XXXIV. Second part. Long metre.

Religious education; or, instructions of piety.

CHILDREN in years and knowledge young,
Your parents' hope, your parents' joy.

Attend the counsels of my tongue,
Let pious thoughts your minds emplay.

2 If you defire a length of days, And peace to crown your mortal flate Restrain your feet from impious ways; Your lipe from slander and deceit.

3 The eyes of God regard his faints, His ears are open to their cries: The fets his frowning face against. The fons of violence and lies.

4 To humble fouls and broken hearts, God with his grace is ever nigh; Purdon and hope his love imparts, When men in deep contrition lie.

5 He tells their tears, he counts their groans, His Son redeems their fouls from death; His fpirit heals their broken bones; They in his praife employ their breath.

P S A L M XXXIV. First part. Com. metre.

Prayer and praise for eminent deliverances.

LL blefe the Lord fromday to day;
How good are all his ways!
Ye humble fouls who use to pray.
Come, help my lips to praise.

2 Sing to the honor of his name, How a poor finner cry'd! Nor was his hope expos'd to fhame, Nor was his fuit deny'd.

3 When threat'ning forrows round me ftood, And endless fears arose,

Like the loud billows of a flood, Redoubling all my woes!

A I toid the Lord my fore diffres, With heavy groans and tears? He gave my fharpeft torments eafe, And filene'd all my feurs.

PAUSE.

15 O finners come and tafte his love, Come, learn his pleafant ways, And let your own experience prove The fweetness of his grace.

6 He hids his angels pitch their tents Round where his chikken dwell;

PSALM XXXIV.

What ills their heav'nly care prevents, No earthly tongue can tell.] It O love the Lord, ye faints of his!

17 O love the Lord, ye faints of his! His eye regards the just; How richly bleft their portion is, dow richly bleft their portion is, Who make the Lord their truft!

8 Younglions pinch'd with hunger rear; And familh in the wood; But God supplies his holy poor, With ev'ry needful good.]

PSALM XXXIV. Second part Com. metre.

Exhortation to peace and holinefs.

COME, children, learn to fear the Lord.
And that your days be long,
Let not a faile or fpiteful word
Be found upon your tongue.

 Depart from mischief, practise love, Pursue the works of peace:
 So shall the Lord your ways approve, And set your souls at ease.

3 His eyes awake to guard the just,
His ears attend their cry:
When broken spirits dwell in dust,
The God of grace is nigh.

A What though the forrows here they tafte Are sharp and tedious too. The Lord, who saves them all at laft;

The Lord, who faves them all at last Is their supporter now!

5 Evil shall smite the wicked dead; But God secures his own; Prevents the mischief when they slide, Or heals the broken bone.

When defolation, like a flood, O'er the proud finner rolls, Saints find a refuge in their God, For he redeems their fouls.

PSALM XXXV. First part. Com. metre, Proper and faith of perf. cuted faints; or, Impresations mixt with charity.

NOW plead my cause, Almighty God,
With all the Lors of strife:

And fight against the nien of blood, Who fight against my life.

2 Draw out the spear and stop their way, Lift thine avenging rod; But, to my foul in mercy, say, I am thy Saciour God.

3 They plant their fuares to catch my feet, And nets of mifchief foread; Plunge the destroyers in the pit

Which their own hands have made.

4 Let fogs and darkness hide their way.

And flipp'ry be their ground:
Thy wrath shall make their lives a prey,
And all their rage confound.

5 They fly like chaff before the wind, Before thine anny breath; The angel of the Lord behind, Purfues them down to death.

6 They love the road which leads to hell; Then let the rebels die, Whose malice is implacable

Against the Lord most high,
7 But, if thou hast a chosen few

Among that impious race, Divide them from the bloody crew, By thy furprifing grace.

Then will I raise my tuneful voice To make thy wenders known: In their falvation I'd rejoice, And blefs thee for my own.

PSALM XXXV. Second part. Com. met.

I ove to enimies; or, the love of Christ, to finiers, typisted in David.

BEHOLD the love, the gen'rous love, Which holy David thows!
Hark, how his founding bowels move To his afficited foes!

2 When they are fick, his foul complains, And feems to feel the finant; The spirit of the gospel reigns, And melts his pious heart.

3 How did his flowing tears condole As for a brother dead! And, faking, mortify'd his ford, While for their life he pray'd.

4 They groan'd and curs'd him on their bad, Yet fail he pleads and mourns; And double bieffings on his head

And double bletlings on his head The rightcous Lord returns.

5 O glorious type of heav'nly grace!
The Christ the Lord a pears;
While sinners curse, the Saviour prays,
And pities them with tears!

6 He, the true Bavid, Ifrael's King, Bleft and belov'd of God, To fave us, rebels dead in fin, Paid his own dearett blood.

PSALM XXXVI. Long metre?

The perfections and providence of God; or al providence and special grace.

High in the neavins, Eternal God,
Thy goodness in full glory, suinces

Which veils and darkens thy defigns.

2 For ever firm thy justice stands, As mountains their foundations keep; Wife are the wonders of thy hands, Thy judgements are a mighty deep.

3 Thy providence is kind and large, Both man and beaft thy bounty share; The whole creation is thy charge, But, saints are thy peculiar care.

4 My God! how excellent thy grace, Whence all our hope or comfort iprings! The fons of Adam, in diffrefs, Fry to the shadow of thy sings.

5 From the provision of thy house We shal be fed with livest repast; There mercy, like a river flows, And brings salvation to our taste.

6 Life, like a fountain, rich and free, Springs from the prefence of the Lord; And in thy light our fouls shall fee The glories promis'd in thy word.

PSALM XXXVI. Com. metre.

Practical Atheim exposed; or, the Being and Attributes of God afferted.

My heart within me often fays,

Their thoughts believe there's none.
2 Their thoughts and ways at once declare,

(What e'er their lips profefs)
God hath no wrath for them to fear,
Nor will they feek his grace.

What strange felf-flattery blinds their eyes!
But there's a hastining hour

When they shall fee with fore furprife, The terrors of thy pow'r.

4 Thy justice shall maintain its throne, Though mountains melt away: Thy judgements are a world unknown, A deep unfathom'd fea.

5 Above these heaven's created rounds, Thy mercies, Lord, extend: Thy truth out-lives the narrow bounds Where time and nature end.

6 Safety to man thy goo mess brings, Nor overlooks the beaft: Beneath the shadow of thy wings Thy children choose to rest.

7 From thee, when creature-streams run low, And mortal comforts die. Perpetual forings of life shall flow,

And raise our pleasures high,

3 Though all created light decay, And death close up our eyes, Thy presence makes eternal day, Where clouds can never rife.

PSALM XXXVI. Short metre.

The wickedness of man, and the majesty of God: or, pradical Atheism exposed.

THEN man grows bold in fin, My heart within me, cries, He bath no faith of God within, No fear before his eyes.

2 [He walks a while conceal'd In a felf-flat'ring dream; 'Till his dark crimes, at once reveal'd, Expose his hateful name.]

3 His heart is false and foul. Let's words are importh and fair: Wisdom is banish'd from his soul, And leaves no goodness there,

4 He plots upon his had, New mischiefs to fulfil. He sets his heart, and hand, and head, To practice all that's int.

5 But there's a dream a God,
Though men renound his fear;
His justice, hid behind the cloud,
Shall one great day appear.

6 His truth transcends the fky,
In it aver his my vies dwell;
Door at the far his and broats it

Deep as the feathis judgments lie, His anger burns to hell.

 How excellent his love, Whence all out tafety fprings!
 never let my foul remove From underneath his wings.

PSALM XXXVII. First part.

The cure of enry, fretfulness and unbelief; or the Rewards of the right-ous and the wicked; or, the world's hatred and the saint's patience.

WHY should I vex my foul-and fret
To fee the wicked rife?
Or envy finners waxing great
By violence and lies?

2 As flow'ry grafs cut down at noon, Before the ev'ning fades, So shall their glories vanish foon, In everlasting shades.

3 Then let me make the Lord my truft, And practile all that's good: So shall I dwell among the just, and he'll provide me food.

And cheerful wait his will;

Thy hand which guides my doubtful feet, Shall my defires fulfil.

5 Mine innocence shalt thou display, And make thy judgments known, Fair as the light of dawning day, And glorious as the noon.

6 The meek, at last, the earth possess And are the heirs of heav'n: True riches, with abundant peace, To humble sou's are giv'n

PAUSE.

7 Roft in the Lord, and keep his way: Nor let your anger rife, Though Providence shouldling delay To punish haughty vice.

8 Let finners join to break your peace. And plot, and rage, and foam;

The Lord derides them; for he fees
Their day of vengeance come.

They have drawn out their threat'ning fword,
Have bent the murd'rous bow,
 To flay the men who tear the Lord,
And bring the righteous low.

to My God shall breaktheir bows, and burn Their perfecuting darts; Shalltheir own swords against them turn,

And pain furprife their hearts.

PSALM XXXVII. Second part
Charity to the poor; or, Religion in awords & deeds

WHY do the wealthy wicked boaft,
And grow profenely bold?
The meanest portion of the just
Excells the finners' gold!

The wicked borrows of his friends, But ne'er defigns to pay; The faint is merciful, and lends, Nor turns the poor away.

3 His alms, with liberal heart, he gives, Among the fens of need: His mem'ry to long ages lives, And bic fled is his feed.

4 His lips abhor to talk profanc, To flander or defraud; His ready tongue declares to men What he tas learn'd of God.

5 The law and gospel of the Lord Deep in his heart abide: Led by the Spirit and the Word, His feet shall never slide.

6When finners fall, the righteous ftand Preferv'd, from ev'ry fnare; They shall possess the promis'dland, And dwell forever there.

PSALM XXXVII. Thirdpart.

The way and end of the righteous and the wicker,

MY God, the steps of pious men
Are order'd by thy will;
Though they should fall, they rise again;
Thy hand supports them still.

The Lord delights to fee their ways; Their virtue he approves: He'll ne'er deprive them of his grace, Nor leave the men he loves.

The heav'nly heritage is their's,
Their portion and their home:
He feeds them now, and makes them h

He feeds them, now, and makes them heirs, ... Of bleflingslong to come,

Wait on the Lord, ye fons of men, Nor fear, when tyrants frown; Ye shall confess their pride was vain, When justice casts them down.

P A U S E.

5 The haughty finner have I feen, Not fearing man nor God, Like a tall bay-tree, fair and green, Spreading his arms abroad.

6 And, lo! he vanish'd from the ground, Destroy'd by hands unseen! Nor root, nor branch, nor leaf was found Where all that pride had been.

7 But, mark the man of righteoufness, His tev'ral fteps attend; True pleafure runs through all his ways, And peaceful is his end.

PSALM XXXVIII.

Cuilt of contrience, and relief; or, Repentance and prayer for pardon and health.

A MIDST thy wrath, remember love; Reftore thy fervant, Lord: Nor let a father's chaft'ning prove Like an aveuger's fword.

2 Thise arrows flick within my heart, My flesh is forely prest: Between the forrow and the smart, My spirit finds no rest.

My fins a heavy load appear, And o'er my head are gone; Too heavy they for me to bear, Too hard for me t'atone.

My thoughts are like a troubled fea, My head ftill bending down; And I go mourning all the day Beneath my Father's frown.

5 Lord, I am weak and broken fore, None of my pow'rs are whole; The inward anguith makes me roar; The anguith of my foul.

6 All my defire to thee is known,
Thine eye counts ev'ry tear,
And ev'ry figh, and ev'ry groan
Is notic'd by thine car.

7 Thou art my God my only hope; My God will hear my cry;

My God will bear my spirit up When fatan bids me die.

My foot is ever apt to flide,
 My foes rejoice to fee't;
 They rafe their pleafure and their pride,
 When they supplant my feet.

9 But I'll confessing quitto thee, And grieve for all my fin: Bit mourn, how weak my graces be, And beg support divine.

My God, forgive my follies pask
 And be forever nigh;
 C Lord of my falvation haste,
 Before thy fervant die.

PSALM' XXXIX. First part.

Watchfulne's ever the tongue; or, Prudence &

THUS I refolv'd before the Lord,
"Now will I watch my tongue,
"Left I let flip one finfut word
"Or do my neighbour wrong."

2 And if I'm e'er conftrain'd to flay. With men of fives profane, I'il fet a double guard, that day, Norlet my talk be vain. 3 I'll fearce ailow my lips to speak
The pious thoughts I hel,
Lest feoffers should the occasion take
To mock my holy zeal.

4 Yet if fome proper hour appear, Pil not be over a w'd, But let the fooffing finners hear That I can speak for God.

PSALM XXXIX. Second part.

The vanity of Man, as mortal.

TE ACH me the measure of my days, Thou Maker of my frame; I would survey life's narrow space, Aud'earn how frait I am.

- 2 A span-is all which we can boast, An inch or two of time: Man is but vanity, and dust, In all his flow'r and prime.
- 3 See! the vain race of mortals move Like shadows o'er the plain; They rage and strive, defire and love, But all their noise is vain!
- 4 Some walk in honor's gaudy fhow; Some dig for golden ore; Taey toll for heirs they know not who, And straight are seen no more.
- 5 What could I wish or wait for, then, From creatures earth and dust?
 They make our expectations vain,
 And disappoint our trust.
- .6 Now I forbid my carnal hope, My fond delires recall; I give my mortal int'reft up, And make my God my All.

PSALM XXXIX. Third part.

Sick-bed devotion; or, Pleading without repining.

OD of my life! look gently down,
Behold the pains I feel;
But, I am dumb before thy throne,
Nor dare dispute thy will.

- Difeases are thy fervants. Lord,
 They come at thy command:
 I'il not attempt a murm'ring word.
 Against thy chast'ring hand.
- 3 Yet may I plead with humble cries, Remove thy sharp rebukes; My strength consumes, my spirit dies, Through thy repeated strokes
- 4 Crush'd, as the moth beneath thy hand, W moulder to the dust;
 Our feeble pow'rs can ne'er withstand,
 And all our beauty's lost.
- Is This mortal life decays apace:
 How from the bubble's broke!
 Adam, and all his num'rous race,
 Are vanity and smoke.]
- 6 I'm but a fojourner below,
 As ail my fathers were;
 May I be well prepar'd to go,
 When I the fummons hear!
- 7 But, if my life be fpar'd a-while, Before my last remove, Thy praise shall be my bus'ness still, And I'il decare thy love.

PSALM XL. First part. Com. metre.

A song of deliverance from great distress.

WAITED patient for the Lord, He bow'd to hear my cry;

He faw me refling on his word, And brought faivation nigh.

2 He rais'd me from a horrid pit, Where mourning long I lay, And, from my bonds releas'd my feet. (Deep bonds of miry clay.)

3 Firm on a rock he made me fland, And taught my cheerful tongue To praise the wonders of his hand In a new thankful fong.

4 I'll foread his works of grace abroad; The faints, with joy, shall hear ; And finners learn to make my God Their only hope and fear.

5 How many are thy thoughts of love! Tny mercies, Lord, how great ! We have not words nor hours enough Their numbers to repeat.

6 When I'm afflicted, poor, and low, And light and peace depart, My God beholds my heavy woe, And bears me on his heart.

PSALM XL. Second part. Com. metre. The incarnation and facrifice of Christ.

HU3 faith the Lord, "Your work is vain, "Give your burnt off'rings o'er; " In dying goats, and bullocks flain " My foul delights no more."

2 Then fpake the Saviour, " Lo! I'm here, "My God, to do thy will;

Whate'er thy facred books declare "Thy fervant thall fu. Al.

3 " Thy Law is ever in my fight, " I keep i thear my heart :

H 2

- "Mine ears are open'd with delight, "To what thy lips impart."
- And, fee! the bleft Redeemer comes!
 The Eternal Son appears!
 And, abth' appointed time, affumes
 The body God prepares.
- 5 Much He reveal'd his Father's grace, And much His truth he shew'd, And preach'd the way of righteousness, Where great assemblies stood.
- 6 His Father's honor touch'd his hart, He pity'd finner's cries, An' to fuifil a faviour's part, Was made a facrifice.
- PAUSE.
 7 No blood of beaftson attars field,
 Could wash the confeience clean;
 Buttle ich facifice he paid
 Atones for all our fin!
 - 8 Then was the great falvation fpread, And fatan's kingdom shook:
 Thus, by the woman's promis'd feed,
 The serpent's head was broke.

PSALM XL. Long metre.

Christ our lacrifice.

THE wonders, Lord, thy love has wrought,
Exceed our praise, furmount our thought;
Should I attempt the long detail,
My speech would faint, my numbers fail.

- 2 No blood of beafts on alters spilt Can cleante the fouls of men from guilt; But, thou haft fet before our eyes, An all-sufficient factisce
- 3 Lo! thine Eternal Son appears, To thy demands he bows his ears;

Affumes a body, well prepar'd, And well performs the work to hard.

4 " Hehold I come (the Saviour cries,

With love and duty in his eyes)

"I come, to bear the heavy load "Of fine, and do thy will, my God.

5 "'Tis written in thy great decree,

"Tis in thy book foretold of me,

"I Must fulfil the Saviour's part, "And to! thy law is in my heart.

6 " I'll magnify thy holy law,

"And rebels to obed'ence draw
"When on my crofs I'm lifted high,

"Or, on my throne above the sky.

7 "The Spirit shall descend and show "What thou hast doneand what I do;

"The wond'ring world fliall learn thy grace,

"Thy wildom and thy right could be?"

PSALM XLI. Long metre.

Charity to the poor ; or, Pity to the afflicted.

BLEST is the man whose bowels move, And must with pity to the poor; Whose soul, by sympathizing love, Feels what his fellow-faines endure.

a His heart contrives for their relief. More good than his own hands can do; He, in the time of; en'ral grief, Shall find the Lord has bowels, too.

3 His foul shall live secure on earth, With secret bessions on his head, When drought, and pestilence and death, Around him multiply their dead.

4 Or, if he languish on his couch, God will pronounce his fine forgiv'n;

Will fave him with a healing touch, Or take his willing foul to heav'n.

PSALM XI.II. First part.

Defertion and hope; or, Complaint of absence from public quorship.

WITH earnest longings of the mind,
My God; to thee I look!
So pants the hunted hart, to find,
And taste, the cooling brook.

- 2 When shall I see thy courts of grace, And meet my God again?
 So long an absence from thy face
 My heart endures with pain.
- 3 Temptations vex my weary foul, And tears are my repalt; The foe infults, without controul, And where's your God at last?
- 4 'Tis with a mournful pleafure, now, I think on ancient days,
 Then to thy house did numbers go,
 And all our work was praise.
- 5 But why my foul funk down so far Beneath this heavy load? Why do my thoughts indulge despair, And sin against my God?
- 6 Hope in the Lord, whose mighty hand Can all my wees remove; For I shall yet before him stand, And sing restoring love.

PSALM XLII. Second part.

Melancholy thoughts reproved; or, Hope in affilian.

MY fairlt finks within me, Lord,
But I will call thy name to mind,
And times of past distress record,
When I have found my God was kind.

4 Huge troubles, with tumult'ous noise, Swell, like a fea, and round me inead; Thy water-spouts drown all my joys, And rising waves roll o'er my head.

2 Yet will the Lord command his love, When I address his Throne, by day: Nor, in the night, his grace remove; The night shall hear me fing and pray.

4 Pll cast my se's before his feet.

And say, "My, God my Heav'nly Rock
"Why doth thy ieve, to long forget
"The sour which groans beneath thy stroke"

5 I'll chide my heart, which finks fo low, Why should my foul indulge her grief? Hope in the Lord, and praife him too; Hois my rest, my sure resief.

6 Thy light and truth shall guide me still Thy word shall my best thoughts employ, And lead me to thy heav'nly hill, My God, my most exceeding joy.

PSALM XLiV. Common metre.
The Courch's complaint in perfecution.

ORD, we have heard thy works of old,
Thy works of pow'r and grace;
When to our ears our fathers toid
The wonders of their days.

2 How thou didft build thy Churches here,
 And make thy Gotpel known;
 Among them did thine arm appear;
 Thy light and glory flione!

3 In God they boafied all the day, And, in a creerful throng Did thousands meet, to praise and pray, And grace was all their song.

But, now, our fouls are feiz'd with fhame; Confusion fills our face, To hear the enemy blaspheme, And fools reproach thy grace.

5 Yet have we not forgot our God, Nor faffely dealt with Heav'n, Nor have our fteps dealin'd the road Of duty, thou haft giv 'n?

6 Though Dragons all around us roar With their destrustive breath, And thine own hand has bruis'd us fore, Pland by the gates of death.

PAUST.

7 We are expos'd all day, to die As martyrs, for thy cause; As sheep, for flaughter bound, we lie, By sharp and bloody laws.

8 Awake, arife, Almighty Lord, Why fleeps thy wonted grace? Why fhould we look like men abhor'd, Or banish'd from thy face?

9 Wilt thou forever cast us off, And still neglect our cries? Forever hide thine heav'nly love From our assisted eyes?

no Down to the dust our foul is bow'd, And dies upon the ground; Rife, for our help, rebuke tile proud, And all their pow'r confound.

11 Redeem us from perpet al shame, Our Saviour and our God; We plead the honors of thy name, The merits of thy blood.

PSALM XLV. Short metre.
The glory of Christ; the juccess of the gospel, and the Gentile church.

MY Saviour and my King, Thy beauties are divine; Thy lips with bleflings overflow, And ev'ry grace is thine.

2 Now make thyglory known; Gird on thy dreadful fword. And ride, in majefty, to fpread The conquefts of thy word.

3 Strike through thy flubborn fees, Or melt their hearts t'obey; While judice meeknees, grace and truth; Attend thy glor'ous way.

4 Thy laws, O God, are right;
Thy 'Throne shall ever stand;
And thy victor'ous gospel proves
A sceptre in thy hand.

[5 Thy Father and thy God Hath, without measure, shed His Spirit, like a joyful oil, T'anoint thy facred head.]

[6. Behold, at thy right hand, The Gentile church is feen, Like a fair bride, in rich attire, And Princes guard the Queen.

7 Fair bride, receive his love, Forget thy father's house; Forsake thy gods, thy idol gods, And pay the Lord thy yows.]

8 Olet thy God and King Thy fweetest thoughts employ; Tny children shall his honor sing In palaces of jdy:

PSALM XLV. Common metre The personal glories and government of Chrish I'LL speak the honors of my King, His form divinely saw; None of the fons of mortal race May with the Lord compare.

2 Sweet is thy speech, and heav'nly grace Upon thy lips is shed; Thy God, with bieffings infinite

Hath crown d thy facred head.

3 Gird on thy fword, victorious Prince; Ride, with Majestic fway: Thy terror shall strike through thy foes, And make the world obey.

A Thy throne. O God, forever stands; Thy word of grace shall prove A peaceful fceptre, in thy hands, To rule the faints, by Love.

Justice and truth attend thee, still, But, mercy is thy choice: And God, thy God, thy foul shall fill

With most peculiar joys.

XLV. First part. Long metre. PSALM The glory of Christ, and power of his gofpel.

TOW, be my heart inspired to sing. The giories of my Saviour King, Jefus, the Lord; how heav nly fair His form! how bright his beauties are!

2 O'er all the fons of human race He fames, with a superior grace; Love from his lips divinely flows, And bleffings all his state compole.

2 Drefs thee in arms, most mighty Lorda Gird on the terror of thy tword; In majefty and glory, ride, With truth and meckness at thy fide.

A Thine anger, like a pointed dart, Shall pierce the foes of Rubborn heart; Or, words of mercy, kind and fweet, Shall melt the rebels at thy feet.

5 Thy Throne, O God, forever Rands, Grace is the feeptre in thy hands; Thy laws and works are just and right, Judice and grace are thy delight.

6 Cod, thine own God, has rolly field His oit of gladue is on thy head. And, with his troud Spirit, breft his first-born Son above the rest.

PSALM XLV. Second part Long maire,

Christ and his Church; or, The myfical marriage

TITE King of faints how fair his face!

Adore'd with Maj fly and Grace;
He comes with Dieffings from above,
And wins the name as to his love.

2 At his right-hand, our eyes behold The Queen array'd in pureft gold; The worldadmires hir heavinly drefs; Nice robe of joy and highteoufieds.

13. He forms her beauties like his own; He calls and feats her near his throde; Pair Granger, let thine heart forget. The idois of thy native State.

4 So fault the King the more rejoice in three, the faving of his choice; Let him be lov's and yet ador'd, For he's thy Maker, and thy Lord.

5 O happy hour when thou shait tife To his fair palace in the skies! And all thy scas (a num'rous train) Each, like a prince, in grory reign!

6 Let encle's honora crown his head! Let ev'ery age his praids spread!

While we, with cheerful fongs, approve The con lescentions of his love.

PSALM MLVI. End part.

The Church's fafety and triumph, among national defolation

OD is the refuge of his faints, When froms of fharp diffres invade! E'er we can offer our comp'aints, Behold him prefent with his aid!

- 2 Let mountains from their feats be huri'd Down to the deep, and bury'd there; Canvulfions thake the folid world, Our faith shall never yield to fear.
- 3 Loud may the troubled ocean roar, In facred peace our fouls abide; While ev'ry nation, ev'ry thore Tremble and dread the fwelling tide.
- 3 There is a fircam whose gentle flow Supplies the city of our God: Life, love and joy, still gliding through, And wat ring our divine abode.
- 5 That fiered fiream, thine Holy Word, There all our raging fear controuls; Sweet peace thy promifes afford, And give new fire 19th to fainting fouls.
- 6 Sion enjoys her Monarch's love, Secure again't a threat'ning hour; Nor can her firm foundations move, Built on His truth, and arm'd with pow'r.

PSALM XLVI. Second Part.

God fights for his Church.

ET Sion in her King rejoice,
Though tyrapts rage, and hingdoms sife

He utters his Almighty voice. The nations met, the tumuit dies.

2. The Lord of old, for Jacob fought, And Jacob's God is fill our vid; Rehold the works his hand has wrought, What deloiations he has made!

3 From sea to sea through all the shores, He makes the neise of battle cease; When, from on high, his thunder roots, He awes the trembling world to peace.

a He breaks the bow, he cuts the fpear; Charlots he burns with heav'n'y finme: Vecp filence, all ye earth, and hear The found and glory of his name!

5 "Be flill, and learn that I am God,
"I'll be exalted o'er the lands;
"I will be known and feat'd abroad;
"But flill my throne in Sion flands."

6 O Lord of Hofts, Almighty King I While we fo rear thy prefence dwell, Our faith thall fit fecure, and fing Defiance to the gates of hell.

PSALM XLVII. Common metre.

Christ escending and reigning.

O FOR a flout of facred joy
To God, the fov'reign King!
Let ev'ry land its tongues employ,
And hymns of triumph fing.

2 Jefus, our God, afcends on high, His heav'nly guards around, Attend him, rifing through the fky, With trumpets' joy'ul found.

3 While angels shout and praise their King, Let mortals learn their strains; Let all the earth his honors fing; O'er ail the earth he reigns.

A Rehearfe his praife with two profound;
Let knowled client the fong;
Nor mack him with a foleran found
Upon a thoughtless tongue.

5 In I/r'el flood his ancient throne; He lov'd that chosen race: But now he cans the worst his own, And heathens tafte his grace.

6 Thefe ranfom'd States are all the Lord's, Here Aby bam's God is known, White pow'rs and princes, thields and fwords, Submit before his throne.

PSALM RLVIII. First part.

The Church is the honor and lajety of a nation.

CREAT is the Lord our Go!,
And let his praife be great;
He makes his churches his abode,
His moût delightful feat.

2 These temples of his grace, thow be untiful they stand! The honors of our native place; The bulwarks of our land.

3 In Sion, Cod is known A refuge in diffref; How bright has his falvation shone Through all her palaces!

A When kings against her join'd, And saw the Lord was there, In wild contation of the mind, They fled with hatty fear.

5 When navies, tall and proud Attempt to spoil our peace, He fends his temperereasing loud, And finks them in the teas.

6 Oft have our fathers told:
Our eyes have often from
How well our God froures the fold
Where his own those have been.

n eviry new diffress
We'll to bis House repair.
We'll think mon his wond'rous grace,
And feek delivirance there.

P S A L M XLVIII. Second part.

The beauty of the Cheriet or, Galpekeworfhip and

The world declares the praise!
The faints, O Lord, before the throng,
Their fongs of honor rank.

2 With joy, let Yanko flund On Simila choice hill, Proclaim the worders of thy hand. And counfels of thy will

3 Let fivangers waik arosen! The city where we dwelt. Compass and view thine holy ground, And mark the building well.

4 The orders of thy house,
The worthip of thy court,
The cheerful longs, the lolemn vows,
And make a fair report.

5 How decent and how wife!

How glor'ous to behold!

Beyond the pomp which charms the eyes,
And rites adorn'd with gold.

o The God we worthin now Will guice us this we die, Will be our God while here below. And our's above the flay.

PSALM XLIX. Firlt part.

P.d. is and death; or, The comity of life and riches.

To fee his wealth and hours flow With cvry rifing tide?

[2Why doth he treat the poor with feora, Made of the feaf-rame clay, And boaft, as though his flash were born

Of better dust than they !

3 Not all his treasure our propure his few a their repode. Redeem from diata one culty hour, Or make his brother five.

[4 Life is a bleffing can't be fold;
The ranfom is too nigh;
Justice will be er be brib'd with gold,
That man may never die.]

5 He fies the bro lib and the wife,
The simirous and the brave
Officed eir possibilities, come their eyes,
And nutrate the grave.

6 Yet 'tis his inward thought and pride, Ally he use that ever fland;

And that my name may rong abide,
 1' I give it to my raid."

7 Vain are his droughts, his hopes are loft, How for a list mem'ry cies ! Alis mand is written in the duft Where his own our affection,

PAUSE.

8 This is the folly of their way; And, yet, their fons, as vain, Approve the words their fathers fay, And act their works again.

9 Men void of wildom and of grace, If honor raife them high, Live like a beaft, a thoughtless race, And like a beaft they die.

[10 Laid in the grave, like filthy fneep, Death feeds upon them there, 'Till the last trumpet breaks their fleep In terror and despair.]

PSALM XLIX. Second part. Com. metre.

Death and the Refurrection.

YE fons of price, who hate the just And trample on the poor,
When death has brought you down to dust,
Your pomp shall rife no more.

2 The left great day shall change the scene? When will that hour appear? When shall the just revive, and reign O'er all who scorn'd them here?

3 God will my naked foul receive, When fep'rate from the flesh! And break the prison of the grave To raise my bones afresh.

4 Heav'n is my everlasting home,
The inheritance is sure;
Let men of pride their rage resume,
But I'll repine no more.

PSALM XLIX. Long metre.

The rich funers' death, and the faints' refurrection.

WHY do the proud infult the poor,

And boast the large estates they have?

How vain are riches to feenre Their houghty owners from the grave!

- 2 They can't redeem one hour from death,' With all the wealth in which they trust; Nor give a dying brother breath, When God commands him down to dust.
- 3 There the dark earth and difmal shade Shall class their naked bodies round; That sless so delicately sed, Lies cold, and moulders in the ground.
- 4 Like thoughtless theep the sumer dies, Laid in the grave for worms to eat; The faints that in the morning rife. And find th' oppressor at their feet.
- His honors perish in the cust.
 And pomp, and beauty, birth and blood;
 That glor ous day, exacts the just.
 To full dominion o'er the proud.
- 6 My Saviour fluid my life reftore. And raife me from my dark abode: My flesh and foul shall part no more: But dwell forever near my God.
 - PSALM I. First part. Common metre. The last inagment; or, the Saints re warded.

THE Lord, the Judge, before his throne
Bids the whole earth draw nigh,
The natious near the rifing fun,
And near the western sky

- 2 No more shall hold blasp Semers say Judgment will never begin; No more abuse his long delay To impudence and sin.
- 3 Thron'd on a cloud our God hall come. Bright flames prepare his way,

Thunder and darkness, five and form Lead on the dreadful day.

4 Heav'n from above his call fhall hear, Attending angels come;

And earth and hell final know, and fear, His justice and their deom.

"And flocks and heris are mine.

"O'er all the cattle of the hills
"I claim a right divine.

2 " I ask no sheep for facrifice,
" Nor bullocks burnt with fire:

"To hope and love, to pray and praise,
"Is all which I require."

5" Call upon me, when trouble's near,

"My hand shall set thee free;

"Then shall thy thankful lips declare

"The honor due to me.

4 "The man who offers humble praife,

" He giorifies me best:

"And those who tread my holy ways "Shall my favation taste."

P S A L M L. Third part. Com. metre.

The Judgment of Hypocrites.
WHEN Christ to judgment doth descends
And saints surround their Lord,

He calls the nations, to attend And hear his awful word.

Will Ithe world reprove;

" Altars and rites and forms are vain,

" Without the fire of Love.

3 "And what have hypocrites to do, "To bring their facrifice?

"They call my flatness just and true,
But deal in thefr and lies.

" Could you expect to 'leape my fight,
" And fin without controut?

But I findl bring your crimes to light,
With anguish in your foul."

g Confi ler ye who flight the Lord, Before his wrath appear: If once you fall beneath his fword, There's no deliv'rer there.

PSALM L. Long metre.

Hypocrify exposed.

THE Lord the Judge, his Churches warps; Let hypocrites attend and fear, Who place their hopes in rites and forms, But make not faith nor love their care.

2 Vile wre ches! due rehearse his name With lips of faischood and deceit; Afriend or brother they defame, And soothe and flutter those they hate.

3 They watch to do their neighbors wrong, Yet dore to feek their maker's face; They take his covinant on their tongue, But break his laws, abuse his grace.

To Heav'n they lift their hands, unclean, Defield with luft, defil'd with bood:

By night they practite ov ry fing By day their mouths draw near to God,

5 And while his judgments long delay They grow fecure, and fin the more: They think he fleeps as well as they, And put far of the dreadful; our!

6 O dreadful hour! when God draws near; And fets their crimes before their eyes; His wrath their guilty fouls shall tear; And nodeliv'rer dare to rife.

PSALM L.

The last judgment.

P S A L M LI. First part. Long metre.

A penitent pleading for percon.

OHEW pity. Lord! O Lord! forgive, D Let a repenting rebel live; Are not thy mercies large and free? May not a linner trust in thec?

a My crimes are great, but caint furpals The pow'r and glory of thy grace: Great God! thy nature hath no bound! So let thy pard ning grace be found.

3. O wish my foul from ev'ry fin!
And make my guilty confeience c'ean;
Here, on my heart, my burden lies;
And past offences pain my eyes.

4 My lips, with share. my fins confess Against thy law against thy grace; 1 Lord should thy judgment grow severe, I am condem'd; but thou art clear.

5 Should fudden venge mee feize my breath, I must pronounce thee just, in death:
And, if my foul were sent to hell,
Thy righteous law approves it well.

6 Yet, fave a trembling finner. Lord, Whose hope, still how ring round thy word. Would light on some sweet promise there, Some fure support against despair

PSALM I.I. Second part. Long metre

Original and actual fix confessed.

ORD. I am vie, conceiv'd in fin, And born unholy and unclean, Sprung from the man, whose guilty fall Corrupts his race and taints us all.

2. Soon as we draw our infant breath, The feeds of fin grow up for death; Thy law demands a perfect heart; But we're defil'd in ev'ry part.

[3 Great God! create my heart anew, And form my spirit pure and true; O make me wise betimes, to spy My danger, and my remedy.]

A Behold I fall before thy face; My only rafage is thy grace No out ward forms can make me clean! The leprofy lies deep within:

5 Nor bleeding bird, nor bleeding beeft, Nor hyfop-branch, per fprinkling prieft, Nor running-brook, nor flood, nor fea, Can wash the dismal stain away.

6 Jefus my Ged, thy blood alone Hath pow'r fufficient to atone; Thy blood can make me white as fnow! No Jesuish types could cleanfe me fo.

7 While guilt diffurbs and breaks my peace, Nor flesh, nor foul, hath rest or ease; "Lord, let me hear thy pard ning voice, and make my broken bones resoice

PSALM LI. Third part. Long metre. The backflider reflored; or, Repentance and Fostion in the blood of Christ.

O THOU! who hear'st when sinners cry
Though ail my crimes before thee lie,
Behold them not, with angry look,
But blot their mem'ry from thy book.

2 Create my nature pure within, And form my foul averse to sin; Let thy Good Spirit ne'er depart, Nor hide thy presence from my heart.

3 I cannot live without thy light, Cast out and banish'd from thy fight; Thine holy joys, my God, refere; And guard me, that I fall no more.

4 Though I have griev'd thy Spirit, Lord, Tils help and comfort fillinford: And let a wretch come near thy Throne To plead the merits of thy Son.

5 A broken heart, my God, my King, to all the facrifice I bring;

K

The God of Grace will ne'er dispife A broken heart for facilitie.

6 My foul lies humbed in the duft, And owns thy dreadful festence just: Look down, O Lord with pitying eye, And fave the foul condem'd to die.

7 Then will I teach the world thy ways; Sinners shall learn thy for reign grace; I'll lead them to my Saviour's blood, And they shall praise a pard'ning God.

8 O may thy love in spire my tongue! Salvation thali be all my song; And all my pow'rs shail join, to bless The Lord my strength and Righteousness.

PSALM LI. First port. Com. metre.

Original and astual fin confessed and pardoned.

ORD, I would spread my fore distress
And guitt before thine eyes;
Against thy laws, against thy grace
How high my crimes arise.

2 Should'ft thou condemn my foul to hell, And cruft my flesh to duff, Heav'n wou'd approve thy vengeance well, And carth must own it just.

3 I from the flock of Adam came.
Unhory and unclean;
All my original is fhame,
And all my nature, fin.

4 Born in a world of guilt, I drew Contagion with my breath, And as my days advanc'd, I grew A juster prey for death.

5 Cleanfe me, O Lord; and cheer my foul With thy forgiving love!
 O make my broken fpirit whole,
 And bid my pains remove.

Create answ my vicious heart, And fill it with thy grace.

7 Then will I make thy mercy known Before the fons of men; Backfliders shall address thy throne, And turn to God again.

PSALM LI. Second part. Com. metre. Repentance and Faith in the blood of Christ.

OGOD of mercy! hear my call, My load of guilt remove, Break down the separating wall Which bars me from thy love.

2 Give me the prefence of thy grace, Then my rejoicing tongue Shall speak aloud thy righteousness,

And make thy praise my song.

3 No blood of goats nor heifers flain For fin could e'er atone; The death of Christ shall still remain oufficient and alone.

To vex and break my peace.

2. The fons of violence and lies
Join to devour me, Lord;
But, as my hourly dangers rife,
My refuge is thy word.

3 In God, most holy just and true, I have repos d my trust: Nor will I fear what flesh can do,

Nor will I fear what flesh can do, The offspring of the dust.

A They week my words to mischief fill, Charge me with unknown faults; Mischief doth all their councils fill, And malice all their thoughts.

5 Shall they escape, without thy frown?
Must their devices stand?
Or east the haughty sinner down,
And let him know thy hand!

PAUSE.

6 God counts the forrows of his faints; Their groans affict his ears: Thou hast a book for my complaints,
A bottle for my tears

7 When to thy throne I raise my cry,
The wicked fear and siee;

So fwift is pray'r to reach the fky
So near is God to me.

8 In Thee, Most Holy, just and true, I have repos'dmy trust; Nor will I fear what man can do, The offspring of the dust.

9 Thy folemn vows are on me. Lord;
Thou shalt receive my praise;
I'll sing, How feithful is thy word;
How rightous all thy ways!

To Thou hast secur'd my soul from death;
O fet thy pris ner free!
That heart and hand and life and breath,
May be employ'd for thee.

P S A L M LVII. Long metre, Praise for protedion, grace and truth

MY God, in whom are all the fprings Of boundless love and grace unknown; Hide me beneath thy fpreading wings, 'Till the dark cloud is overblown.

2 Up to the heavins I fend my cry; The Lord willing defires perform; He fends his angels from the fky, And faves me from the threatining fform.

8 Be thou exalted, O my God'l Above the heav'ns, where angels' dwell; Thy pow'r on earth be known abroad, And land to land thy wonders' tell.

4 My heartlis fix'd; my fong shall raise Immortal honors to thy name; Awake. my tongue, to found his praise; My tongue, the glory of my frame.

5 High o'er the earth, his mercy reigns, And reaches to the utmost sky; His truth to endless years remains, When lower worlds difforce and die.
6 Be thou exalted, Omy God!

6 Be thou exited, Omy God!
Above the heav'ns where angels dwell;
Thy pow'r on earth be known abroad,
And land to land thy wonders tell.

PSALM LVIII, Warning to Magistrates.

JUDGES, who rule the world by laws,
Witt ye defoife the righteous caute,
When th' injured poorbetore you flands?
Anthet rich finners Trape fecture,
While gold and greatness bribe your hands?

2. If we ye forgot, or never knew, That God with judge the Judges too? High in the heav us his judice reigns; Yet, you invade the rights of God, And fend your hold decrees abroad, To bind the confcience in your chains.

3 A poisen'd arrow is your tongue, The arrow sharp, the poison strong,

And death attends where e'erit wounds; You hear no counties cries or tears: So the deafudder stops her ears Against the pow'r of charming founds.

4 Br. ak out their teeth, Eternal God,
Those teeth of hons, dy'd in blood;
And crush the serpents in the dust:
As empty chass, when whiriwinds rife,
Before the sweepings tempest slies,
So let their hopes and names be loss.

5 Th' Almighty thunders from the fky? Their grandeur melts, their title die:
As hills of fnow diffolve and run,
Or mails which periff in their flime!

Or mails which pends in their flime! Or births which come before their 'ime, Vain births, that never see the fun!

6 Thus shall the vengcance of the Lord Safety and joy to faints afford;

And all, who hear, shall join and say "Sure there's a God who rules on high; "A God who hears his children cry, "And will their suff'rings well repay."

PSALM LX. Common metre.

On a day of humiliation for di appointments in War.

ORD, hast thou cast New England of ? Must we forever mourn?

Wilt thou indulge immortal wrath?
Shall mercy no'er return?

2 The terror of one frown of thine Melts all our strength away; Like men who totter, drunk with wine, We tremble in dismay.

3 New England shakes beneath thy stroke, And dreads thy threat ning hand; The hear the people thou hast broke,

Reftore the trembling land.

A Lift up a banner in the field,
For those who fear by name:
Save thy beloved, with thy shield,
And put our foes to shame.

5 Go with our armies to the fight, Like a confed'rate God: In vain, confed'rate powers unite Against thy lifted rod.

6 Our troops shall gain a wide renown; By thine affiting hand; 'Tis God who treads the mighty down, And makes the feeble stand.

P S A L M LXI. Short metres

HEN overwhelm'd with grief, My heart within me dies, Helpicis and far from all relicf, To heav'n I lift my eyes.

2 O'end me to the Rock
That's high above my head!
And make the covert of thy wings.
My flitter and my flade.

3 Within thy prefence, Lord, For every'll abide; Thou art the Tower of my defence, The refuge where I hide.

4 Thou givest me the lot Of those who fear thy name; If end is life be their reward, I shall possess the same.

PSALM LXII. Long metre.

No trust in the creatures; or Faith in Divine Grace and Power.

MY fpirit looks to God alone; My only refuge is his throne; In at my fears, in all my straits, My foul on his falvation waits.

a Trust him, ye faints, in all your ways. Pour ont your hearts before his face. When helpers fail, and foes invade, Ged is our all-fussicient aid. g False are the men of high degree, The baser fort are vanity; Laid in a basance, both appear Light as a puss of empty air.

4 Make not increasing gold your trust, Nor set your heart on glitt'ring dust; Why will you grasp the sleeting smoke, And not believe what God has spoke?

5 Once has His awful voice declar'd, Once and again my ears have heard, "All pow'r is his eternal due;

" An pow r is his eternal due; "He must be fear'd and tracted too."

6 For for reign pow'r reigns not alone, Grace is a partner of the throne: Thy grace and justice, mighty Lord, Shall well divide our last reward.

PSALM LXIII. First part. Com. metre.

The morning of a Lord's day.

TARLY, my God, without delay, L. I hafte to feek thy face: My thirfty fpirit faints away, Without thy cheering grace.

2 So pilgrims, on the foorching fand, Beneath a burning fky, Long for a cooling fream at hand, And they must drink or die.

3 I've feen thy glory and thy now'r, Through all thy temple films; My God repeat that heav'nly hour, That vision to divine.

4 Not all the bleffings of a feaft Can pleafe my four fo well, As when thy richer grace I tafte, And in thy prefence dwell,

- Not life itfelf, with all her joys,
 Can my best pussions move,
 O raise to high my cheerful voice
 As thy forgism; love.
- 6 Thus, 'till my talt expiring day,
 I'll biefs my God and King,
 Thus will aft my hands to pray,
 and tune my lips to fing.

PSALM LXIII. Second part Com. metre.

Midnight thoughts recolle led

- TWAS in the watches of the night.
 I thought upon thy pow'r;
 I kept thy lovely face in light.
 Amight the darkeft hour.
 - 2 My flesh lay resting on my bed, My soul arose on igh; My God! my Life! my Hope! I said, Bring thy alvation nigh.
 - 3 My pirit labors up thine hill,
 And climbs the heavinly ro d:
 But thy right hand upholds me ftill,
 While I purfue my God.
 - The shadow of thy sings:
 My heart rejoices in thine aid,
 My tongue awakes, and sings.
 - 5 But the definoyers of my peace Shall fret an I rage in van: The tempter shall forever cease, And all my fins be flan.
 - 6 The fourd that give my foes to death, and fend them down to dwell in the dark caverns of the earth, Or to the depths of heil.

PSALM LXIII. Long metre.

Longing after God; or, The Love of God better than Life.

CREAT God! indulge my humble claim;
Thou art my Hope, my Joy, my Reft;
The glories which compose the name
Stand all engaged to make me bloft.

2 Thou Great and Good, thou Just and Wise, Thou art my Father and my God; And I am thine, by facred ties; Thy fon, thy fervant, bought with blood!

3 With heart, and eyes, and lifted hands, For thee I long, to thee I look, As travellers, in thirtly hads, Pant for the cooling water-brook.

4 With early feet I love t' appear Among thy faints, and fick thy face; Oft have I feen thy glory there, And felt the pow'r of fov'reign gree.

y Not fruits, nor wings which tempt our take. Nor all the joys our fenfes know, Could make me to divinely bleft, Or rails my cheerful puffion to.

6 My life itself, without thy love, No taste of pleasure could afford: 'Twould but a tiresome burden prove, If I were banish difrom the Lord.

7 Amidst the wakeful hours of right; When busy cares assist my head, One thought of thee gives new delight, And adds refreshment to my bod.

8 Pil'lift my hands. Pil raife my voice While I have breath to pray or praife; This work shall make my neart rejoice, and spend the remnant of my days.

L 2

PSALM LXIII. Short metre.

Serking God.

MY God, permit my ton. ue, Pars'joy, to call thee mine; A detroy early cries prevail to taffe thy tove divine.

2 My thirsty fainting foul
Thy mirey does implore:
Not trivellers, in defert lands,
Can pant for water more.

Within thy churc'es Lord, long to find my place, Thy pow'r and gory to behold, And feel thy quick'ning grace.

A For, life, without thy love, No relish can afford;

N joy can be compar'd with this, To firve and pleafe the Lord.

5 To thee I'll lift my hands, And praife thee, while I ive; Not all the dainties of a feast Such food or pleasure give.

6 In wakeful hours of night I call my God to mind; I think how wife thy counfels are, And all thy dealings kind.

Since thou haft been my help, To thee my fpirit flies, and on thy watchful providence

My cheerful hope relies.

The sha 'ow of thy wings
 My foul in fascty keeps!
 I follow where my Father leads,
 And he supports my steps.

PSALM LXV. Firft part. Long metre.

Public prayer and praise.

THE praise of Sion waits for thee,
My God; and praise becomes thy house;
There shall thy saints thy glory see,
And there perform their public vows.

2 O thou! whose mercy bends the skies, To save, when humble sinners pray, Alliands to thee shall lift their eyes, And is and of the Northern sea.

3 Against my will my fins prevail. But grace shall purge away their stain; The blood of Christ will never fail To wash my garments white again.

4 Bleft is the man whom thou shalt choose, And give him kind access to thee: Give him a place within thine house, To taste thy love, divinely free.

PAUSE.

5 Le' Babel fear when Sion prays;
Bibel prepare for long diffres,
When Sion's God himfelf arrays
In terrour and in righteoufness
What he adflighted faints request;
And with A mighty wrath reveals
His love, to give his churches rest.

7 Then shall the flocking nations run To Sion's hill and own their Lord; The rising and the setting sun Shall see the Saviour's name ador'd.

PSALM LXV. Second part. Long metre.

Divine Providence, in air. earth and sea; ar, The God of Nature and Grace.

THE God of our falvation hears
The groans of Sion mixk'd with tears;

Yet when he comes, with kind defigne, Through all the way his terror fhines.

- a On him the race of man depends, "Far as the earth's remotest ends, Where the Creator's name is known By Nature's feeble light alone.
- 2 Sailors, who travel o'er the flood, Address their frighted souls to God, When tempers rage, and billows roar, At dreadful distance from the shore.
- 4 He bids the noity tempest cease, He salms the raging crowd to peace, When a tumuit ous nation raves, Wild as the wind, and loud as waves.
- 5 Whole kingdoms, shaken by the form, He fettles, in a peaceful form; Mountains, establish d by his hand. Firm ou their old foundations stand.
- 6 Behold, his entigns fiveep the fky. New comets blaze, and lightnings fly; The Heathen lands, with fad furprile, From the bright horrors turn their eyes.
- 7 At his command the morning ray Smiles in the east and leads the day; the guides the sun's declining wheels Over the tops of Western hills.
- 8 Seafons and times obey his voice; The evining and the morn rejoice To fee the earth made foft with show'rs, Laden with fruit and drest with flow'rs.
- 9 "Tis from his watry flores on high He gives the thirfty ground fupply; He walks upon the clouds, and thence Doth his enriching drops difpenfe.
- Abundant fruit the vallics yield;

The vallies shout with cheerful voice, And neighb'ring nills repeat their joys. II The pastures simile in green array, There, lambs and larger cattle play. The larger cittle and the lamb, Each in his language speaks Thy Name.

12 Phy works pronounce thy pow'r divine; O'er ev'ry field thy glories fline; Through ev'ry month thy gifts appear; Great God! thy goodness crowns the year.

PSALM LXV. First part. Common metre, Aprayer-hearing God, and the Gentiles called.

PR : ISE waits in Sion. Lord, for thee,
There shall our vows be paid:
Thou hast an ear when sinners pray,
All flesh shall seek thine aid.

Lord, our iniquities prevail;
 But pard'ning grace is thine,
 And thou wilt grant us power and skill
 To conquer ev'ry fin.

3 Blefs'd are the men whom thou shalt choose To bring them near thy face, Give them a dwelling in thine house

To feast upon thy grace.

4 In answiring what thy churchrequests,
Thy truth and terror shine,
And works of dreadful righteousness
Fulfil thy kind design.

5 Thus shall the wond ring nations see The Lord is good and just; And distant islands sly to thee, And make Thy Name their trust.

6 They dread thy glitt'ring tokens, Lord, When figns in heav'n appear; But they shall learn thy holy word, And love, as well as fear.

P S A L M LXV. Second part. Gom. metre.
The Providence of God, in air, earth and jea; or,
The blefting of rain.

'TIS by thy ftrength the mountains ftand, God of eternal pow'r! The fea grows calm at thy command,

And tempells ceale to roar.

2 The morning light and ev'ning-shade

Successive comforts bring;
Thy plent'ous fruits make harvest glad,
Thy flow'rs adorn the frring.

3 Seafons and times, and moons and hours, Heav'n, earth and air are thine;

When clouds distil their fruitful show'rs, The Author is Divine.

4 Those wand'ring cisterns in the sky,
Borne by the winds around,
With wat'rytressures well supply
The furrows of the ground.

5 The thirfly ridges drink their fill, And ranks of corn appear: Thy ways abound with bleflings ftill; Thy goodness crowns the year.

P S A L M LXV. Third part. Com. metre. The Bleffing of the Spring; or, God gives rain.

A Pfalm for the hufb indman.

OOD is the Lord, the heav'nly King, Who makes the earth his care; Vifits the pastures ov ry spring, And bids the grass appear.

2 The clouds, like rivers, rais'd on high, Pour out at thy command, Their wat'ry bleffings from the fky, To cheer the thirfly land.

3 The foften'd ridges of the field Permit the corn to fpring; The values rich provision yield, And the poor lab'rers fing.

4 The little hills, on ev'ry fide Rejoice at falling flow'rs:

The meadows, dreft in all their pride, Perfume the air with flow'rs.

5 The barren clods refresh'd with rain, Promise a joyful crop;

The parched grounds look green again And raife the reaper's hope.

6 The various months thy goodness crowns;
How bount ous are thy ways!

The bleating flocks spread o'er the downs, And shepherds shout thy praise.

P A S L M LXVI. First part. Com. metre.

Governing Power and goodness; or our Grace tried by Afflictions.

Sing, with a joyful noife; With melody of found, record Ilis honors, and your joys.

2 Say to the pow'r which shakes the sky

"How terrible art thou!

"Sinners before thy prefence fly, "Or, at thy feet they bow."

(3 Come feethe wonders of our God, How glo'ous are his ways!

in Moses' hand he puts the rod, And cleaves the frighted seas; 4 He made the ebbing channel dry
While I r'el pat. 'd thee flood;
There did the Church begin their joy,
And triumph in their God.]

5 He rules by his reliftless might: What rebel mortals date Provoke th' Eternal to the fight, And tempt that dreadful war!

6 O B'ess our God, and never cease! Ye saints, su si: his praise; He keeps our life, maintains our peace, And guides our doubtful ways,

7 Lord, thou ha ft prov'd our fuff'ring fouls,
To make our graces fline;
So filver bears the burning coals,
The mettle to refine.

8 Through wat'ry deeps and fiery ways, We march at thy command, Led to possess the promis'd place, By thing unerring hand.

PSALM IXVI. Second part.

Praise to God for hearing prayer.

NOW shall my felemn vows be paid To that Almighty Pow'r Wich heard the long requests I made In my distress ut hour.

2 My lips and cheerful heart prepare To make his mercies known;
Come, ye who fear my God, and hear
The wonders he has done.

3 When on my head huge forrows fell, I fought his heav'nly aid: He fav'd my flinking four from hell, And death's eternal shade, Alf fin lay cover'd it my heart,
While pray't employ'd my tengue,
The Lord had fhewn ms no regard,
Nor I lis praites fung.

5 But God (his name be ever bleft)
Has fet my iprit free;
Nor turn'd from him my poor requeft,
Nor turn'd his heart from me.

PSALM LXVII. Common metre.

The Nation's prosperity, and the Church's increases

CHINE, mighty God, on all the land, With beams of heavenly grace; Rereal thy pow'r through an our coafts. And thew thy fmiling face,

(2 Amidft our States, exalted high, Do thou our Clory stand, And, like a wall of guard'an fire, Surround the fav'rite land.)

3 When shall thy name, from shore to shore, Sound all the earth obroad;

And distant nations know and love Their Saviour and their God?

4 Sing to the Lord ye refeu'd States, Sing loud, with folemn voice? While thankful tongues exait his praife, And greatful hearts rejoice.

5 He, the Great Lord, the Sovireign Judge, Who fitsenthron'd above,

Wifely commands the worlds he made In justice and in love,

6 Earth shall obey her Maker's will, And yield a full increase: Our God will crown this chosen clime, With fruitfulness and peace. 7 God, the Kedeemer, featters round His choicest savors here, While the creations utmost bound Shall see, adore, and fear.

PSALM LXVIII. First Part. Long metre: The Vengeonce and Compassion of God.

OD will arife in all his night,
And put the troops of hell to flight,
As frooke, which tought to cloud the fkies,
Before the rifing tempeft flies;

La He comes, array'd in burning flames; Juffice and Vengeance are his names: Behold his fainting foes expire Like melting wax before the fire.]

3 He rides and thunders through the fky; His name, Jehovah, founds on high! Sing to his name, ye fons of grace; Ye faints, rejoice before his face!

A. The widow and the fatherless Fig to his aid, in that p diffress:
In him the poor and helpless find A Judge, most just; a Father, kind.

5. He breaks the captiv's heavy chain, And pris'ners fee the light again; But rebels, who dispute his will, Shall dwell in chains and darkness shill.

PAUSE.

6 Kingdoms and thrones to God belong; Crown him, ye nations, in your fong; His wond'rousname and pow'rs rehearfe; His honors shall enrich your verse.

7 He shakes the heavins with loud alarms; How terrible is God, in arms!

In Ifr'el are his mercies known, Ir'el is his peculiar throne.

8 Proclaim him King, pronounce him bleft: He's your Defence, your Joy, your Rett; When terrors rife, and nations faint, God is the strength of ev'ry faint.

P S A L M LXVIII. Second part. Long metre.

Christ's Afcension, and the gift of the Spirit.

TORD when thou didft afcend on high, Ten thousand angels fill'd the sky: Those I eav'nly guards around thee wait, Like chariots to attend thy state.

2 Not Sma's mountain could appear More glor'ous when the Lord was there; While he pronounc'd his dreadful law, and ftruck the chosen tribes with awe.

3 How bright the triumph none can tell, When the rebell'ous pow'rs of heil, (Which thousand sou's had captive made) Were all in chains like captives led!

4 Rais'd, by his Father to the throne, He sent the promis'd Spirit down With gifts and grace for rebel men. That God might dwell on earth again.

P S A L M LXVIII. Third part. Long metre.

Praife for Temporal blessings; or, Common and Spiritual mercies

WE blefs the Lord, the just and good,
Who fills our hearts with joy and food:
Who pours his bleffings from the skies,
And loads our days with rich supplies.
2 He sends the sun his circuit round
To cheer the stults to warm the ground;

He bids the cloudswith plead us rain Refresh the thirthy cut sugain.

3 Tis to his care we owe our breath, And all our near escapes from death; Safety and beach to God belong; He heals the weak and guards the strong.

4 He makes the aint and finner prove The common l'effings of his ove; But the wide difference which remains, Is endlefs joys, or endlefs pairs.

5 The Lord, who bruif'd the ferpent's head, On all the ferpent's feed shall tread: The stubborn sincer's hope confound, And smite him with a lasting wound.

6 But his right-hand his faints shall raise, From the deep carth or deeper seas, And bring them to his Courts above; There shall they taste his special love.

PSALM LXIX. First Part. Com. Metre.

The Infferings of Christ f.r our falvation.

SAVE me O God the fwelling floods
"Break in upon my foul!
"I fink, and f rrows o'er my head
"Like mighty waters roll.

2 "I cry 'till all my v ice be gone;
In tears I walte the day:

" And shorten thy decay.

3 "They hate my foul, without a cause, "And still their number grows

" More than the hairs around my head,
" And mighty are my focs.

"Twas then I paid that dreadful debt "Which men couldnever pay,

" And gave those honors to thy law, "Which Sinners took away."

5 Thus, in the great Meffiah's name, The Royal Prophet mourns;

Thus he awakes our hearts to grief, And gives us joy by turns.

6" Now shall the fain's rejoice, and find

"Salvation in my name;

"For I have borne their heavy load "Of forrow, pain, and fhame.

7 "Grief like a garment cloth'd me round,

"And fackcloth was my drefs,

"While I procur'd for naked fouls "A robe of rightcoufness.

8 " Among my brethren, and the Jews,
"I, like aftranger flood,

"And bore their vile reproach, to bring
"The Gentiles near to God.

9"I came, in finful mortals' stead,

"To do my Father's will; "Yet, when I cleans'd my Father's house, "They feandalis'd my zeal.

to" My fasting and my holy groans

"Were made the drunkard's fong, "But God from his celesial throne "Heard my complaining tongue.

"I' He favid me from the dreadful deep,
"Nor let my foul be drown'd;
"He rais'd and fix'd my finking feet

" On well establish'd ground.

"Twas in a most accepted hour "My pray'r arose on high,

"And for my fake, my God shall hear "The dying sinners cry."

PSALM LERK. Second part. Com. metre.

The Palli in and exaltation of Christ.

NOW let our lips with holy frar And moutaful pleafure fing The Suff'rings of our great High Prick. The forrows of our King.

2 He finks in floods of deepdiffres; How high the waters rife! While to his heaving Farther's ear

He fends perpetual cries!

3 "Hear me O Lord and fave thy Son, "Nor hide, thy Inining face;

"Why should thy fav rite look like one "Forlaken of thy grace?

Withrage they perfecute the MAN Wan ground beneath they wound,

"While for a facrifice I pour "My life upon the ground,

5 "They tread my hounr to the dust, "And lau th when I complain;

Their tharp infulting flanders add

Fresh anguish to my pain.

6 "Ail my reproach is known to thee; "The Scand it and the fit ime;

"Reproach has broke my breeding heart,
"And lies defi 'a my ha ne-

7 "Hook'd for pity, but in vain; "My kindre l'are my grief;

"I alk my friends for comfort round, "But meet with no relief.

8 "AVith vinegar they mock my thirft; "They give me sall for fod;

"And, sporting with my dying greans, "They triumph in my blood?"

"Shine into my d'stressed sout;
"Let thy comp stion save;

"An I, the my flesh firk down to death, "Re learn it from the grave.

to I ha at fe to praise thy hame;

"Saal reign is world; as knev no "And the libration, O in God!

"Shall isat me on thy Throne."

PSAL M LXIX. Third part. Com. metre.

Christ's Obedience and Death; or, God glorified and finners fixed

THER I fing thy wond'rous grace;

If his my Siviour's name;
He bough falvation for the poor,
Andbore the finner's fhame.

2 His deep distress has rais'd us high; His duty and his zeal

Fu fir'd the law which mortals broke, And finish'd all thy will.

3 His dying groans, his living fongs Shall better please my God,

Than harp or trumpet's folemn found, Than goat's or builocks' blood.

4 This shall his humble fol'wers fee, And fet their hearts at rest; They by his death draw near to thee, And live for ever blest.

5 Let heav'n and all who dwell on high, To God their voices raife, While lands and feas affift the fky, And join t' advance his praife.

6 Sion is thine, Most Holy God
Thy Son shall bless her gates;
And glory, purchas'd by his blood,
For thine own If it waits.

PSALM LXIX. First part. Long metre

Christ's passion, and sinner's I aboution.

DEEP in our hearts let us record The deeper forrows of our Lord: Behold the rifing billows roll To overwhelm his righteous foul!

- 2 In long complaints he foends his branth, While hofts of heil, and pow'rs of death, And all the fons of malice join To execute their curft defign.
- 3 Yet, gracious God, thy pow'r and love Have made the curfe a bleffing prove; Those dreadful fuff'rings of thy Son Aton'd for fins which we have done.
- 4 The pangs of our expiring Lord, The honor of thy law reftor'd: His forrows made thy justice known, And paid for follies not his own.
- 5 O, for his fake, our fullt forgive, And let the mourning finner live! The Lord will hear us in his name. Nor shall our hope be turn'd to shame.

P S A L M LXIX. Second part, Long metres Christ's preferrings and weal.

TWAS for thy fake, Evernal God, Thy Son inftain'd that heavy load Of base reproach, and fore diffrace, And shame defil'd His facred face.

2 The Jaws, his brethren and his kin, Abna'd the MAN who creek'd their fin; While he fulfil'd thy holy laws, They hate him, but without a cause.

[3 My Father's bou'e (laid he) evas made Aplace for averflup, not for trade;

Then, featt'ring all their gold and brafs, He feourg'd he merchants from the place.]

[4 Zeal for the temple of his God Consum'd his life, exposed his blood; Reproaches at Thy Glory thrown, H. fe't, and mourn'd them as his own]

5 His friends forfook, his fol'wers fled. While foes and arms furround his head: They curfe him with a fland'rous to: $\dag{c}. The Judge, unjust, maintains the wrong.

6 His life they load with hateful lies, And charge his lips with blasphemies; They nail him to the shameful tree; There hung the MAN who dy'd for me!

7 Wretches, with hearts as hard as stones, Insult his piety and grouns; Gall was the food they gave him there, And mock'd His thirst with vinegar.]

8 But, God beheld and from his throne.
Marks out the men who hate his Son:
The hand which rais'd him from the dead,
Shall pour the vengence on their head.

PSALM LXXI. First part. Com. metre.

The aged faint's reflection and bope.

MY God. My everlasting hope,
I live upon thy truth:
Thine hands have held my childhood up,
And strengthen'd all my youth.

2 My flesh was fashion'd by thy pow'r, With all these limbs of mine: And, from my mother's painful hour, I've been entirely thine.

Still has my life new wonders feen Repeated ev'ry ye ar: Behold ! my days which yet remain, I trust them to thy care.

4 Cast me not off, when strength declines,
When hoary hairs arise;
And round me let thy glory shine,
When e'er thy servant dies.

5 Then in the hist'ry of my age, When men review my days, They'll read thy love in ev'ry page, In ev'ry line, thy praise.

P S A L M LXXI. Second part. Com. metre: Christ our strength and righteousness.

MY Saviour, my Almighty Friend, When I begin thy praife, Where will the growing numbers end, The numbers of thy grace?

2 Thou art my Everlafting Truft, Thy goodness I adore; And, face I knew thy graces first, I speak thy glories more.

3 My feet shall travel all the kength Of the celestial road, And march with courage in thy strength, To see my Father God,

4 When I am fill'd with fore diffres, For fome furprising fin, I'll plead Thy perfect righteousnes, And mention none but Thine.

5 How will my lips rejoice to tell. The victories of my King! My foul redeem'd from fin and hell, Shall thy falvation fing.

[6 My tongue final all the day proclaim My faviour and my God; His death has brought my foes to shame, And drown'd them in his blood.

PSALM LXXII. First part. Long metre.

The Kingdom of Christ.

REAT God! whose universal sway
The known and unknown worlds obey;
Now give the kingdom to thy Son,
Extend his pow'r, exalt his throne.

Thy sceptre wellbecomes his hands:
All heav'n submits to his commands;
His justice shall avenge the poor,
And pade and rage previsino more.

With pow'r he'll vindicate the just.
And tread oppression in the dust?

3 With post the flyindicate the just. And tread oppressions in the dust? His worthip and his fear that last? Till hours, and years, and time be pass.

As rain on meadows newly mown, So that he fend his infl'ence down: His mace on fainting fouls diffills, Like heav'nly dew on thirty hills, 5 The Heathen lands which liebeneath The findes of over-spreading earth, Revive, at his firm-dawning light; And defarts bioffom at the fight.

6 The faints that flourish in his days, Drest in the robes of joy and praise: Peace like a river, from his throne Shall flow to nations yet unknown.

PSALM LXXIII. First part. Com. metre.

Afflicted Saints bappy, and pro/perous Sinner's cur, ed. TOW I'm convinc'd the Lord is kind IN To men of heart fincere; Yet once my foolish thoughts repin'd, And bo'der'd on despair.

2 I griev'd to fee the wicked thrive, And fooke with angry breath;

"How pleafant and profane they live! " How peaceful is their death!

3 " With well fed flesh, and haughty eyes, "They lay their fears to fleep:

" Against the heav'ns their flanders rife ; " While faints in filence, weep.

4 " In vain I lift my hands to pray, " And cleanfe my heart in vain;

" For I am chaften'd all the day, "The night renews my pain."

5 Yet, while my tongue indulg'd complaints, I felt my heart reprove;

"Sure I thall thus offend thy faints, " And grieve the men I love."

6 But still I found my doubts too hard; The conflict too fevere: 'Till I retir'd to fearch thy word. And learn the fecret there.

7 There, as in some prophetic glass, I faw the finter's feet, High mounted on a flipp'ry place, Above a fiery pit.

8 I heard the wretch profanely boat; 'Till, at thy frown, he fell; His honors in a dream were loft, And he awoke in hell.

9 Lord, what an envious fool I was ! How like a thoughtles beaft!

Thus to suspect thy promis'd grace, And think the wicked blest.

To Yet I was kept from fell defeair,
Upheld by pow'r unknewn:
That bleffed hand which broke the fnare,
Shall guide me to thy throse.

2 Ti y counsels. Lord, shall guide my feet Through this dark wildernos! Thine hand conduct me near thy feat, To dwell before thy face.

3 Were I in heav'n, without my God,
"Twould be no joy to me:
And whilft this earth is my abode,
I long for none but thee.

4 What if the fprings of life were broke. And flesh and heart should faint? God is my soul's Eternal Rock, The strength of ev'ry faint.

5 Behold! the finners who remove Far from thy prefence die; Not all the ido! gods they love.

Vot all the ido! gods they love. Can fave them, when they cry.

6 But, to draw near to thee, my God, Shall be my fweet employ; My tongue shall found thy works abroad, And tell the world my joy.

P S A L M LEVIII. Long metre.

The prosperity of sinners eursed.

ORD, what a thoughtless wretch was I
To moun and murmur, and repine,

To fee the wicked plac'd on high, In pride, and robes of honor shine!

2 But Oh! their end, their dreadful end? Thy fanctuary taught me fo: On flipp'ry cocks? fee t'em fland, And fiery billiows roll below!

3 Now. let them boast how tall they rise 1 l'il never envy them again:
There they may stand with haughty eyes,
'Till they plunge deep in endless pain.

4 Their fency'd joys, how fast they see? Just like a dream when man awakes;
Their fongs of fostest harmony
Are but a presace to their plagues.

5 Now I esteem their mirth and wine Too dear to purchase with my blood; Lord, 'tis enough that the u art mine,' My life, my portion, and my God!

PSALM LXXIII. Short. metre

The myslery of Previdence unfolded.

SURE there's a righteous God,

Nor is religion vain:

Though men of vice may boaft aloud,

And men of grace complain.

2 I faw the wicked rife,
And felt my heart repine,
While haughty fools with fcornful eyes
In robes of honor fhine.

[3] Pamper'd with wanton eafe Their flesh looks full and fair; Their wealth rolls in, like flowing feas, And grows without their care.

4 Free from the plagues and pains
Which pious fouls endure,
Through all their life oppression reigns,
And racks the humble poor.

5. Their imp'ous tongues blaspheme The everlasting Go1;

Their malace blafts the good man's name And fpreads its lies abroad.

6 But I, with flowing tears, Indulg'd my doubts to rife;

"Is there a God who kes or hears
"The things below the fkies?"

7 The tumults of my thoughts Held me in hard fuspense,

'Till to thy house my seet were brought To learn thy judice thence.

8 Thy word, with light and pow'r Did my mifiakes amend; I view'd the finner's life before, But here I learnt their end.

9 On what a flipp'ry fleep The thoughtless wretches go! And Oh! that dreadful firy deep Which waits their fall below!

16 Lord, at thy feet I bow, My thoughts no more repine; I call my God my portion now, And all my pow'rs are thine.

The Church-pleading with God, under fore perfecution.

WILL God forever caft us off?

His wrath forever fmoke
Against the people of his love
His little chosen flock?

z Teink of the tribes so dearly bought With their Redeemer's blood; Nor let thy Zion be forgot, Where once thy giory stood.

3 Lift up thy feet and march in hafte, Aloud our ruin calls;

See what a wide and fearful waste Is made within thy walls!

Where once thy churches pray'd and fang
Thy foes profanely roar;
Over thy gares their entities hang,
Sad tokens of their pow'r.

5 How are the feats of worship broke!

They tear thy buildings down;

And he who deals the heav'eft stroke,

Procures the chief renown.

O make me like the the sparrow blass,
To dwell but where I love!

7 To fit one day beneath thine eye, And hear thy gracious voice, Exceeds a whole eternity Employ'd in carnal joys.

8 Lord, at thy threshold I would wait, While Jesus is within,

Rather than fill a throne of state, Or live in tents of fin!

g'Could I command the pacious land, And the more boundle;s fea, For one bleft our at-Thy Right Hand, I'd give them both away.

PSALM LXXXIV. Longing for the House of God

ORD of the worlds above,
How pleafant and how fair
The dwellings of thy love
Thy earthly temples are!
To thine abode
My heart afpires,
With warm defires,
To fee my God.

2 The sparrow for her young With pleasure feeks a nest, And wand'ring swallows long To find their wonted rest.

My foight saint s.

My fpicit faint s, With equal zeal, To rife, and dwell Among thy faints

O happy fouls! who pray Where God appoints to hear! O happy men! who pay Their constant fervice there! They praise thee still;

And happy they

Who love the way. To Zion's hill.

4 They go from strength to strength. Through this dark vaie of tears, 'Till each arrives at length, 'Till each in heav'n appears:

O glor'ous feat.
When God our King
Shall thither bring
Our willing feet!

PAUSE.

5 To fpend one facred day Where God and faints abide, Affords diviner joy Than thousand days beside:

Where God reforts, I love it more To keep the door, Than shine in courts.

6. God is our Sun and Shield, Our Light and our Defence: With gifts his hands are: fill'd, We draw our bleffings thence:

He shall bestow, On Jacob's race Peculiar grace, And glory too.

7. The Lord his people loves; His hand no good withholds From those his heart approves; From pure and pious souls;

Thrice happy he, O God of hofts, Whose spirit trufts, Alone, in thee. P S A L M LXXXV. First part Long metre

Waiting for an answer to prayer; or, Deilverance begun and completed.

ORD, thou hast can'd thy grace to mind's La Thou haft reversed our neavy doom : So God forgave, when Ifr'el fime'd And brought his wand'ring captives home.

2 Thou haft begun to fet us free, And make thy fiereest wrath abate : Now, let our hearts be turn'd to thee, And thy falvation be complete.

3 Revive our dying graces Lord, And let thy faints in thee rejoice ; Make known thy truth falfil thy word : We wait for praise to tune our voice.

4 We wait to hear what God will fav : He'll speak and give his people peace : But let them run no more aftray, Left his returning wrath increase.

P S A L M LXXXV, Second part Long metre. Salvation by Christ.

C'ALVATION is forever nigh The fouls who fear and truft the Lord; And grace descending from on high, Fieth hopes of glory thall afford,

2 Mercy and truth on earth are met, Since Christ the Lord came down from heav'n By his obed'ence fo complete, lustice is pleas'd, and peace is giv'n.

2 Now truth and honor thall abound, Religion dwell on earth again, And heavn'ly infl'ence blefs the ground In our Redcemer's gentle reign.

4 His righteoufness is gone before, To give us free access to God ;

Our wand'ring feet shall stray no more, But mark his sleps, and keep the road.

PSALM LXXXVI.

Ageneral ong of praise to God.

A MONG the princes, earthly gods,
There's none hath pow'r divine;
Nor is their nature, mighty Lord,
Nor are their works like thine.

2 The nations, Thou hast made, shall bring Their off'rings round Thy Throne; For thou alone dost a ond'rous things, For thou art God alone.

3 Lord, I would wask with holy feet; Teach me thine heav'nly ways, And my poor featter'd thoughts unite In God my Father's praifs.

4 Great is thy mercy, and my fong Shall those sweet wonders tell, How, by thy grace, my finking soul Rose from the deeps of heli.

PSALM LXXXVII.

The Church the birth-oloce of the faints; cr. Jesus and Gentiles united in the Chiffian Church.

OD, in his earthly temple, lays.

Foundations for his reavely praife;
Helikes the crts of Jecob well,
But, fill in Zion loves to dwell.

2 His mercy visits ev'ry house
That pays its night and morning-vows;
Fut makes a more desightful stay
Where churches meet to praise and pray,
3 What glories were describ d of old!
What wonders are of Zion told!
Thou city of our God below,

Thy fame thati Tyre and Egypt know,

4 Egypt and Tyre and Greek and Year, Shall there begin their lives anow: Angels and men shall join, to sing The Hill where Living Waters fpring. when God makes up his last account

Of natives, in his holy mount, 'T will be an honor to appear As one new-born or nonrish'd there.

P S. A L M LXXXIX. First part Long. met.

The Covenant made with Ghrift; or, The true Danid.

FOR ever shall my fong record The truth and mercy of the Lord: Mercy and truth forever stand. Like heav'n, establish'd by his hand.

- 2 Thus, to His Son, he fware, and faid,
- "With thee my cov'nant first is made : " In thee shall dying sinners live :
- "Glory and grace are thine to give.
- 3. " Be thou my Prophet, thou my prieft; "Thy children shall be ever bleft:
- "Thou art my chosen King; thy throne
- " Shall Cand eternal, like my own.
- 4 "There's none of all my fons above
- "So much my image or my love; " Celestial pow'rs thy subjects are,
- "Then what can earth to thee compare?"
- s " David, my fervant, whom I chose To guard my flock, to crush my foes, " (And rais'd him to the Jewish throne)
- "Was but a shadow of My Son." 6 Now let the Church rejoice and fing,

Jesus her Saviour, and her King ! Angels his heavn'ly wonders flow! And faints declare his works below!

P S AL M LXXXIX. First part, Com metre.

The faithfulne, s of God.

MY never ceasing songs that show The mercies of the Lord; And make succeeding ages know How faithful is his word.

The facred truths his lips pronounce Shall firm as heav'n endure: And it he speak a promise once,

'Th' eternal grace is fure.

- 3 How long the race of David held. The promis'd Jewiff throne! But there's a pobier cov'nent feal'd. To David's Greater Son.
- 4 This feed forever shall posses; The throne above the skies; The meanest subject of his grace Shall to that glory rife.
- 5 Lord God of Hofts thy word'rous waye Are fung by faints above,
- And faints on earth their honors raife. To thy unchanging love.

PSALMLXXXIX Second part.. Com. metre. The power and majefly of God; or, Reverential worfhip.

WITH rev'rence, let the faints appear And how before the Lord! Hishigh commands with rev'rence hear, And trembie at his word.

2 How terrible thy glories be!
How bright thine armies fline!
Where is the pow'r which vies with thee?
Or truth compar'd to thine?

3 The Northern pole, and Southern rest On thy supporting hand; Darkness and day, from East to West, Move round at thy command.

4 Thy words the raging winds controul, And rule the boilt rous deep! Thou mak't the fleeping billows roll, The rolling billows fleep.

5 Heav'n earth and air and fea are thine, And the dark world of hell!

How did thine arm in vengeance fline
When Egypt durft rebel!

6 Justice and judyment are thy throne; Yet wond'rous is thy grace; While truth and mercy; in'd in one, Invite us near thy face.

P S A L M LXXXIX. Thirdpart.
The bloffed Gofpel.

The golpel's joyful found;
Peace that attend the paths they go,
And light their fleps around.

2 Their joy floa's bear their fpirits up. Through their Redeemer's name; His righteouness exaus their hope, Nor Satan dates condenn.

3 The Lord, our glory and defence, Strength and favortion gives: I r'el thy King forever reigns, Thy God forever lives!

P S A L MLXXXIX Fourth PartCom.metre. Christ's mediatoriol Kingdom! or, His Divine and Euman nature.

HEAR what the Lord in vision faid, And made his mercy known. "Sinners, behold! your help is laid "On my Almigty Son." a Behold THE MAN my wifdom choice Among your mortal race! IEs fixed my holy oil o'erflows, The Spirit of my grace.

3 Fligh shall be reign on David's throne.
My people's better King;
My arm that beat his rivate down,
and still new subjects bring.

My truth shall guard him in his way,
With mercy by his side:

While in my name through earth and lea,
He shah in triumph ride.

5 Me for his Father and his God, He shall forever own; Call me his Rock, his High Abode, And Fil support My Son.

6 My first born son array'd in grace, At my right hand thail fit; Beneath him angels know their place, And Monarchs, at his fect.

7 My covenant stands forever fast;
My promises are strong;
Firm as the heav'ns His Throne shall last,
His Led endure as long.

P S A L M LXXXIX. Fifth fart Com.metre. The Covenant of Grace unevangeable; or, Affliction swithout Rejection.

YET (faith the Lor!) if David's race, The children of my Son, Should break my laws abuse my grace, And tempt my anger down.

Their fina I'll vifit with the rod, And make their folly finart; But I'll not cease to be their God; Nor from my truth depart.

P 2

My cov'mant I will no crerevoke,
But keep my grace in mind;
And what E emai Love hath fpoke,
Eternal Truth shall bind.

4 Once have I fivorn (I need no more)

And picde'd my i olin. is,

To feat the facred promife fure

To David and his racs.

5 The Sun shalt see his offspring rife, And spread from sea to sea: Long as he travels round the skies To give the nations day.

6 Sure 28 the moon which rules the night,
12: Sine com fliall endure;
2 Till the fix'd laws of fliade and light

Shall be obferv'd no more.

P S A I. M LXXXIX, Sixth part Long met.

Mortality and Hope.

A Funeral Pfalm.

REMEMBER, Lord our, mort il flate. How frail our life how fhort the date! Where is the man who draws his breath Safe from difeafe, fecure from death?

2 Lord while we fee whole nations die.
Om flesh and sense repine and cry,
Must death forever rase and reign)
Or hast thou mady mankind in vain?

3 Where is thy promife to the just? Are not thy fervants turn'd to dust? But faith forbids these mournful siglis, And sees the sleeping du 2 arise.

A That gler'ous hour, that dreadful day Wipes the reproach of funts away, And clears the honor of thy word!
Awake our fouls, and blefs the Lord.

PSALM LAXXIA. AC,

P S A L M LXXXIX. Loft part.

Life, Death and the Re urrellion.

THINK mighty God, on feeble man,
How few his hours! how fhort his fpan
Short from the cradle to the grave!
Who can fecure his vital breath,
Against the bold demands of death;
With skill to fly, or pow'r to fave?

2 Lord, shall it be forever faid,
The race of man was only made
"For ficknets, forrow and the dust?"
Are not thy fervants day by day,
Sent to their graves and turn'd to clay?
Lord where's tay kindness to the just?

a Haft thou not promis'd to thy Son. And all his feed a heav'nly crown? But flesh and fense indulge despair: Forever blessed be the Lord! That faith can read his Holy Word, And find a resurrection there.

a Forever bleffed be the Lord!
Who gives his faints a long reward
For all their toil, reproach and pain:
Let all below, and all above,
Join to proclaim thy wond'rous love,
And each repeat aloud a men.

PSALM XC. Long metre, Man mortal. God, eternal.

A mournful fong at a funeral.

THRORGH ev'ry age, Eternal God, Thou art our rest, our safe abode; High was thy throne e'er heav'n was made. Or earth thy humbie footstool laid.

2 Long hadst thou reign'd e'er time began, Or dust was fashion'd to a man; And long thy kingdom shall endure. When earth and time shall be no more.

3 But man, weak man is born to die; Mide up of guilt and vanity: Thy dreadful fentence Lord was just, Return, ye finners to your duft.

4 [A thousand of our years amount] Scarce to a day in thine account; Like yesterday a departed light, Or the lastwatch of ending night.]

PATSE.

5 Death tike an overflowing firein, Sweeps us away: our life's a dream: An empty tale; a morning flow'r, Cut down and wither'd in an hour:

6 [Our age to fev nty years is fet: How that the term! how frail the fiste! And if to eighty we arrive, We rather figh and groan than live.

7 But On! how oft thy writh appears, and cu's off our expected years!

Thy wrath awakes our humbin dread:
We fear that pow'r which firikes us dead.]

8 Teach us O Lord how frail is man!

8 Teach us O Lord how frail is man!
and kindly lengthen out our fpan,
"Till a wife care of piety
Fit us to die and dwell with thee.

PSALM MC. First Part. Com. metre.

Man, frail. God, eternal.

Our hope for years to come,
Our fletter from the stormy blast,

2 Under the fladow of thy throne, Thy faints have dwelt fecure:

And our eternal home !

Sufficient is thine arm alone, And our defence is fure.

3 Before the hills in order ftood, Or earth receiv'd her frame, From everlasting thou art God, To endless years the same.

4 Thy word commands our flesh to dust,

Return ye Sons of men;

All nations rose from earth at first,

And turn to earth again.

5 A thousand ages in Thy fight
Are like an evining gone;
Short as the watch which ends the night
Before the Rising sun.

6 [The bufy tribes of flesh and blood, With all their lives and cares, Are carry'd downwards by the flood, And loft in foll'wing years

7 Time, like an ever-rolling stream, Bears all its sons away; They sly, forgotten, as a dream Dies at the opining day.

8 Like flow'ry fields the nations fland, Pleas'd with the morning light; The flow'rs beneath the mower's hand, Lie with ring e'er 'is night.]

9 Our God, our help in ages paft, Our hope for years to come ' Be thou our guard while troubles laft, And our eternal home.

PSALM XC. Second part.

Infirmities and mortality the effect of fin; or Llfe, old ege, and preparation for Death.

ORD, if thine eyes furvey our faults, And justice grow severe,

Thy dreadful wrath exceeds our thoughts.
And burns beyond our fear.

2 Thine anger turns our frame to dust:
By one offence to thee,

Atom, with all his fons, have lost Their immortality.

3 Life, like a vain amusement, slies, A faole or a fong:

By fwift degrees our nature dies, Nor can our joys be long.

4'Tis but a few whole days amount To threefcore years and ten; And all beyond that short account

Is forrow, toil, and pain.

5 [Our vitals, with l-bor'ous strife, Bear up the crazy load: And drag those poor remains of life Along the tireforme road.]

6 Almighty God, reveal thy love. And not thy wrath alone: O let-our fweet experience prove The mercies of thy throne!

7 Our forth would learn the heav'nly art T' improve the hours we have; That we may act 'be writer part, And live beyond the grave.

PS & L M XC. Third Part.

Ereathing after Heaven.

ETURN O God of love, vettarn!

Earth is a tirefone place:
How long first we try children mourn
Our absence from thy face?

Let heav'n increed our painful years:
Let fin and forrow ceafe:
Let mercy wipe away our tears,
And make our joys increafe.

3 Thy wonders to thy fervants show:
Make Thy own work complete;
Then shall our fouls thy glory know,
And own thy love was great.

Then shall we shine, before thy throne, In all my beauty, Lord;
And the poor service we have done

Mest undeferv'd reward.

PSALM XC. Short metre. The fraity and fhort els of Life.

ORD, what a feeble piece
Is this our mortal frame!
Our life, how poor a trifle tis,
Which fearce deferves the name!

Alas the brittle slay
Which built our body first!
And ev'ry month, and ev'ry day
'Tis mould'ing back to dust.

3 Our moments fly a pace.
Nor will our moutes flay;
Juft like a flood, our hafty days.
Are fweeping us away.

4 Well, if our days must fly,
We'll keep their end in fight:
We'll spend them all in wisdom's way,
And let them speed their flight.

5 They'll waft us fooder o'er This life's tempett' aus fea: Soon we thail reach the peaceful fhore Of bleft eternity.

PSALM XCI. First part. Long metre.

Safety in public diesa es and dangers.

E who hat hande his refuge. God,
Shall find a most fecure abode;

Shall walk all day beneath his fhade, And there at night, shall rest his head.

2 Then will I fly, "My God, thy pow'r "Shall be try fortrefs and my tow'r: "I, who am form'd of feeble duft, "Make thing Almighty arm my truft."

3 Thrice happy man! thy Maker's care Shalt keep me from the fowler's fnare! Satan, the fowler, who betrays Unguarded fouls, a thouland ways.

A Jult as a hen protects her brood (From birds of prey which feek their blood) Under her feathers; (b), the Lord g Mikes his Own Arm his people's guard.

5 If burning beams of noon confpire. To dart a peffilential fire, God is their life; His Wings are foread To shield them with a healthful shade.

6 W vapours, with malignant breath, Rife thick, and feather midnight death, I r'el is fue: the poison'd air Grows pure, if I/r'el's God be there.

PAUSE.

7 What though a thousand at thy side, At thy right hand ten thousand dy'd? Thy God his chosen people saves Among the dead, amidst the graves! 3 So when he sent his angel doiva. To make his wrath in Egypt known, And slew their sons, his careful eye Pass'd all the doors of Jucob by.

o But, if the fire or plague or fivor I, R ceive commission from the Lord, To firske his faints, among the rest, Their very pains and deaths are bless.

To The fword, the peftilence or fire, shall but fulfil their best defire; From fins and forrow fet them free, And bring thy children, Lord, to thee.

PSALM XCI. Second part. Com. metre.

ProteEion from Death, guard of Angels, Victors and Deliverance.

YE fons of men, a feeble race, Exposed to ev'ry fnare; Come, make the Lord your dwelling-place, And try, and trust his care.

2 No ill shall enter where you dwell: Or, if the plague come nigh, And sweep the wicked down to hell, 'Twill raise his faints on high.

3 He'll give his angels charge to keep Your feet in all their ways,

To watch your pillow, while you fleep, And guard your happy days.

4 Their hands (hall bear you, left you fall And dash against the stones; Are they not fervants, at His call, And fent t'attend His sons?

5 Adders and lions ye shall tread; The tempter's wiles defeat; He who hath broke the serpents head; Puts him beneath your feet.

6 "Because on me they set their love, "I'll save them (faith the Lord)

"I'll bear their joyful fouls above Destruction, and the fword.

7 " My Grace shall answer, when they call; "In trouble I'll be nigh;

"My pow'r shall heip them, when they fate;
And raise them, when they die.

PSALM. XCII.

8" Those who on earth my name have known "I'll honor them in heavin,

"And endless life be giv'n"

PSALM XCII. First part. Long metre.

A P'alm for the Lord's day.

SWEET is the work my God, my King! To praise thy name, give thanks and fing; To shew thy love by morning-light, And talk of all thy truth at night!

a Sweet is the day of facred reft; No mortal cares that feize my breaft; O may my heart in tune be found, Like David's harp of folern found.

3 My heart shall triumph in my Lord, And bless his works, and bless his Word: Thy works of grace, how bright they shine! How deep thy counsels! how divine!

A Fools never raise their thoughts so high; Like brutes they live! like brutes they die! Like grass they flourish, 'till thy breath Rasts them in everlasting death!

e But I shall share a glor'ous part, When grace hath well re fin'd my heart, and fresh supplies of joy are shed, Like holy oil, to cheer my head.

6 Sin (my worst enemy before) Shall vex my eyes and cars no more; My inward foes shall all be slain, Nor Satan break my peace again.

Then shall I see, and hear, and know All I desir'd, or wish'd below: And ev'ry pow'r find sweet employ In that eternal world of joy

P S A L'M XCII. Second part. Long metre.

The Church is the Garden of God.

I ORD, 'tis a pleafant thing to stand In gardens planted by thine hand:
Let me within thy courts be seen Like a young Cedar, fresh and green.

There grow thy saints. in faith and love, Blest with thy instruce from above;
Not Lehanon, with all its trees.
Yields such a comely sight as these.

3. The plants of grace shall ever live:
(Nature decays, but grace must thrive)
Time, which doth all things else impair,
Still makes them flourish strong and fair.

4 Laden with fruits of age, they shew The Lord is holy just and true: None, who attend His gates, shall find A God unfaithful, or unkind.

PSALM XCIII. Long metre.

The Eternal and Sovereign God.

EHOVAH reigns! he dwells in light;

Girded with majefty and might:

The world, created by his hand;

Still on its first foundation stands.

2 But, e'er this fpacious world was made, Or had its first foundations laid, Thy Throne eternal ages stood; Thy Self, the Ever-Living God.

3 Like floods, the angry nations rife, And aim their rage against the skies; Vain floods, which aim their rage so high; At thy rebuke the billows die.

A For ever shall Thy Throng endure:
Thy promise stands forever sure;
And everlasting holiness
Eccomes the dwelling of thy grace.

PSALM XCIII. 2d Metre.

THE Lord of glory reigns; hereigns on high; His robes of state are Strength and Majesty! This wide creation rose at his command; Built by his word, and 'stablish'd by his hand: Long stood his throne. e'er he began creation, And his own Godhead is the firm foundation.

2 God is th' Eternal King: Thy foes, in vain, Raife their rebellion to confound thy reign. In vain the florms, in vain the floods arife, And roar and tof their waves against the fkies; Foaming at heav'n, they rage with wild commotion.

But heav'n's high arches fcorn the fwelling ocean.

3Ye tempests, rage no more! ye floods, be still f And the mad world submissive to his will: Built on his truth, his Church must ever stand: Firm are his promises, and strong his hand: See! his own sons, when they appear before him. Bow at his foot dool, and, with sear, adore him!

PSALM XCILL

3d Metre.

HE LORD JEHOVAH reigns,
And royal ftate maintains 4
His head with awful glories crown'd:
Array'd in robes of light;
Begirt with fov'reign might,
And rays of majefty around.

The world fecurely flands;
And fkies and flars obey thy word a max had the throne was fix'd on high, shoot new Before the flarry fky;
Eternal is thy kingdom, Lord!

In vain the noify crow'd, and alternated with Like billows fierce and loud.

Against thine empire rage and roars

In vain, with angry spite,
The furly nations fight,
And dash, like waves, against the shore,

And Gain, like waves, against the in-

And all their pow'rs engage;

Let swelling tides affault the sky; The terrors of thy frown

Shall beat their maducie down: Thy throne forever stands on high!

Thy promifes are true; Thy grace is ever new:
There fix'd, Thy Church shall ne'er remove:
Thy faints, with holy fear
Sha'l in thy courts appear,
And fing thine ever latting love.

PSALM XCIV. First part.

Saints chaftized, and Sinners destroyed; or, Infructive Afflictions.

THE God, to whom revenge belongs, Proclaims his wrath aloud; His fov'reign pow'rs redrefs our wrongs; His justice imites the proud.

2 They fay, "The Lord nor fees nor hears!" When will the fools be wife! Can be be deaf, who form'd their ears! Or blind, who made their eyes!

3 He knows their implous thoughts are vain, And they shall feel his pow'r; His wrath shall pieces their fouls with pain, In some surprising hour.

4 But, when thy faints deferve rebuke, Thou halt a pentler ro 1;

Thy Providences, and Thy Book, Shall make them know their God.

Pleft is the man thy hands chaftife, And to his duty draw;

Q:

Thy feourges make thy children wife, When they forget thy law.

6 But, God will ne'er cast of his faints,
Nor his own promife break;
He pardons his inheritance,
For their Redeemer's take.

PSALM XCIV. Second part.

Gad, our Support and Comfort: or, Deliverance from Temptation and Perfecution.

WHO will arife and plead my right Against my num'rous foes, While earth and hell their force unite, And all my hopes oppose?

- 2 Had not the Lord, my Rock, my help, Suffain'd my fainting head, My life had now in filence dwelt, My foul among the dead.
- 3 Alas, my fliding feet! 1 cry'd,
 Thy promife was my prop:
 Thy grace flood conflant by my fide,
 Thy Spirit bore me up.
- While multitudes of mournful thoughts Within my botom roil,
 Thy boundlefs tove forgives my faults:
 Thy comforts cheer my foul.
- 5 Pow'rs of iniquity may rife, And frame pernicious laws; But, God, my Refuge, ru es the fkies; He will defend my caufe.
- 6 Let malice vent her rage aloud; Let bold blafphemers fcoff; The Lord, our God, will ju 'ge the proud, And cut the finners off.

PSALM XCV. Common metre.

A P'alm before Prayer.

SING to the Lord Jehovah's name,

And in his arength rejoice;

When his falvation is our theme,
Exalted be our voice.

2 With thanks, approach his awful feat, And plains of honor fing; The Lord's a God of boundless might,

The whole creation's King.

3. Let princes hear, let angels know How mean their natures feem: Those gods on high, and gods below, When once compar'd with him,

- 4 Earth, with its caverns, dark and deep, Lies in his spacious hand; He fix'd the seas what bounds to keep, And where the hills must stand.
- 5 Come, and with humble fouls adone; Come, kneel before his face: O may the creatures of his pow'r Be children of his grace!
- 6 Now is the time! he bends his ear; And waits for your requeft; Come, left he rouze his wrath and fwear "Ye shall not see my rest."

P S A L M XCV. Short metre. A Pfalm before Sermon.

OME, found his praife abroad;
And hymns of giory fing:
Jehovah is the fov'reign God,
The Universal King.

a He form'd the deeps unknown;
He gave the feas their bound;
The wat'ry worlds are all his own,
And all the folid ground.

3 Come, worship at his throne; Come, bow before the Lord; We are his works, and not our own.: He form'd us by his word.

4 To-day attend his voice:
Nor dare provoke his rod:
Come, like the people of his choice,
And own your gracious God.

5 But if your ears refule
The language of his grace,
And hears grow hard, like stubborn Jews;
That unbelieving race.

6 The Lord, in vengeance dreft,
Will lift his hand, and fwear,
Wound deforte my promised a

"You who despise my promis'd rest,
"Shall have no portion there."

PSALM XCV. Long meter.

Canaan lost through Unbelief; or, A warning to delaying Sinners.

OME, let our voices join to raife A facted fong, of folerm, praife: God is a fov'teign King; rehearse His honors, in exated verse.

2 Come let our fouls address the Lord, Who fram'd our natures with his word; He is our Simphord; we, the sheep His mercy choose, his pastures keep.

a Come, let us hear his voice, to day, The countries of his love obey; Nor let out hardened hearts renew The fins and plagues which Ifred knew.

a Is'el, who saw his works of grace, Yet tompt their Maker to his face; A faithirst unbelieving brood. That tir'd the patience of their God. 5 Thus faith the Lord, " How falfe they prove !

" Forget my pow'r abuse my love;

" Since they despise my rest I swear,

"Their feet shall never enter there."

6 [Look back my foul with holy dread, And view those ancient rebels dead!
Attend the offer'd grace to-day,
Nor lefe the bieffing by delay.

, Seize the kind promise while it waits, And march to Zion's heav'nly gates; Believe and take the promis'd rest; Obey, and be forever blest.]

PSALM XCVI. Com. Metre.

Christ's first and second Coming.

SING to the Lord ye distant lands,
Ye tribes of avery tongue;
His new discover'd grace demands
A new and nobler fong.

2 Say to the nations, Jesus reigns?
God's own Almighty Son;
His pow'r the finking worlds sustains,
And grace surrounds his throne.

3 Let heav'n proclaim the joyful day;
Joy through the earth be feen;
Let cities shine in bright array,
And fields in cheerful green.

4 Let an unufual joy surprise
The Islands of the sea;
Ye mountains sink; ye vallies rise;
Prepare the Lord his way.

5 Behold he comes! He comesto bless
The nations as their God;
To shew the world his righteousness,
And send his truth abroad.

& But when his voice shall raise the dead, And bid the world draw nears How will the guilty nations dread To fee their Judge appear!

PSALM XCVI.

The God of the Gentiles.

ET all the earth their voices raife
To fing the choicest psalm of praise
To fing and bless Jehovah's name:
His gory let the heathen know,
His wonders to the nations show,

And all his faving works proclaim.

The heathens know thy glory Lord;
The wond'ring nations read thy word;
Thefe deferts have Jehovak known:
Our worlfip fhall no more be paid
To gods which mortal hands have made;
Our Maker is our God alone.

3 He fram'd the globe he built the fky, He made the shining worlds on high;
And teigns complete in glory, there:
His beams are majesty and light;
His beauties how divinely bright;
His temple how divinely fair!

A Come the great day, the glor our hour? When earth shall feel his faving pow'r, and barb'rous nations fear his name: Then shall the race of man confess.

The beauty of his holiness;

And in his courts his grace proclaim.

PSALM XCVII. First Part. Long metre.

Christ reigning in Heaven and coming to Judgment.

HE reigns; the Lord the Saviour reigns
Praise him in evangelic strains:
Let the whole earth in songs rejoice,
And distant island son their voice.

Deep are his councils and unknown; But, grace and truth support his throne: Though gloomy clouds his ways surround, Justice is their eternal ground.

3 In robes of judgment, lo! He comes; Shakes the wide earth, and cleaves the tombs: Before him burns devouring fire; The mountains melt, the feas retire.

4 His enemies, with fore difmay, Flee from the fight, and fhun the day: Then lift your heads, se faints. on high, And fing; for your redemption's nigh!

PSALM XCVII. Second part. Long metre, Chrill's incarnation.

THE Lord is come, the heav'ns proclaim His birth; the nations learn his name; An unknown star directs the road Of Exfern fages, to their God.

2 All ye bright armies of the skies Go, worship where the Saviour lies; Angels and kings before him bow, These gods on high and gods below.

3 Let Idols totter to the ground, And their own worshippers confound: But Judab shout, but Zion sing, And earth confess her Sovireign King.

PSALM XCVII. Third part. Long metre.

Grace and glory.

Th' Almighty reigns! exalted high O'er all the tarth, o'er all the fky: Though clouds and darkness veil his rect. His dwelling is the mercy-feat.

2 O ye who love His Holy Name, Hate ey'ry work of fin and shame:

Me guards the fouls of all his Friends, And from the fnares of hell defends.

3 Immortul light and joys unknown, Are for the faints in darkness fown: Those glor'ous feeds shall spring and rise, And the bright harvest bless our eyes.

A Rejoice ye righteous and record
The facred honors of the Lord:
None but the fouls that feel His race
Can triumph in his Holinefs.

PSAL M XCVII. Common metre. Christ's Incarnation and the last Judgment' TE islands of the Northern sea,

His word, like fire, prepares his way, And mountains melt to plains.

2 His presence sinks the proudest hills, And makes the vallies rise: The humble soul enjoys his smiles, The haughty suner dies.

3 The heav'ns his rightful pow'r proclaim:
The idol gods around
Fill their own worshippers with shame,

And totter to the ground.

A cloring angels, at his birth,
Mide the Redeemer known:
Thus shall He come to judge the earth,
And angers guard his throne.

5 His foes shall tremble at his fight, And hills and seas retire: His children take their unknown slight? And leave the world on fire.

6 The feeds of joy and glory fown
For faints, in darkness here,
Shall rife and fpring in worlds unknown,
And a rich harvest bear.

PSALM XCVIII. First part. Com. metres

Praise for the Gospel.

TO our Almighty Maker, God, New honors be addreft: His great falvation fuines abroad, And makes the nations bleft.

2 He spake the word to Abra'm sirst, His truth suisils his grace; The Gentiles make his name their trust,

The Gentiles make his name their truit, And learn his righteoufacts.

3 Let the whole earth his love proclaim With all her diff'rent tongues;
And fpread the honors of his name In melody and fongs.

P S A L M XCVIII. Second part Com. metre. The Meffiah's Coming and Kingdom.

JOY to the world the Lord is come; Let earth receive her King: Let ev'ry heart prepare him room, And Heav'n and Nature fing.

2 Joy to the earth the Saviour reigns!
Let men their longs employ;
While fields and floods rocks hills and plains;
Repeat the founding joy.

3 No more let fins and forrows grow. Nor thorns infeft the ground; He comes to make his bleffings flow Far as the curfe is found.

A He rules the world with truth and grace,
And makes the nations prove
The glories of his righteoufness,
And wonders of his love.
R

PSALM XCIX. First Part. Short metre. Christ's Kingdom and Majesty.

THE God Jehovah reigns!
Letall the nations fear;
Let finners tremble at his Throne,
And faints be humble there.

2 Jesus the Saviour reigns !
Let. anth adore its Lord;
Bright cherubs his attendants stand
Swift to fulfil his word.

3 In Zion is Il's Throne; His honors are divine; His Church stall make his wonders known; For there his glories strine!

4 How holy is his Name!
How terrible his praise!
Justice and truth and judgments join
In all his works of grace:

PSALM XCIX. Second part. Short metre.

A Holy God avorshipped with Reverences

EXALT the Lord our God, And worship at his feet; His nature is all holiness, And mercy is his feat.

2 When Ifr'ei was his church, When Aaron was his prieft, When Moses cry'd, when Samuel pray'd, He gave his people rest.

3 Oft he forgave their fins.

Nor would deftroy their race:
And oft he made his veugeance known
When they abused his grace.

4 Exalt the Lordout God, Whose grace is full the same; Still hers a God of holiness, And jealous for his name.

PSALM C. Long metre.

A plain translation.

Fraife to sur Creator.

Le nations round the earth rejoice
Beforethe Lord your Sovereign King!
Serve him with chearful heart and voice,
With all your tongues his glory fing.

2 The Lord is God, 'tis he alone Doth life and breath, and being give! We are his works and not our own; The sheep which on his pastures live.

3 Eater his gates with fongs of joy, With praises to his courts repair; And make it your divine employ, To pay your thankful honors there.

A The Lord is good; the Lord is kind; Great is his grace his mercy fure; And the whole race of man shall find His truth from age to age endure.

PSAL M C. Long metre. A Paraphrase.

SING to the Lord with joyful voice;
Let every land his name addres;
America that fend the noise
Across the ocean to the shore.

2 Nations attend before his Throne With folemn fear with facred joy! Know that the Lord is God alone; He can create, and He destroy!

3 His fov'reign pow'r without our aid, Made us of clay and form'd us men; And when, like wand'ring sheep, we stray'd, He brought us to his fold again.

4 We are his people we his care, Our fours, and all our mortal frame; What lading honors shall we rear, Almighty Maker, to thy Name? 5 We'll crowd Thy gates with thankful fongs, High as the Heav'ns our voices raife; And earth, with her ten thousand tongues, Shall fill thy courts with founding praise!

Wide as the world is thy command! Vaft, as eternity thy Love! Firm as a rock thy truth must fland, When rolling years shall cease to move!

PSALM CI. Long metre.

The Magifirates' Pfalm.

MERCY and judgments are my fong!

And fince they both to thee belong,
My gracious God my righteous King,
To thee my fongs and vows I bring.

2 If I am rais'd to bear the fword; *
I'll take my counfels from thy word;
T hy justice and thy heav bly grace
Sh all be the pattern of my ways.

3 Let wisdom all my actions guide, And let my God with me reside: No wicked thing shall dwell with me, Which may provoke thy jealously.

4 No fons of flander rage and firife, Shall be companions of my life; The haughty look the heart of pride, Within my doors shall ne'er abide.

5 [I'll fearch the land and raife the just To posts of honor wealth and trust: The men who work thy holy will, Shall be my friends and fav'rites still.]

6 Invain shall supers kope to rise By slatt'ring or malicious lies: And while the innocent I guard, The bold offender shap't be spar'd.

7 The impious crew that factious band, Shall hide their heads or quit the land; And all who break the public rest, Where I have pow'r shall be supprest.

PSALM Ci. Common Metre.

A pfalm for a Muster of a Family.

OF justice and of grace I sing,
And pay my God my vowe;
Let grace and justice heav niy King,
Teach me to rule my house.

2 Now to my tent, O God repair, And make thy fervant wife; To fuffer nothing near me there, Which shall offend thine eyes.

3 The man who doth his neighbor wrong, By faithood or by force, The formful eye the fland rous tongue, I'll thruk them from my doors.

4 Pilifeek the faithfu! and the juff, And will their help enjoy! Thefe are the friends whom I shall trust,

The fervants l'llemploy.

5 The wretch who deals in fly deceit,
l'il not endure a night:
The liar's tongue l'll ever hate,

And bandh from my fight.

6 I'll purge my family around, And make the wicked fiee; So shall my house be ever found A dwelling fit for thee

P S A I, M CII. First part. Commette

A Prayer of the Afflicted,

HEAR me, O God, nor hide thy face,
But answer 'elt I die:
Hak thou not built a throne of grace,
To hear when sinners cry?

2 My days are wasted like the smoke, D. stolving in the air; My strength is dry'd my heart is broke, And finking in despair.

3 My spirits flag, like with ring grass, Burnt with excessive heat: In secret grouns my minutes pass,

And I forget to eat.

As on fome lonely building's top.
The fparrow tells her moan,
Far from the tents of joy, and hope,
I fit and grieve alone.

5 My foul is like a wilderness, Where beafts, of midright howl; There the fad raven finds her place, And there the screaming owl.

- 6 Dark difmal thoughts and boding fears Dwell in my troubled breaft; While sharp reproaches wound my ears, Nor give my spirit rest.
- My cup is mingled with my wees, And tears are my repast; My daily bread like ashes grows Unpleasent to my taste.
- 2 Sense can afford no real joy To souls who feel thy frown; Lord, 'twas thy hand advanc'd me high; Thy hand hath cast me down.
- 9 My locks like wither'd leaves appear; And life's declining light Grows faint as ev'ning shadows are,

Which vanish into night.

To But Thou forever art the fame,
O my Eternal God!
Ages to come shall know thy Name,
And spread Thy works abroad.

Nor will my Lord delay,

Beyond th' appointed hour of grace, That long-expected day.

12 He hears his faints, he knows their cry; And by myster'ous ways, Redeems the pris'ners doom'd to die, And fills their tongues with praise.

PSALM CII. Second part. Com. metre. Prayer heard and Zion restored.

ET Zion and her Sons rejoice;
Behold the promis'd hour!
Her God hath heard her mourning voice,
And comes t'exalt his pow'r.

2 Her dust and ruins which remain,
 Are precious in our eyes:
 Those ruins shall be built again,
 And all that dust shall rife.

3 The Lord will raife Jert falem, And stand-in glory there; Nations shall bow before his name, And kings attend with fear.

 4 He fits a Sov'reign on his Throne, With pity in his eyes;
 He hears the dying priscers groun, And fees their fighs arite.

5 He frees the fouls condemn'd to death; And when his faints complain, It shan't be faid "that praying breath Wasever spent in vain."

6 This shall be known when we are dead, And left on long record, That ages yet unborn may read, And trust and praise the Lord.

PSALM CII. Third part. Long metre. Man's mortality and Christ's Eternity; or Saint's die, but Ctrist and the Church, live.

T is the Lord our Saviour's hand Weakens our strength amidst the race; Disease and death, at his command, Arrest us, and cut short our days.

2 Spare us, O Lord! aloud we pray, Nor let our Sun go down at noon; Thy years are one Eternal day!

And must thy children die fo foon?

3 Yet in the midft of death and grief, This thought our forrow will affuage: "Our Father and our Saviour live; "Christis the same through every age."

4 'Twas He this earth's foundations laid; Heav'n is the building of his hand; This earth grows old these heav'ns shall sade, And all be chang'd at thy command.

5 The flarry curtains of the fky, Like gaments, shall be laid afide: But fill Thy Throne stands firm and high; Thy Church forever must abide.

6 Before thy face thy church shall live, And on thy throne thy children reign: This dying world shall they survive, And the dead faints berais'd again.

P S A L M CIII. First Part. Long metre, Blessing God. for bis goodne's to Soul and Body.

D LESS, O my foul! the living God;
Call home thy thoughts which rove abroad;
Let all the pow'rs within me join,
In work and worship to divine.

2 Blefs, O my foul! the God of grace, His favors claim thy highest praise; Why should the wonders he hath wrought Be lost in filence and forgot?

3 'Tis he, my foul who fent his Son To die for crimes which thou haft done; He owns the rantom and forgives The hourly folics of our lives. A The vices of the mind he heals, And cures the pains which Nature feels, Redeems the four from hell, and faves Our wasting lives from threat'ning graves.

g Our youth decay'd his pow'r repairs; His mercy crowns our growing years; He fatisfies our mouths with good, And filis our hopes with heavinly food,

6 He fees th' oppressors and th'soppress, And often gives the sufficers rest: But will his justice more display In the last great rewarding day.

7 'His pow'r hesnew'd by Mo'es hands, And gave to Er'el his commands; But sent His Truth and Mercy down To all the nations, by his Son.

8 Let the whole earth his pow'r confess, Let the whole earth adore his grace; The Gentile, with the Jesu, shall join In work and worship so divine.]

PSALM CIVI. Second Part. Long metre.

God's gentle chassis, ement; or His tender mercy to His People.

THE Lordhow wond'rous are his ways;
How firm his truth; how large his grace
He takes his mercy for his throne.
And thence he makes his glories known.

2 Not half so high his pow'r hath spread The starry heav'ns above our head, As his rich love exceeds our praise, Exceeds the highest hopes we raise.

3 Not haif fo far hath Nature plac'd The rising morning from the West, As his forgiving grace removes. The daily guilt of those he loyes.

4. How flowly doth his wrath arife! On fwifter wing falvation flies: And, if he lets his anger burn, How foon his frowns to pity turn!

5 Amidst his wrath.compassion shines; His strokes are lighter than our fins; And while his rod corrects his faints, His ear indulges their complaints.

6 So fathers their young fons chastise With gentle hands and melting eyes: The children weep beneath the smart, And move the pity of their heart.

PAUSE.

? The Mighty God the Wife and Juft, Knows that our frame is feeble duft; And will no heavy loads impose Beyond the strength which he bestows. S He knows how soon our nature dies, Biasted by ev'ry wind that flies: Like grass we spring, and die as soon, As motning flow'rs which sade at noon.

9 But His Eternal Love is fure To all the faints and shall endure; From age to age his Truth shall reign, Nor children's children hope in vain.

P S A L M CIII. First part. Short metre. Praise for Spiritual and Temporal mercies.

O BLESS the Lord, my foul! Let all within me join, And aid my tongues to bless his name, Whose favors are divine.

2 O blefs the Lord, my foul!
Nor let his mercies lie
Forgotten, in unthankfulnefs,
And without praifes die.

3 "Tis he forgives thy fins;
"Tis he relieves thy pain;
Tis he who heals thy fickneffes,
And makes thee young again.

4 He crowns thy life with love.
When ranio'n'd from the grave;
He who redeem'd my fout from heil
Hath Sov'reign Pow'r to fave.

3 He fills the poor with good;
He gives the full ressect:
The Lord hath judgments for the proud;
And judge for the oppress.

6 His wond'rous works and ways
He made by Mofes known;
But fent the world his truth and graceBy His beloved Son.

PSALM CIII. Second part.

Abounding Compassion of God; or, Mercy in the midstof Judgment.

MY foul, repeat His praise
Whose mercies are so great;
Whose anger is so flow to rise,
So ready to abate.

2 God will not always chide; And when his strokes are felt, His strokes are fewer than our crimes, And lighter than our guilt.

3 High as the Heavins are rais'd Above the ground we tread, So far the riches of his grace Our highest thoughts exoced.

4 His pow'r fubdues our fins;
And his forgiving love.
Far as the Egg is from the MgA;
Doth all curefull remove.

5 The pity of the Lord, To those who sear his name, Is such, as tender parents feel; He knows our feeble frame

6 He knows we are but dust, Scatter'd with every breath: His anger, like a rising wind, Can fend us swift to death.

7 Our days are as the grafs, Or like the morning-flow'r; If one tharp blaff weep o'er the field, It withers in an hour.

8 But thy compaffions Lord, To endiefs years endure; And children's children ever find Thy words of promife fure.

PSALM CIII. Third part.

God's Univerfal Dominion; or Angels praise the Lord.

HE Lord, the Sov'reign King,
Hath fix'd his throne on high;
O'er all the heav'nly world he rules
And all beneath the sky.

2 Ye angels great in might, And fwift to do his will, Blefs ye the Lord whose voice you hear. Whose pleasure ye fulfil.

3 Let the bright hofts who wait
The orders of their King,
And guard his churches when they pray,
Join in the praife they fing.

4 While all his wond'rous works
Through his vaft kingdom shew
Their Makers glory thou my soul,
Shalt sing his graces too.

PSALM CIV.

The Glory of God in Creation and Providence.

MY foul, thy Great Creator praife; When cloth'd in his celeftial rays, He in full majefty appears, And like a robe his glory wears.

Note, This plaim s ay be fung to St. Helen's tune by adding the following lines to each flanza, viz

Great is the Lord, what tongue can frame An equal honor to his name?

(Otherwise it may be fung to any Long metre tune.)

2 The heav'ns are for his curtains spread; Th' unfathom'd deep he makes his bed; Clouds are his char'ot, when he slies On winged storms across the skies.

3 Angels (whom his own breath inspires) His ministers are flaming fires;
And, swift as thought, their armies move,
To bear his vengeance or his love.

4 The world's foundations, by his hand, Are pois'd, and shall forever fland; Hebinds the ocean in his chain Left it should drown the world again.

5 When earth was cover'd with the flood, Which high above the mountains flood, He thunder'd and the ocean fled, Confin'd to its appointed bed.

6 The fwelling billows know their bound, And in their channels walk their round; Yet, thence convey'd by fecret veins, They fpring on hills, and drench the plains.

7 He bids the chrystal fountains flow; And cheer the vallies as they go: Tame heifers there their thirst allay, And for the stream, wild asses bray

8 From pleafant trees, which thate the brink, The lark and linnet light to drink:
Their fongs the lark and linnet raife,
And chide our filence in his praife.

PAUSE. I.

o God, from his cloudy cifters, pours On the parch'd earth enriching show is; The grove, the garden, and the field, A thousand joyful blessings yield.

To He makes the graffy food arife, And gives the cattle large supplies: With herbs for man, of var ous pow'r, To nourish nature, or to cure.

rr What noble fruit the vines produce! The olive yields a shining juice; Our hearts are cheer'd with zen'rous wine. With inward joy our faces shine.

12 O blefs his name ye nations fed With nature's chief supporter bread; While bread your vital strength imparts, Serve him with vigor in your hearts.

PAUSE II.

R3 Behold! the stately cedar stands; Rais'd in the forest by his hands; Birds to the boughs for shelter sty, And build their ness secure on high.

14 To craggy hills aftends the goat; And at the airy mountain's foot, The feebler creatures make their cell: He gives them wildom where to dwell.

Is Hefets the Sun his circling race, Appoints the Moon to change her face; And when thick darkness veils the day, Calls out wild beads to hunt their prey.

ro Fierce lions lead their young abroad, And, roaring, alk their meat from God; But, when the morning-beams arife, The favage beaft to covert flies.

3.7 Then must to daily labor goes:
The night was made for his repole;
Sleep is thy gift, that fweet relief
From the forme toil and wasting grief.

18 How firange thy works! how great thy ikill! And ev'ry land thy riches ful:
Thy willow round the world we fee;
This foacious earth is full of thee.

19 Nor less thy glories in the deep, Where tith, in millions, swim and creep, With wond rous motions, swift or flow, Still wand ring in the paths below.

20 There thips divide their wat'ry way, And flocks of fealy monfiers play; There dwells the huge Levithan, And foams and sports in spite of man.

PAUSE. III.

21 Vaft are thy works, Almighty Lord ! All rature reits upon thy word, And the whole race of creatures frand Walting their portion from thy Hand

22 While each receives his diff'rent food, Their cheerful tooks pronounce it good: Eagles and beers, and whales and worms, Rejoice and praise, in diff'rent forms

23 But when thy face is hid, they mourn; And dying, to their dust return: Both man and beast their fouls resign; Life, breath and spirit, all are thing.

24 Yet thou can't breathe on earth again, And fill the world with beafts and men; A word of thy greating breath Repairs the wastes of Time and Death. a5 His works, the wonders of his might, Are honor'd with his own delight: How awful are his glor'ous ways! The Lord is dreadful in his praise.

26 The earth stands trembling at thy stroke, And, at thy touch, the mountains smoke; Yet humble souls may see thy face. And teli their wants to Sov reign Grace.

27 In Thee my hopes and withes meet, And make my meditations fweet: Thy praifes shall my breath employ, Till it expires in codies joy.

28 While haughty finners die accurft, Their glory bury'd with their duit, I tomy God, my heav'nly King, Immortal hailelujahs fing.

PSALM CV. Abridged.

God's Conduct to Israel and the Plagues of Egypt. IVE thanks to God, invoke his name,

Fig. 2 And tell the world his grace:
Sound through the earth his deeds of fame,
That all may feek his face.

2 His cov'nant which he kept in mind For num'rous ages past, To num'rous ages yet behind, In equal force shall last.

3 He iware to Abr'agn and his feed, And made the bleffing fure; Gentiles the ancient promife read, And find his truth endure.

4" Thy feed shall make all nations bleft, (Said the Almighty Voice)

"And Canaan's land shall be their rest,

"The type of heav'nly joys."

Is How large the grant! how rich the grace! To give them Canaan's land,

When they were firangers in the place.
A little feeble band!

6 Like pilgrims, through the countries round Securery they removed, And haughty kings who on them frowned

Severely he reproved.

7 "Touch Mine Anointed, and My Arm.

"Shall foon revenge the wrong;"
"The man who does my prophets harm,
"Shall know their God is arong."

8 Then let the world for hear its rage,
Nor put the Church in fear:

Is et must live through co'rs age.
And he th' Almighty's care.
P A U S E L.

9 When Pharaob dar'd to wex the faints, And thus provok'd their God: Moes was fent at their complaints, Arm'd with his dreadful 10d.

to He call'd for darkness: darkness came, Like an o'er whelming flood;

He turn'd each lake, and ev'ry fream,
To lakes and streams of blood.

Tr He gave the fign, and noisome flies Through the whole country foread; And frogs, in croaking armies rife

About the monarch's bed.

12 Through fields and towns, and palaces,
The ten-fold vengeance flew;

Locults, in Iwaims, devour'd their trees,
And hail their cattle flew:

Then by an angel's midnight ftroke
The flow'r of Egypt dy'd:

The firength of every house was broke, Their glory and their pride.

14 Now let the world forbear is rage, Nor put the Church in fear: Isr'el must live through ev'ry age, And he th' Almighty's care.

PAUSEII.

15 Thus were the tribes from bondage brought And left the hated ground; Each fome Exoption fpoils had got,

And not one feeble found.

16 The Lord himself chose out their way,
And mark'd their journes right;

Gave them a leading-cloud by day, A fiery guide by night.

They thirst: and waters

17 They thirst; and waters from the rock In rich abundance flow. And foll wing fill the course they took.

Ran all the defart through.

18 O wond'rous Stream! O bleffed Type Of ever-flowing grace!

So Carift, our Rock, maintains our life Through all this wilderness.

19 Thus guarded by th' Almighty Hand, The chosen tribes possest Cancan, the rich, the promis'd land; And there enjoy'd their rest.

20 Then let the world forbear its rage, The Church renownee her fear; If I'et must live througher' ry age, And he th' Almighty's care.

PSALM CVI. First part. Long metre.

Praise to God; or, Communion with Saints.

A Let fongs of honor he addreft; His mercy firm forever flands; Give him the thanks his love demands.

who shall fulfil thy boundless praise?

6.34

Bleft are the fouls who fear thee still, And pay their daty to thy will.

3 Remember what thy mercy did For Jacob's race, thy chosen feed: And, with the same falvation, biefs The meanest suppliant of thy grace.

4 O may I fee thy tribes rejoice, and aid their triumphs with my voice! This is my glory, Lord, to be Join'd to thy faints, and near to thee.

PSALM CVI. Second part.

Ifrael Punished and Pardoned; or, God's Unchangeable Love.

OD of Eternal Love,
How fickle are our ways!
And vet, how oft did Ifr'el prove
Tu; conftancy of grace?

2 They faw thy wonders wrought, And then thy-praise they sung; But soon thy works of pow'r forgot, And murmur'd with their tongue.

3 Now they believe his word,
While rocks with river; flow;
Now with their lufts provoke the Lord,
And he reduc'd them low.

4 Yet, when they mourn'd their faults, He harken'd to their groans, Brought his own cov'nant to his thoughts, And call'd them fill his fons.

Their names were in his book. He fav'd them from their foes: Oft he chaftis'd, but ne'er forfook The people whom he choke.

6 Let Ifr'el blefs the Lord, Who lov'd their ancient race: And Christians join the folemn word, Amen, to all the praise.

PSALM CVII. First part. Long metre. Ifrael led to Canaan, and Christians to Heaven.

OlVE thanks to God; he reigns above; Kind are his thoughts his name is Love; His mercy ages path have known, And ages long to come finall own.

a Let the redcemed of the Lord The wonders of his grace record; Ifr'd, the nation whom he chole, And refou'd from their mighty focs.

[3] When God's Almighty Arm had broke Their fetters, and th' Expiian yoke, They trac'd the defart, wand'ring round A wild and footary ground?

A There they could find no leading road, Nor city for a fix'd abode; Nor food, nor fountain to affuage
Their hurning thirfi, or hunger's rage]
5 In their diffrefs to God they cry'd:
God was their Saviour and their guide:
He led their much far v and ring round:
Twas the right path to Ganaen's ground,

6 Thus when our first release we gain from su's old yoke, and satan's chain, We have this defart world to pass, A dang'rous and a tiresome place of He seeds and clothes us all the way: He guides our sootsteps, lest we stray; He guards us with a pow'ifm hand, And brings us to the heav'my land.

3 O let the funts with joy record.

The truth and goodness of the Lord! How great his works! how kind his ways! Let ev'ry tongue pronounce his praise. P S A L M CVII. Second part. Correction for Sin, and Release by Prayer.

ROM age to age exalt his Name:

G.d and his grace are fill the fame:

He fills the hungry foul with food, and feeds the poor with every good.

2 But if their hearts rebel and rife Against the God who rules the skies: If they reject his heav'nly word, And slight the counsels of the Lord;

3 He'll bring their fpirits to the ground, And no deliv'rer shall be found: Laden with grief they waste their breath La darkness, and the shades of death.

A Then to the Lord they raife their cries, the makes their dawning light arife, And featters all the difmal shade Which hung so heavy round their head.

5 He cuts the bars of brass in two, And lets the smiling pris'ners through; Takes off the load of guilt and grief; And gives the lab'ring foul relief.

6 O may the fons of men record The word'rous goodness of the Lord! How great his works! how kind his ways! Let ev'ry tongue pronounce his praise;

PSALM CVII. Third part. Intemperance Punished and Pardoned; or, A Psalm for the Glutton and the Drunkard.

Vain man on foolish pleasures bent,
Prepares for his own punithment;
What pains what loathsome maladies
From luxury and lust arise!

2 The drunkard feels his vitals waste: Yet drowns his health to please his taste: Till all his active pow'rs are lost, And fainting life draws near the dust. 3 The glutton groups and loathes to eat; This fool abhors deficious most; invature with heavy loads oppreft, Would yield to death to be released.

4 Then how the highted finners fly
To Ged for help with earnest cry!
He hears their groans prolongs their breath
And taves them from approaching death.

5 No med'eine could effect the cure So quick fo caty or to fure. The oradiy fentence God repeals, He fends his fov'reign-word and heals.

6 O may the fons of men record. The wond'rous goodness of the Lord, And let their thankful off'nines prove. How they adore their Maker's love.

P S A L M CVII. Exacth Part. Long metre. Deliverance from Storms and Shipwreck; or the Seam w's pong.

WOULD you behold the works of God,
His wonders in the world abroad
Go with the mariners and trace
The unknown regions of the feas.

2 They leave their native shores behind, And seize the favor of the wind:
2 Till God commands and tempests rise,
Which heave the ocean to the states.

3 Naw to the heav'ns they mount amain; Now fink to dreadful deeps again; What strange afflights young failors feel, And like a stagg'ring druukard reel!

4 When land is far and death is nigh, both to all hope to God they cry: His mercy bears their loud address, and fends falvation in diffress.

rife buls the winds their wrath affange, Ine furious waves forget their rage; It is calm; and fallors fmile to fee The haven where they wish'd to be, 6 O may the fons of men record The wond'rous poodness of the Lord! Let them their private off'rings bring, And in the Church His Glory fing.

PSALM CVII. Fourth Part Commetre.
The Mariner's Pfalm.

THY works of glory mighty Lord,
The fons of courage shall record;
Where robing oceans fleep.

2 Atthy command the winds arife, And swell the tow ring waves; The men astonish'd mount the skies, And link in gaping graves.

3 'Again they climb the watry hills, And plunge in deeps again: Bach, like a tott ring drunkard reels, And finds his courage vain.

4 Frighted to hear the tempest rost,
They pant with fluttering breath:
And hopeless of the distant shore,
Expect immediate death.]

Then to the Lord they raife their cries;
He Fears the loud request:
And orders fi'ence through the skies.
And lays the floods to reft.

6 Sallors rejoice to loofe their fears, And fee the from allay'd; Now to their eyes the part appears, There let their yows be paid.

7' Tis God who brings them fafe to land; Let stupid mortals know; That waves are under his command, And all the winds which blow.

8 If that the fons of men would praife.
The goodness of the Lord!
And those the see thy wood rous ways.
Thy wond rous fove record!

FSALM CV.I. Last part. Long metre.

Colonies Planted; or Nations Bleft and Purished.

A Plain for New-England.

WHEN God provok'd with daring crimes, Scourges the madness of the times, He turns their fields to barren fund And dries the rivers from the land.

- 2 His word can raife the springs again, And make the wither'd mountains green; Send show'ry blessings from the skies, And harvests in the defarts rife.
- [3 Where nothing dwelt but beafts of prey. Of men as herce and wild as they, He bids th' opprest and poor, repair And build them towns and cities there.
- 4 They fow the fields and trees they plant, Whole yearly fruit supplies their want: Their race grows up from fruitful stocks. Their wealth increases with their flocks.
- 5 Thus they are bleft; but if they fia, He lets the heathen nations in; A favage crew invades their lands, Their children die by barb'rous hands.
- 6 Their captive fons expos'd to fcorn, Wander unpity'd and forlorn:
 The country lies unfenced untill'd, And defolation spreads the field.
- 7 Yet, if the humbled nation mourns, Again his dreadful hand be turns;

Again he makes their cities thrive, And bids their dying churches live.]

8 The righteous, with a joyful fense, Admire the works of Providence; And tongues of atheists shall no more, Blaspheme the God whom faints adore.

9 How feet, with pious care, record The wond'rous dealings of the Lord! But, wife observers still shall find, The Lord is holy, just and kind.

PSALM CIX. Common metre.

Love to Enemies, from the Example of Christ,

OD of my mercy and my praise,
Though sinners speak against thy grace
With a blaspheming tongue.

2 When in the form of mortal man Thy Son on earth was found, With cruel flanders, false and vain They compased him around.

3 Their mis'ries his compatition move;
Their peace he ftill purfu'd;
They render hatred for his love,
And evil for his good.

4 Their malice rag'd, without a cause ; He, with his dying breath,

Pray'd for his murd'rers on the crofs, And bleft his toes in death.

5 Lord shall thy bright example shine In vain before my eyes;

Give me a foul a-kin to thine, To love my enemies!

6 The Lord shall on my fide engage,
And in my Saviour's name;
I shall defeat their pride and rage

Who flander and condemn.

PSALM CXI. First Part. Com. metre.
The Widom of Gad in his Works.

S ONGS of immortal praife belong To my Almighty God. He has my heart, and he my tongue, To forcad his name abroad.

2 How great the works his hand has wrought 2 How glor'ous in our fight! Good men in ev'ry age have fought

His wonders with delight.

3 How most exact is Nature's frame! How wife th' Eternal Mind! His counsels never change the scheme Which his first thoughts design'd.

4 When he redeem'd his chofen fons, He fix'd his cov'nant fure: The orders which his lips pronounce, To endless years endure.

5 Nature and time, and earth and skies, Thy heav'nly skill proclaim:
What shall we do to make us wise, But learn to read Thy Name?

6 To fear thy pow'r, to trust thy grace,
I our divinest skill;

And he's the wifest of our race Who best obeys thy will.

PSALM CXI. Second part. Com. metre.

The perfedions of God.

O'REAT is the Lord: his works of might Demand our nobleft fongs;
Let his affembled faints unite,
Their harmony of tongues.

Great is the mercy of the Lord:
He gives his children food;
And, ever mindful of his word,

He makes his promife good.

His Son, the Great Redeemer, came
To feal his cov'nant fure:
Holy and rev'rend is His Name,
His ways are just and pure.

Those who would grow divinely wise, Must with his fear begin; Our fairest proof of knowledge, lies to hating ev'ry fin.

PSALM CXII. Particular metre.

PSALM CXII. Long metre.

The Bleffings of the Pious and Charitable.

HRICE happy man who fears the Lord, Loves his commands, and trufts his word : Honor and peace his days attend, And bloffings to his feed defcend.

- 2 Compassion dwells upon his mind. To works of mercy ftill inclin'd, He lands the poor some present aid, Or gives them, not to be repaid.
- 3 When times grow dark, and tidings spread Which fill his neighbors round with dread. His heart is arm'd against the fear, For God, with all his pow'r, is there.
- A His foul well fix'd upon the Lord, Draws heav'nly courage from his word : Amidft the darknets, light shall rife, To cheer his heart and ble is his eyes,
- 5 He hath dispers'd his alms abroad. His works are still before his God!

'His name on earth shall long remain, While envious sinners fret in vain.

PSAL M CXII. Common metre. Liberality rewarded.

His Sacred Name forever blefs!
Where e'er the circling fun displays
His rifing beams, or fetting tays,
Let lands and feas his pow'r confess.

2 Not time nor nature's narrow rounds Can give his vast dominion bounds: The heav'ns are far below his height, Let no created greatness dare
With our eternal God compare.
Arm'd with his Uncreated might.

a He bows his glor'ous head to view What the bright hofts of angels do.
And bends his care to mortal things: His fov'reign hand exaits the poor; He takes the needy from the door,
And makes them company for kings.

4 When childless families despair, He lends the bleffing of an heir,

To refcue their expiring name; The mother with a thankful voice Proclaims his praises and her joys; Let ev'ry age advance his fame.

P S A L M CXIII. Long metre.

God, Sovereign and Gracious.

I fervants of th' Almighty King,
In ev'ry age his praifes fing:
Where e'er the fun shall rise or set,
The nations shall his praise repeat,
Above the earth, beyond the sky,
Stand His High Throne of majesty;
Nor time, nor place his pow'r restrain,
Nor bounds his universal reign.

3 Which of the fons of Adam dare, Or angels, with their God compare! His glories, how divinely bright, Who dwells in Uncreated Light!

A Behold his love! he ftoops to view What faints above and angels do; And condescends yet more to know The mean affairs of men below.

From dust and cottages obscure, His grace exalts the humble poor; Gives them the honor of his fone. And fits them for his heavn'ly thrones.

[6 A word of His creating voice Can make the barren house rejoice: Though Sarab's ninety years were past, The promis'd seed is born at last.

7 With joy the mother views her fon, And tells the wonders God has done: Faith may grow strong, when sense despairs: If nature fails, the promise bears.]

PSALM CXIV. Long metre.

Miracles attending I/rael's Journey.
WHEN I/r'el, freed from Pharach's hand,
Left the proud tyrant and his land,
The tribes, with cheerful homage, own
Their King; and Judah was his throne.

2 Across the deep their journey lay; The deep divides to make them way; Fordan beheld their march, and fled, With backward current to his head.

3 The mountains shook like frighted sheep; Like lambs the little hillocks leap; Not Sinai on her base could stand. Conscious of Sov'reign Pow'r at hand.

4 What pow'r cou'd make the deep divide? Make Jordan backward roll his tide? Why did ye leap, ye little hills?

And whence the fright which Sinai feels?

5 Let ev'ry mountain, ev'ry fisod, Retire and know th' approaching God, The King of Ifr'el! fee him here! Tremble thou earth, adore and fear!

6 He thunders, and all nature mourns; The rock to flanding pools he turns; Flints fpring with fountains at his word, And fires and feas confefs the Lord.

PSALM CXV. Long metre.

The true God our Rejuge ; or, Idolatry reproved.

Not to ourfelves, who are but duft, Not to ourfelves is glory due! Eternal God! thou only just! Thou only gracious, wife and true.

2 Shine forthin all thy dreadful name: Why should a heathen's haughty tongue infult us, and to raife our shame, Say, Where s the God you've ferv'd fo long?

3 The God we serve maintains his throne Above the clouds beyond the skies; Through all the earth his will is done, He knows our groans he hears our cries.

A But the vain idols they adore
Are fenseies shapes of stone and wood;
At best a mass of glitt'ring ore,
A filver faint, or golden god!

[5] With eyes and ears they carve their head Deaf are their ears their eyes are blaid; In vain are coffly off rings made, And vows are featter'd in the wind.

6 Their feet were never made to move, Nor hands to fave, when mortals pray, Mortals who pay them fear or love, Seem to be blind and deaf as they.]

7 O Iir'el, make the Lord thy hope, Thy Help, thy Refuge and thy Reft; The Lord shall build thy ruins up, And bleft the people and the priest.

8 The dead no more can spear thy praise; They dwell in silence in the grave; But we shall live to sing thy grace, And tell the world thy pow'rs to save.

PSALM CXV. Particular Metre.

Popish Idolatry reproved.

Not to our names, Thou only just and true, Not to our worthless names is glory due: Thy pow'r and grace, thy truth and justice, claim immortal honors to thy Sov'reign Name. Shine thro'the earth from heav'n thy blest abode. Nor let the heathens say And subere's your God?

2 Heav'n is thine higher court: there stands thy (throne :

And through the lower worlds thy will is done; Our God fram'd ail this earth, these heav'ns he (spread,

But foo's adore the gods their hands have made : The kneeling cround, with looks devout, behold Their filver faviours, and their faints of gold.

[3 Vain are those artful shapes of eyes and ears; The molten image neither sees nor hears; Their hands are helpless, nor their feet can move; They have no speech, nor thought, nor pow'r nor (love:

Yet foolish mortals make their long complaints. To their deaf idols, and their moveless faints.

4 The rich have flatties well adorn'd with gold, The poor, confent with gods of coarfer mould; With tools of iron, carve the fenfoless flock Lopt from a tree, or broken from a rock: People and priest drive on the sol e mn trade, And trust thegods that saws and hammers made.

5. Be heav'n and earth amaz'd! 'tis hard to fay, Which is more ftupid, or their gods, or they: O I'r'el, truft the Lord! he hears and fces; He khows thy forrows, and reftores thy peace: His worship does a thousand comforts yield; He is thy help, and He thine heav'nly shield.

6 Columbia, trust the Lord; thy toes, in vain, Attempt thy ruin, and enforce their reign;

Had they prevail'd, darkness had clos'd our days, And death and silence had forbid his praise; But we are say'd, and hive; lettings arise, Golumbia, bless the God who built the skiese

PSALM CXVI. First part.

Recovery from Sickness.

I LOVE the Lord; he heard my cries,
And pitty'd cv'ry groan:
Long as I live, when troublestife,
I'll haften to his throne.

2 I love the Lord; he bow'd his ear, And chas'd my griefs away: O let my heart no more despair, While I have breath to pray!

3 My flesh d. clin'd, my spirits fell, And I drew near the dead, While inward pangs, and sears of hell Perplex d my wakeful head.

"My God, I cry'd, thy fervant fave,
"Theu ever good and just;
"Thy pow'r can reclue from the grave;
"Thy pow'r i all my trut "."

"Thy pow'r is all my truft."

J The Lord beheld me fore diffreft;
He bid my pains remove:
Return, my foul to God, thy Reft;
For thou haft known his love.

6 My God bath fav'd my foul from death, And dry'd my falling tears: Now to his praise I'll spend my breath,

Now to his praise I'll spend my breath, And my remaining years.

PSALM CXVI. Second part.

Vows made in Trouble, paid in the Church; or, Public thanks for Private Deliverance.

WHAT thail I render to my God
For all his kindness shown?

My feet thall visit thine abode.

My fongs address thy throne.

- a Among the faints who fil thine house My off'rings thall be paid; There thall my zear perform the vows My four in anguith made.
- 3 How much is mercy thy delight, Thou Ever-Bieffed God!
 How dear thy fervants in thy fight!
 How precious is their blood!
- 4 How happy all thy fervants are !

 How great thy grace to me!

 My life which thou haft made thy care,

 Lord 4 devote to thee.
- 5 Now I am thine for ever thine, Nor shall my purpose move; Thy hand hath look d my bonds of pain, And bound me with thy love.
- 6 Hear in Thy Courts I leave my vow, And thy rich grace record; Witness ye faints who hear me now, If I for take the Lord.

PSALM CXVII. Common Metre. Praise to God from all Nations.

ALL ye nations, praife the Lord, Each with a diffrent tongue; In every language learn his word, And let his name be fung.

2. His mercy reigns through every land: Proclaim his grace abroad: For ever firm his truth shall stand; Praise ye the faithful God.

PSALM CXVII. Long Metre.

ROM all who dwell below the skies
Let the Creator's praise arise;
Let the Redeemer's Name be sung
Through ev'ry land by ev'ry tongue.

2 Eternal are thy mercies, Lord Eternal truth attends thy word; Thy praise shall found from shore to shore, Till funs shall rise and set no more.

PSALM CXVII. Short metre.

THY name Almighty Lord,
Shall found through diffant lands;
Great is thy grace and fure thy word:
Thy truth forever flands.

2 Far be thine honor fpread. And long thy praise endure; . 'Till morning light and evining shade Shall be exchang'd no more.

PSALM CXVIII. First parts

Deliverance from a Tumult.

THE Lord appears my helper now,
Nor is my faith afraid
What all the fons of earth can do,
Since heav'n affords its aid.

2 'Tis fafer Lord to hope in thee, And have my God my Friend, Than truft in men of high degree, And on their truth depend.

3 Like bees my foes befet me roun 1
A large and angry fwarm;
But I shall all their rage confound,
By thine Almighty Arm.

4 'Tisthrough the Lord my heart is Grong;
In him my lips rejoice;
While his falvation is my fong.
How chearful is my voice!

Jake angry bees they girt me round:
When God appears they fly:
So burning thorns with cracking frant,
Make a fierce blaze and die.

'6 Joy to the faints and peace belongs;
The Lord protects their ways:
iLet I/r'el tune immortal fongs
To his Almighty Grace.

PSALM CXVIII. Second Part.

Public Prage for Deliverance from Death.

ORD, thou has heard thy fervant cry,
And refcu'd from the grave;
Now inall he live; (and none can die,
If God refolve to fave)

2 Thy praise more constant than before, Shait fill his daily breath; Thy hand which hath chastis'd him fore, Defen's him fill trom death

3 Open the gates of Zion now, For we shall worship there; The house where all the righteous go Thy mercy to declare.

Among th' afferfibiles of thy faints
Our thankful roice we raise;
There we have told thee our complaints,
And there wespeak thy praise.

PSALM CXVIII. Third Part.Com. metre.

Christ the Foundation of the Church.

BEHOLD the fure Foundation-Stone Which God in Zien lays,
To build our heav'nly hopes upon,
And his eternal praise.

2 Chosen of God, to sinners dear, And saints adore his name; They trust their whole salvation-here, Nor shall they suffer shame.

2 The foolish builders scribe and priest, Reject it with distain; Yet on this Rock the church shall rest, And envy rage in vain.

4 What though the gates of hell withstood?
Yet must this building rife;
'Tis thy own work, A mighty God,
And wond'rous in our eyes.

PS A LM CXVIII. Fourth Part. Com.metre

Hofanna; the Lord's day; or Christ's Resurrection, and our Salvation.

His is the day the Lord hath made;
He sails the hours his own;
Let heav'n rejoice let earth be glad,
and praise furround thy throne.

2 To day hero's and left the dead; And latan's empire fell; To day the faints his triumph foread, And all his wonders tell.

3 Hovenna to the an nointed King, To Divid's holy Son: Help us, O Lord; descend and bring Salvation from thy throne.

4 Bieff be the Lord who comes to men
With meffages of grace;
Who comes in God his Father's name.

Who comes in God his Father's name, To fave our finfui race.

5 Ho /anna in the highest strains
The Church on earth can raise:
The highest heav'ns in which he reigns,
'Shall give him nobler praise.

PS A L M CXVIII. Short metre.

An Hofanna for the Lord's day; or, A new fong of Salvation by Christ.

SEE what a Living Stone The builders did refuse! Yet God hath built his church thereon In spite of env'ous Jews.

2 The feribe and angry prieft Reject thine only Son: Yet on this Rock that! Zion reft. As the chief corner frone.

3 The work O Lord is thine, And wond'rous in our eyes; This day declares it All-Div ne, This day did Jefus rife!

4 This is the glor'ousday
Which our redeemer made;
Let us rejoice and fing and pray;
Let all the church be glad.

5 To anna to the King
Of D void's royal blood:
Blefs him ye faints be comes to bring
Salvation from your God,

6 We biefs thine holy word Which all this grace difplays; And offer on thine altar, Lord, Our factafice of praife.

PSALM CXVIII. Long metre

An H.Janna for the Lord's-day; or, A new Song of Salvation by Christ.

L O. what a glor 'ous Gorner-Stone
The 'fewi/h builders did refuse!
But God hath built his church thereon,
In spite of envy and the Jews.

2 Great God the work is all divine, The joy and wonder of our eyes; This is the day which proves it thine, The day which faw our Saviour rife.

3 Sinners rejoice and faints be glad; Hofanna, let his name be bled!

U3

A thousand honors on his head,
With peace and light and glory rest!

A b God's own name he comes to bring
Salvation to our dying race;
Let the whole church address their King
With hearts of joy and songs of praise.

PSALM CXIX.

I have collected and di posed the most u eful werses of this p'aim under eighteen different heads, and formed a Divine Song upon each of them; but the werses are too much transposed to attain any degree of connection.

In ome places among the words, law, commands, judements, testimonies, I have used, gospel, word, grace, trush, promises, & c as more agreeable to the New Testament and the common language of Coristians; and it equally answers the design of the Palmish, which was to recommend the Holy Scriptures.

Thou art my Shield, my Hiding-Place; My hope is in thy word.

Ver. 112.

6 Thou haft inclined this heart of mine Thy flatutes to fulfil; And thus, 'till mortar life shall end, Would I perform thy will.

PSALM CXIX. Fourth part.

Instruction from Scripture. Ver. o.

OW shall the young soure their hearts, And guard their lives from fin? Thy word the choiceft rules imparts To keep the conscience clean.

Ver. 130.
When once it enters to the mind
It fpreads fuch light abroad

The meanest fouls instruction find,
- And raise their thousants to God,

Ver. 105.

3 'Tislike the Sun a heavn'ly light, Which guides us all the day;

And through the dangers of the night, A lamp to lead our way.

Ver. 91, 100.

4 The men who keep thy taw with care, And meditate thy word,

Grow wiser than their teachers are, And better know the Lord.

Ver. 104, 113.

5 Thy precepts make me truly wife; I hate the fiftner's road;

I hate my own vain thoughts which rife, But love thy law, my God.

Ver. 89, 90, 91.

[6 The starry heaving thy rule obey; The earth maintains her place; And these thy servants night and day Thy skill and now'r express.

7 But still thy law and gospel Lord Have lessons more divine;

Not earth stands firmer than thy word, Nor stars so nobly thine.

Ver. 160, 140 9, 116.

8 Thy word is everlasting truth;
How pure is every page!

That holy book thall guide our youth,

And well support our age.

PSALM CXIX. Fifth part Delight in Scripture; or, the Word of God dwelling in us. Ver 97.

HOW I love thy holy law;
'Tis daily my delight;

And thence my meditations draw Divine advice by night.

Divine advice by night. Ver. 143.

2 My waking eyes prevent the day, To meditate thy word; My four with longing melts away

To hear thy gospel Lord.

Ver.3 13, 54.
3 How doth thy word my heart engage;

How well employ my tongue!

And in my tiretome pilgrimage

Violds me a hery'ny fong

Yields me a heav'ny fong. Ver. 19, 103.

4 Am I a stranger or at home, 'Tis my rerpet'al feast!

Not honey dropping from the comb, So much ailures the tafte.

Ver. 72, 127.

No tressures so entich the mind; Northall thy word be fold, For loads of filver well refin'd, Nor heaps of choicest gold.

Ver. 28, 49, 173, 6 When nature finks and fpirits droop, Thy promifes of grace

Are pillars to support my hope, And there I write thy praise.

> P S A L M CXIX. Sixth part. Holizefs and Comfort from the Word. Ver 128.

I OR D. Lefteem thy judgments right,
And all hy fratutes just.
Thence, maintain a conftant fight,
With ev'ry flatt'ring luft.

Ver. 97: 9.

2 Thy precepts often I furvey: I keep thy law in fight, Through all the bus ness of the day, To form my actions right.

Ver. 62.

My heart in midnight filence, cries, "How fweet thy comforts be!"
My thoughts in holy wonder, rife,
And bring their thanks to Thee.

Ver. 162.

4. And when my spirit drinks her fall, At some good word of thine, Not mighty men, who share the spoils. Have joys, compar'd to mine.

P S'A L M CXIX. Seventh part.

Imperfection of Nature and perfection of Scripture

Ver 93. Paraphrafed.

LET all the heathen writers join
To form one perfect book;
Great God if once compar'd with Thine,
How mean their writings look!

Not the most perfect rules they gave Could flew one fin forgiv'n;

Nor lead a step beyond the grave; But Thine conduct to heav'a.

3. I've feen an end of what we call
Perfection here below;
How short the pow'rs of nature fall,
And can no further go!

4" Yet men would fain be just with God, By works their hands have wrought; But thy commands exceeding broad,

Extend to ev'ry thought.

5 In vain we boaft perfection here; While fin defiles our frame; And finks our virtues down fo far, They fearce deferve the name.

6 Our faith and love and ev'ry grace-Eall far, below thy word; But perfect truth and righteoueness Dwell only with the Lord.

PSALM CAIX: Eighth part

The Word of God is the Saint's Portion; or, The Excellency and Variety of Scripture.

ORD. I have made thy word my choice,
My latting keritage:
There shall my noblest pow'rs rejoice,
My warmest thoughts engage.

2 I'il read the hist'ries of thy love And keep thy laws in fight; White through thy promises rove With ever fresh delight.

- 3 'Tis a broad land of wealth unknown, Where fprings of life arife; Seed: of immortal bifs are fown, And hidden glory lies.
- 4 The best relief which mourners have, It makes our forrows blest; Our fairest hope beyond the grave, And our eternal rest.

P S A L M CXIX. Ninth Part.

Defire of knowledge; or the teachings of the Spirit with the Word.

Ver 64, 68, 18.

THY mercies fill the earth, O Lord;
How good thy works appear
Open mine eyes to read thy word,
And fee thy wonders there.

Ver. 73, 145,

2 My heart was fashion d by thine hand:
My service is thy due;
O makethy servant understand
The duties he must do;

Ver. 19.

Since I'm a firanger here below, Let not thy path be hid; But mark the road my feet should go,

And be my conflant guide. Ver. 26.

When I confess'd my wand'ring ways;
Thou heard'ft my foul complain;
Grant me the teachings of thy grace,

Ver. 33, 34.

If God to me his flatmes fliew,
And heav'nly truth impart,

His works forever I'll pursue; His law shall rule my heart.

Or I shail stray again.

Ver. 50, 71.
This was my comfort, when I bore Variety of grief;

"It made me learn thy word the more, And fly to that relief.

Ver. 51.

7 In va in the proud deride me, now a
Pill refer forget thy law,

Mor let i that beffed gofpei go. When 'e all my hopes I draw. Ver. 27, 171.

8 When I have learn'd my Father's will, Pil teach the world his ways! My thankf al lips, in pir'd with zeal, Shall lot d pronounce his praise.

PS ALM CXIX. Tenth Part.

Pleading the Promifes.

Ver. 38. 49.

DEHOLD thy waiting fervant, Lord,
Devot do thy fear!

Remember, and confirm thy word,

For all my hopes are there.

Ver. 41, 58.107.
2 Haft thou not writ falvation down,
And promis'd quick ning grace?
Do'thot my heart address thy throne?
And yet thy love delays.

Ver. 113 42.

3 Mine eyes for thy felvati in fail;
O bear thy fervant up;
Nor let the feoffing lips prevail,
Which date reproach my kope.
Ver. 42, 74.

A Didft thou not raise my faith, O Lord;
Then let thy truth appear:
Saints shall rejoice in my reward,
And truth, as well as fear.

PSALM CXIX. Eleventh part.

Breathing after Holine's

O THAT the Lord would guide my ways
O that my God would grant me grace
To know and do his will!
Ver. 29.

2 O fend Thy Spirit down, to write Thy law upon my heart; Nor let my tongue indulge deceit, Nor act the liar's part.

Ver. 36, 37-3 From vanity turn off my eyes; Let no corrupt defign, Nor covetous defires arife Within this foul of mine. Ver. 133.

4 Order my footheps by thy word,
And make my heart fineere;
Let fin have no dominion Lord,
But keep my confeience clear.

Ver. 176

My foul hath gone too far aftray; My feet too often fip: Yet, fince I've not forgot thy way, Reftore thy wand'ring fheep.

Ver. 35.

6 Make me to walk in thy commands;

'Tis a delightful road:

Nor let my head, or heart, or hands,

Offend against my God.

PSALM CXIX. Twelfib part.

Breathing ofter Comfort and Deliverance.

Ver. 15.3.

MY God confider my diffres:
Let mercy plead my cause;
Though I have finn'd against thy grace,
I can't forget thy laws.

Ver. 39, 116.
2 Forbid, forbid the sharp reproach,
Which I so instructed for the whole my life, uphold my hopes,
Nor let my thame appear.

Ver. 122, 135.

Re thou a finety, Lord, for me,
Nor let the proud opprefs:
But make thy waiting fervent fee
The finings of thy face.
Ver. 82.

Mine eyes with expectation fail; My heart within me cries. When will the Lord his truth fulfil, And make my comforts rife? Ver. 132.

Look down upon my forrows, Lord, And shew thy grace the same, as then art ever won't t' afford, To those who love thy name, PSALM CXIX. Thirteenth Part. Holy fear, and Tenderness of Confesence. Vol. 10.

WITH my whole heart I've lought thy faces
Olet me never ftray
From thy commands, O God of grace,
Nor trend the finners way

Nor tread the finners way

2 Thy word I've hid within my heart: To keep my confcience clean, And be an everialting guard

From ev'ry nfing fin

Ver. 63, 53, 138.
3 I'm a companion of the faints,
Who fear and love the Lord;
My torrows rife, my nature faints,
When men transgreas thy word.
Ver. 151, 163.

While finners do thy gofpel wrong,
My fpirit frands in awe;

My four abnors the lying tongue, But loves thy rightcour law.

Vcr. 161 120.
5 My heart, with ficree revience hears,
The three raines of thy word:
My flesh, with holy trembling, tears,

The judgments of the Lord.

6 My God I long, I kope, I wait.
For thy fa vation, fill:
While thy whole law is my delight,
And I obey thy will.

PSALM CXIX. Fourteenth part. Benefit of Affictions, and upportunder them. Ver. 153. 31. 82.

E

ONSIDER all my forrows Lord,
And thy leavinance fend;
My foul for thy faivation faints:
When will my troubles end?

a Tet I have foul dis good for me, To bear my Father's rod; Afflictions make me learn thy law, And live upon my God.

Ver. 50.
3 This is the comfort I enjoy,
When new diffress begins:
1 read thy word, I run thy way,
And hate my former fins.

Vcr. 92.
4 Had not thy word been my delight,
When earthly joys were fled,
My foul, oppreft with forrow's weight,
Had funk among the dead.

Ver. 75
5 I know thy judgments, Lord, are right,
Tho they may feem fevere;
The sharpest suffrings I endure
Flow from thy faithful care.

Ver. 67.

6 Before I knew thy chaft'ning rod,
My feet were apt to ftray;
But now I learn to keep thy word,
Nor wander from thy way.

PSALM EXIX Fifteenth Parts

Holy Resolutions. Ver. 93

O THAT thy flatuies, ev'ry hour,
Might dwell upon my mind!
Thence I derive a quick'ning pow'r,
And daily peace I find.

Ver. 15, 16.
2 To meditate thy precepts, Lord,
Shalibe my fweet employ;
My foul fluid ne'er forget thy word;
Thy word is all my joy.

Ver. 32, 3 How would I run in thy commands, If thou my heart discharge From fin and and satan's hateful chains,

And fet my feet at large!

Ver. 13: 46.

4 My lips, with courage, that declare
Thy statutes and thy name;
Pil speak the word, though kings should he ar.

Nor yiel to finful thame.

Ver. 61, 69, 70. 5 Let bands of perfecutors rife

To tob me of my right; Let pride and malice forge their lies, Thy law is my delight.

Ver. 115.

6 Depart from me, ye wicked race, Whose hands and hearts are ill! I love my God I love his ways, And muit obey his will.

PSALM CXX. Sixteenth part.

Proyer for Quickening Grace, Ver 25, 37.

The first lies cleaving to the dust;

I Lord give me life divine;

From vair to 6 es a derry lust

Turn off their eyes of mine.

2 I need the inficence of thy grace To speed me in my way,

Or turn my feet aftray.

Ver. 107.

3 When fore affictions prefit me down,
I need thy quick time powers:
Thy word, which there reflect on,

Shall help my heav'est hours. Ver, 136, 40.

And thou a faithful God?

Wilt thou not grant me warmer zeal To run the heav'nly road?

Ver. 159. 40.

5 Does not my heart thy precepts, love, And long to fee thy face?

And yet how flow my spirits move, Without enlivining grace;

Ver. 93
6 Then shall I love thy gospel more,
And ne'er forget thy word,
When I have felt its quick'ning pow'r,
To draw me near the Lord.

PSAL M CXIX. Seventeenth part. Courage and Perfeverance under Perfection; or Grace Shining in difficulties and Trials.

Ver. 143, 23.

WHEN pain and anguith feize me, Lord,
All my support is from thy word:
My foul distolves for heaviness;
Uphold me with thy strength ning grace.

Ver. 51, 69, 110.
2 The proud have fram'd their feoffs and lies:
They watch my feet with env'ous eyes,
And tempt my foul to fnares and fin;
Yet thy commands I ne'er decline.

Ver. 161, 78.

3 They hate me, Lord, without a cause;
They hate to see me love thy laws;
But I will trud and sear thy name,
"Tul pride and malice die with shame.

PSALM CXIX. Laft part.

SanEisted Assistions : or, Delightinthe Word of God. Ver. 67, 59.

THER, I blefs thy gentle hand;
How kind was thy chaftizing rod,
Which fore'd my confeience to a fland,
And brought my wand'ring foul to God!

2 Foolish and vain I went astray, E'er I had felt thy scourges, Lord, I sett my guide, and lost my way, But now I love and keep Thy word.

Ver. 91.
3 'Tis good for me to wear the yoke.
For pride is apt to rife and fivell;
Tis good to bear my Father's stroke,
That I might learn his statutes well.

Ver. 7:.

4 The law which iffices from thy mouth Shall raife my cheerful passions more. Than all the treatures of the South, Or Western hills of golden ore.

Ver. 7;.
Thy bands have inade my mortal frame,
Thy Spirit form'd my foul within;
Teach me to know thy won trougname,
And guard me fafe from death and fin.

6 Then all who love and flar the Lord, At my falvation mall rejoice: For I have hoped in the word, And made thy grace my only choice.

PSALM CXX.

Complaint of Quarrelfeme Neighbours; at, & pour wift for Prate.

HOU God of love, thou ever-bleft,
Pity my full ring flate;
When wiit thou fet my foul at reft
From lips which love deceite?

a Hard lot of mine! my days are caft
Among the fons of ficife.
Whole never ceasing his slings waste
My golden hours of life.

2 Q! might I fly to change my place, How would I chook to divel In fome wild lonefome wilderness, And leave these gates of heli!

4 Peace is the bleffing that I feek; How lovely are its charms! I am for peace; but when I fpack,

They all declare for arms.

5 New paffions fill their fouls engage, And keep their malice firong: What shall be done to curb thy rage, O thou devouring torque?

6 Should burning arrows finite thee through, Strict justice would approve; But I would rather spare my foe,

But I would rather spare my foe, And melt his heart with love.

PSALM CXXI. Long metre.

Divine Protection.

UP to the hills I lift mine eyes, Th' eternal hills beyond the skies! Thence all her help my foul derives: There my almighty Refuge lives.

2. He lives, the Everlasting God, Who built the world, who spread the slood, The heav'ns, with all their hosts, he made, And the dark regions of the dead.

3 He guides our feet, he guards our way; His morning finites blefs all the day; He fpreads the evining veil and keeps. The filent hours, while I r'el fleeps.

A Ifr's a name divinely bleft,
May rife fecure, fecurely reft;
Thy holy Guardian's wakeful eyes
Admit no flumber nor furprize.

5 No fun shall smite thy head, by day, Nor the pale moon, with sickly ray Shall blast thy couch: no baleful star Dart his malignant fire so far. 6 Should earth and hell with malice burn, Still thou shalt go, and still return, Safe in the Lord; his beavinly care Defends thy life from evity mare.

y On thee foul spirits have no pow'r; And in thy tast departing hour, Angels who trace the airy road, Shall bear thee homeward to thy God.

PSALM CXXI. Common metre.

Pre ervation by day and night.

To heav'n I life my waiting eyes:
There all my hopes are laid,
The Lord who built the earth and fkies,
Is my perpetual aid.

2 Their feet shall never slide, to fall, Whom he designs to keep; His ear attends the softest call; His eyes can never sleep.

3 He will fuffain our weakest pow'rs, With his Almighty arm; And watch our most unguarded hours Against surprizing harm.

4 I/r'el rejoice, and reft fecure;
Thy keeper is the J.ord;
His wakeful eyes employ his pow'r
For thine eternal guard.

5 Nor feorching fun, nor fickly moon, Shall have his leave to finite; He shields thy head from burning noon, From blasting damps at night.

6 He guards thy foul, he keeps thy breath, Where thickeft dangers come; Go and return fecure from death, "Till God commands thee home.

PSALM CXXI. CXXII. PSALM CXXI.

God our preferver.

I I PWARD I lift mine eyes; From God is all my aid: The God who built the fkies, And earth and nature made:

God is the Tow'r To which Ifly; ' His grace is nigh in every hour.

2 My feet fhan never flide. And fall in fatal fnares,

Since God, my Guard and Guides

Defends me from my fears.

Those wake alleyes Which never fleep, Shall Ifr'el keep When dangers rile.

a No burning beats by day, Nor blafts of evining air Shall take my health awiya It Cod be with me there ,

Thou att my Sun, And thou my fnade, To greated my head By night or noon.

4 Hall thou not giv'n thy word To fave my fool from death? And I can trult my Lord To keep my mortal breath:

I'll go and come, Nor fear to die. 'Till, from on high, Thou call me home.

PSALM CXXII. Com. metre,

Going to Church. HOW did my heart rejoice, to hear, My friends, devoutly fay, In Zion let us all oppear, And keep the folemn day l

2 Hove her gates, I love the road:
The church, adorn'd with grace,
Stands like a palace, built for God,
To shew his milder face.

3 Up to her courts with joys unknown, The holy tribes prepare. The fou of D wid holds his throne, And fits in judgment there.

4 He hears our praises and complaints: And, while his awful voice Divides the finners from the faints, We tremble and rejoice.

5 Peace be within this facred place, And joy a conflant guest! With holy gifts, and heavinly grace Be her attendants blest!

6 My foul shall pray for Zion still, While life or breath remains: There my best friends, my kindred dwell: There God, my faviour, reigns.

PSALM CXXII.

Going to Church.

HOW pleas'd and bleft was I
To hear the people cry,
Come, let us feeck our God, to-day;
Yes, with a chearful zea!,
We hafte to Zion's hill,
And there our vows and honorspay.

2 Zion, thrice happy place!
Adorn'd with wond'rous grace,
And walls of firenath embrace thee round:
In thee our tribes appear,
To pray and praife, and hear

To pray and prate, and hear The facred gospel's joyful found,

3 There David's Greater Son Has fix'd his Royal Throne; He bids the faints be glad, And makes the finners fad, And humble fouls rejoice with fear.

A May peace attend thy gate, And joy within thee wait To blefs the foul of ev'ry guest: The man who feeks thy peace, And wifnes thine increase, A thousand bleffings on him reft!

My tongue repeats her vows,

Peace to this facred house!

For there my friends and kindred dwell;

And fince my glor'ous God

Makes thee his bleft abode,

My foul shall ever love thee well.

PSALM CXXIII.

Pleading, with Submiffion.

THOU whose grace and justice reign
Enthron'd above the skies,
To thee our hearts would tell their pain,
To thee we lift our eyes!

As fervants watch their master's hand,
 And fear the angry stroke;
 Or maids before their mistress stand,
 And wait a peaceful look:

3 So for our fins we juftly feel
Thy discipline O God;
Yet wait the gracious moment still,
'Till thou remove thy rod.

4 Those who in wealth and pleasure live;
Our daily groans deride;
And thy delays of mercy give
Fresh courage to their pride;

PSALM CXXIV, CXXV.

 3 Our foes infult us, but our hope in thy compassion lies;
 This thought shall bear our spirits up,
 That God will not despise.

PSALM CXXVI.

A Song for Public Deliversnice.

HAD not the Lord, may Ifrel fay, tad not the Lord maintain dour fide, When men to make our lives a prey, Rose like the smelling of the tide:

2. The swelling tide had stopt our breath, So siercely did the waters roll, We had been swallow'd deep in death: Proud waters had o'er whelm'd our souls

3 We loap for joy we shout and sing, Who just escap'd the fatal stroke; So slice the bird with chearful wing, When once the fowler's snare is broke.

4 For ever bleffed be the Lord, Who broke the fowler's curfed fnare, Who fat'd us from the murd'ring fword, And made our lives and fonls his care.

5 Our help is in Jehovah's name, Who torm'd the earth and built the fkies.; He who upholds that wond'rous frame, Guards his own Church with watchful eyes.

PSALM CXXV. Common metre.

The Saints' Trial and fafety.
UNSHAKEN as the facred hill,
And firm as mountains be,
Firm as a rock, the foul shall rest,
That leans, O Lord, on Thee.

A Not walls nor hills could guard fo well Old Salem's happy ground,

As those eternal arms of love, Which ev'ry faint surround.

3 While tyrants are a fmarting feourge To drive them near to God, Divine compassion does allay, The fury of the rod.

A Deal gently Lord with fouls fincere, And lead them fafely on To the bright gates of Paradice, Where Christ, their Lord is gone.

5 But if we trace those wicked ways Which the old serpent drew, The wrath that drove him first to hell Shall finite his foll wers too.

PSALM CXXV. Short metre.

The Saints' Trial & fajety; or, Moderated offlictions

FIRM and unmov'd are they
Who reft their fouls on God;
Firm as the mount where David dwelt,
Or where the ark abode.

2 As mountains stood to guard The city's facred ground, So God and his Almighty Love, Embrace his faints around,

3 What though the Father's rod
Drop a chassising stroke
Yet lest it wound their souls too deep,
Its sury shall be broke.

4 Deal gently, Lord, with those Whose faith and pious sear,
Whose hope and love, and ev'ry grace
Proclaim their hearts sincere.

5 Nor shall the tyrant's rage Too long oppress the faint; The God of Yr'el will support His children, lest they faint.

6 But if our flavish fear
Will choose the road to hell,
We must expect our portion there,
Where boider finners dwell.

PSALM CXXVI. Long metre.

Surprifing Deliverance,
WHEN God reftor's our captive state,
Joy was our song, and grace our theme;
The grace beyond our hopes so great,
That joy appear'd a painted dream.

2. The fcoffer ownsthy hand, and pays' Unwilling honors to thy name; While we, with pleasure, shout thy praise, With cheerful notes thy love proclaim.

3 When we review our dismal sears, 5 I was hard to think they'd vanish so; With God we left our flowing tears, He makes our joys like rivers flow.

4 The man who in his furrow'd field, His scatter'd feed with sadness leaves, Will shout, to see the harvest yield A welcome load of joyful sheaves.

PSALM CXXVI. Common Metre.

The Joy of a Remarkable Conversion; or, Melancholy Removed.

WHEN God reveal'd his gracious name
And chang'd my mournful state,
My rapture secm'd a pleasing dream,
The grace appear'd so great.

2 The world beheld the glor'ous change, And did thy hand confess: My tongue broke out in unknown strains, And sang surprizing grace.

Great is the work, my neighbors cry'd. and own'd thy pow'r divine: Great is the work, my heart reply'd. And be the glory thine.

A The Lord can clear the darkest skies. Can give us day for night, Make drops of facred forrow rife

To rivers of delight.

A Let those who sow in sadness, wait 'Till the fair harvest come: They shall confess their sheaves are great, And shout the bleffings home.

6 Though feed lie bury'd long in duft. It than't deceive their hope! The precious grain can ne'er be loft. For grace infures the crop.

PSALM CXXVII. Long metre.

The bleffing of God on the Bufine's and Comforts of Life.

IF God incceed not, all the cost And pains, to build the house, are lost; If God the city will not keep. The wa chful guards as well may fleep.

2 What if you rife before the fun. And work and toil when day is done, Careful and sparing eat your bread, To shun that poverty you dread?

3 'Tis all in vain, 'till God hath bleft : He can make rich, yet give us reft : Children and friends are bloffings too. If God, our Sov'reign, makes them fo.

4 Happy the man to whom he fends Obed'ent children, faithful freinds : How fweet our daily comforts prove When they are feafon'd with his love.

248 PSALM CXXVII. CXXVIII.

PSALM CXXVII. Com. metre.

God, All in All.

If God to build the house deny,
The builders work in vain:
And towns, without his wakeful eye,
A useful watch maintain.

2 Before the morning-beams ari'e, Your painful work renew; And, till the flars afcend the skies, Your tiresome toil pursue.

3 Short be your fleep, and coarle your fare, In vain, 'till God has bleft; But, if his fmiles attend your care, You shall have food and reft.

4 Nor children, relatives nor friends Shall real bleffings prove, Nor all the earthly joys he tends, If fent without his love.

PSALM CXXVIII. Com. metre,

Family Eleffings.

O HAPPY man whose soul is fill'd With zeal and rev'rend awe! His lips. to God, their honors yield, His life adorns the law.

A careful Providence shall stand And ever guard thy head, Shall on the labors of thy hand Its kindly blessings shed.

3 Thy wife shall be a fruitful vine; Thy children, round thy board, Each, like a plant of honor, shine, And learn to fear the Lord,

The Lord shall thy best hopes sulfil, For months and years to come;

The Lord, who dwells on Zion's hill, Shall fend thee bleffings home.

6 This is the man whose happy eyes Shall see his house increase;
Shall see the finking church arise,
Then leave the world in peace.

PSALM CXXIX.

Persecutors Punished.

UP from my youth, may I/r²el fay, Have I been nurs'd in tears; My griefs were constant as the day, And tedious as the years.

of all the fons of firife:
Of they affailed my riper age,

But not destroy'd my life.

3 Their cruel plough had torn my flesh.
With furrows long and deep.

Hourly they vex'd my wounds afresh, Nor let my forrows sleep.

A The Lord grew angry on his Throne, And with impartia, eye, Measur'd the mischiefs they had done,

And let his arrows fly.

5 How was their infolence furpris'd To hear his thunders roll; And all the foes of Zion feiz'd

With horrow to the foul!
6 Thus shall the men who hate the faints
Be blasted from the sky;

Their glory fade their courage faint, And all their projects die.

? What though they flourish tall and fair? They have no root beneath; The in growth shall perish in despair, And the despera in death.]

PSAL M CXXX. Common metre,

Out of the deeps of long diffres,
The borders of despair,
I tent my cries to seek thy grace,
My greans, to move thine ear.

2 Great God, should thy severer eye, And thine impartial hand Mark and revenge iniquity, No mortal sich could stand.

3 But there are pardons with my God For crimes of high degree; Thy Son has bought them with his blood To draw us near to thee.

4 [I wait for thy falvation, Lord, With strong defires I wait; My foul, invited by thy word, Stands watching at thy gate.]

5 [Just as the guards, who keep the night, Long for the morning skies. Watch the first beams of breaking light, And meet them with their eyes;

6 So waits my foul to fee thy grace, And, more intent than they, Meets the first op'nings of thy face, And finds a brighter day. 7 Then in the Lord let Ijr'el trust, Let Ifr'el seek his sace, The Lord is good as well as just, And plent'ous is his grace.

8 There's full redemption at his Throne, For finners long enflav'd; The great Redec mer is his Son; And Isr'el shall be sav'd.

PSALM CXXX. Long metre.

Pardoning Grace

ROM deep diffress and troubled thoughts,
To thee, my God, I raife my cries:
If thou feverely mark our faults.
No flesh can stand before thine eyes.

a But thou hast built thy Throne of grace, Free to dispense thy pardons there; That sinner may approach thy face, And hope, and love, as well as fear.

3 As the benighted pilgrims wait, And long and wish for breaking day, So waits my foul, be fore thy gate: When will my God his face display?

A My trust is fix'd upon thy word, Nor shall I trust thy word, in vain: Let mourning souls address the Lord, And find relief from all their pain.

5 Great is his love, and large his grace, Through the redemption of his Son; He turns our feet from finful ways, And pardons what our hands have done.

PSALM CXXXI.

Humility and Submission.

Is there ambition in my heart?
Search, gracious God, and see:
Or, do l act a haughty part?
Lord I appeal to thee.

2 I charge my thoughts, be humble still, And all my carriage mild. Content, my Father, with thy will. And quiet as a child.

3 The patient foul, the lowly mind Shall I are a large reward;
Let faints in forrow lie refign'd,
And truft a faithfui Lord.

PSAL, M CXXXII. Long metre.

At the fettlement of a church; or, The ordination of a Minister.

WHERE shall we go to seek and sing.
A habitation for our God,
A dwelling for th' eternal mind
Among the sons of slash and blood?

2 The God of Jacob ehose the hill Of Zion for his ancient rest: And Zion is his dwelling still, His church is with his presence blest.

3 "Here will I fix my gracious throne, "And reign forever," faith the Lord; "Here shall my pow'r and love be known,

" And bleffings shall attend my word.

4 "Here I will meet a hungry poor,
Mand fili their fouls with living bread;
Sinners who wait before my door,

"With fweet provision shall be fed.

y "Girded with truth and cloth'd with grace, "My priefts, my ministers shall shine;

"Not Aaron in his coally dress, Made an appearance so divine.

6" The faints, unable to contain "Their inward joys, shall shout and sing,

"The Son of David here shall reign,

& And Zion triumph in her King.

9 1" My Son shall see a num'rous feed Born here, thup sold his glor ous name :

" His crown shal flourish on his head,

While all his foes are cloth'd with shame."

PSALM CXXXII. Com. metre.

A Church Established. TO fleep nor flumber to his eyes Good David would afford. "Till he had found below the fkies, A dwelling for the Lord.

1 The Lord in Zion plac'd his name His ark was fettled there ; To Zion the whole nation came. To worthip thrice a year.

3 But we have no fuch lengths to go. Nor wander far abroad : Where e'er thy faints affemble now. There is a houle for God.

PAUSE.

A Arise, O King of grace, arise ! And enter to thy reft,

Lo ! thy church waits, with longing eyes, Thus to be own'd and bleft.

Enter, with all thy glor'ous train, Thy spirit and thy word;

All which the ark did once contain Could no fuch grace afford.

& Here mighty God, accept our vows; Here let thy praise be spread; Blefs the provisions of thy house, And fill thy poor with bread,

Here let the Son of David reign; Let God's anointed fhine :

264 PSALM CXXXIII.

Justice and truth his courts maintain, With love and pow'r divine.

8 Here let him hold a lafting throne, And, as his kingdom grows, Fresh honors shall adorn his crown, And shame confound his foes.

PSALM CXXXIII. Com. metre.

Brotherly love.

O what an entertaining fight
Are brethren who agree!

Brethren whose cheerful hearts units
In bonds of picty!

2 When streams of love, from Christ the Spring,
Descend to ev'ry soul,
And heav'ny peace, with balmar wing.

And heav'nly peace, with balmy wing, Shades and bedews the whole;

3 'Tis like the oil, divinely sweet,
On Apron's rev'rend head,
The trickling crops perfum'd his feet,
And o'er his garments spread.

4 'Tis pleafant as the morning-dewa Which fall on Zion's hill, Where God his mildeft glory shews, And makes his grace distill.

PSALM CXXXIII. Short metre.
Communion of Saints; or, Love and Worfhipins
Family.

BLEST are the fons of peace Whose hearts and hopes are one, Whose kind designs to serve and please, Through all their actions cun.

2 Bieft is the pious house
Where zeal and friendship meet;
Their songs of praise, their mingled vowa
Make their communion sweet.

3 Thus when on Aaron's head
They pour'd the rich perfume,
The oil through all his raiment fpread.
And pleasure fill'd the room.

A Thus on thy heav'nly hills,
The faints are bleft above,
Where joy, like morning-dew, deftills;
And all the air is love.

PSALM CXXXIII.

The Bleffings of Friendship.

HOW Pleafant 'tis to fee Kindred and friends agree! Each in their proper station move, And each fulfil their part With sympathizing heart, In all the cares of life and love!

2 'Tis like the ointment shed On Aaron's facred head, Divlnely rich divinely sweet; The oil, through all the room Dissu'd a choice persume, Ran through his robes and bless his feet;

3 Like fruitful shower's of rain Which water all the plain, Descending from the neighb'ring hills 3 Such streams of pleasure roll Through ev'ry friendly soul, Where love, like heav'niy dew, destills.

And fend your fouls on high;
And fend your fouls on high;
Raife your admiring thoughts by night,
Above the fairty sky.

3 The God of Zion cheers your hearts
With rays of quick'ning grace;
The God who ipread the heav'ns abroad,
And rules the fwelling feas.

PSALM CXXXV. First part. Long Metre.
The Gourch is God's House and Gare.

TRA: SE we the Lord: exalt his name.

PRA:SE ye the Lord; exalt his name, While in his holy courts ye wait, Ye faints who to his house belong, Or stand attending at his gate.

² Praise ye the Lord; the Lord is good; To praise his name is sweet employ; Isr'el he chose of old; and still His church is his peculiar joy.

3 The Lord Himfelf will judge his faints: He treats his fervants as his friends!
And when he hears their fore complaints,
Repents the forrows which he fends,

4 Through cy'ry age the Lord declares His name, and breaks th' oppressor's rod; He gives his suff'ring servants rest, And will be known th' Almighty GOD.

5 Bless ye the Lord, who taste his love, People and priests, exalt his name:
Among his faints he ever dwells:
His church is his Jerusalem.

of Israel, and Destruction of Enemies.

REAT is the Lord, exaited high,
Above all powers, and every throne;
What e'er he pleafe in earth or fea,
Or heav'n or helf his hand hath done.

The light nings flash the thunders roar, He pours the rain he brings the wind And tempest from his ziry store.

3 'Twas he those dreadful tokens sent, O Egypt! through thy stubborn land; When, all thy sirst-born beasts and men, Fell dead by his avenging hand.

4 What mighty nations mighty kings He flew and their whole country gave To Ifr'el whom his hand re feem'd, No more to be proud Pharaoh's flave!

5 His pow'r the fame the fame his grace, Who laves us from the hofts of heli; And heav n he gives us to posses, Whence those apostate angels fell.

PSALM CXXXV. Common Metre.

Praise due to God, not to Idols.

A WAKE, ye faints, to praise your King;
Your tweetch passions raise,
Your pious pleasure while you sing,
Increasing with the praise.

2 Great is the Lord; and works unknown Are his divine. employ: But fill his faints are near his Throne, His treasure and his joy.

3 Heav'n, earth and fea confess his hand: He bids the vapours rife;

Light'ning and fform at his command, Sweep through the founding skies.

A All pow'r which gods or kings have claim'd, Is found with him alone;

But heathen gods should ne'er be nam'd Where our Jehovah's known.

5 Which of the flocks or flones they trust .Can give them show'rs of rain? In vain they worship glitt'ring dust, And pray to gold in vain!

16 Their gods have tongues which cannot ta such as their makers gave:
Their feet were ne'er defign'd to walk;

Nor hands have pow'r, to fave.

2 Blind are their eyes their cars are deaf, Nor hear when mortals pray;
Mortals who wait for their relief,

Are blind and deaf as they.]

Meat wonders hath his wisdom done!

How mighty is his hand!

Heav'n earth and sea he fram'd alone;

How wisde is his command!

The fun supplies the day with light,

How bright his counsels shine!

The moon and stars adorn the night:

His works are all divine.

He struck the sons of Egypt dead;
How dreadful is his rod!
And thence with joy his people led:
How gracious is our God!

He cleft the fwelling fea in two;

And gave the tribes a passage through ; His grace and pow'r unite,

6 But Pharaoh's army there he drown'd; How glor ous are his ways!

And brought his faints through defart ground; Eternal be bis praise.

PSAL MCXXXVI. Abridged. Long metre,

GIVE to the Lord immortal praise; Mercy and truth are all his ways! Wonders of grace to God belong; Repeat bis mercies in your fong.

2 Give to the Lord of Lords, renown, The King of kings, with glory crown, His mercies ever shall endure,
When lords and kings are known no more.

3 He built the earth he foread the ky, And fix'd the starry lights on high: Wonders of grace to God belong; Repeat lis mercies in your fong.

4 He fills the fun with morning-light; He bids the moon direct the night; His mercies ever shall endure, When suns and moons thall shine no more.

5 The Jews he freed from Pharaob's hand, And brought them to the promifed and! Wonders of grace to God belong; Repeat his mercies in your jong.

6 He saw the Gentiles dead in sin, And felt his pity work within: His mercies ever shall endure, When Death and sin shall reign no more,

7 He fent his Son, with pow'r to fave From guit and darkness and the grave; Wonders of grase to God belong; Repeat his mercies in your ong.

8 Through this vain world he guides our feet
And leads us to his heav'nly feat:
His mercies ever shallendure,
When this vain world shall be no more.

PSALM CXXXVIII. Long metre. Refloring and preferring grace.

WITH all my pow'rs of heart and tongue,
Yill praife my Maker in my fong;
Angels shall hear the notes I raife,
Approve the fong, and join the praise.

[2 Angels who make thy church their care,
Shall witness my devotion there,

While holy zeal directs my eyes To thy fair temple, in the skies.] 3 I'll fing thy truth and mercy, Lord, I'll fing the wonders of thy word; Not all the works and names below So much thy pow'r and glory show.

4 To God I cry'd when troubles rofe; He heard me, and fubdu'd my foes; He did my rafing fears controul, And ftrength diffus'd through all my foul.

5 The God of heav'n maintains his state. Frowns on the proud, and scorns the great, But from his throne descends to see The sons of humble poverty.

6 Amidst a thousand snares I stand Upheld and guarded by thy hand? Thy words my fainting soul revive, And keep my dying faith alive.

7 Grace will complete what grace begins, To fave from forrows or from fins: The work which Wildom undertakes Eternal mercy ne'er forfakes.

PSALM CXXXIX First part. Long metre.
The All-Seeing God.

ORD, thou hast fearch's and feen me thro'
Thine eye commands with piercing view,
My rifing and my resting hours,
My heart and slesh, with all their pow'rs.

- 2 My thoughts before they are my own, Are to my God, diftinctly known; He knows the words I mean to speak, E'er from my op'ning lips they break.
- 3 Within thy circling pow'r I stand; On ev'ry side I find thy hand: Awake asseep at home, abroad, I am surrounded still with God.
- 4 Amazing knowledge, vast and great! What large extent; what losty height;

My foul with all the pow'rs I boaft, Is in the boundlefs prospect lost.

5 O may these thoughts possess my breast Where e'er I rove, wheree'er I rest! Nor let my meaner passions, dare Conjent to sin, for God is there.

PAUSE I.

6 Could I fo falfe, fo faithless prove
To quit thy service and thy love,
Where, Lord, could I thy presence shun,
Or from thy dreadful glory run?

7 If up to heav'n I take my flight,
"Tis there thou dwell'st Enthron'd in Light;
Or dive to hell, there vengeance reigns,
And Satan groans beneath his chains.

8 If, mounted on a morning-ray, I fly beyond the Western sea, Thy swifter hand would first arrive, And there arrest thy sugitive.

9 Or should I try to shun thy sight Beneath the spreading veil of night, One glance of thine, own piercing ray Would kindle darkness into day.

10 O may these thoughts posse's my breast Where e'er I rove where e'er I rest! Nor let my meaner passions dare Consent to sin, for God is there.

PAUSE II.

nt The veil of night is no diffcuife.

Nor fereen from thy all-fearching eyes:
Thy hand can feize thy foes as foon
Through midnight-shades as blazing noon.

Great God they're both alike to thee; Nor death can hide what God will spy, And hell lies naked to his eye, n O may the se thoughts possess my breast Where e'er I rove where e'er I rest; Nor let my meaner possess dare Consent to sin, for God is there.

PSALM CXXXIX. Second part.

The wonderful formation of man.

"TWAS from thy hand, my God, I came A work of fuch a curious frame; In me thy fearful wonders shine, And each proclaim thy will divine.

2 Thine eyes did all my limbs furvey, Which yet in dark confusion lay: Thou saw'st the daily growth they took; Form'd by the model of thy book.

3 By thee my growing parts were nam'd, And what thy fov'reign counfels fram'd (The breathing lungs, the beating heart) Were copy'd, with unerring art.

4 At last, to shew my Maker's name, God stamp'd his image on my frame, And, in some unknown moment, join'd The finish'd members to the mind.

5 There the young feeds of thought began, And all the passions of the man: Great God, our infant nature pays Immortal tribute to thy praise.

PAUSE.

6 Lord, fince in my advancing age l've acted on life's buzy stage, Thy thoughts of love to me surmount The pow'r of numbers to recount.

7 I could furvey the ocean o'er,
And count each fand which makes the shore, 12
Before my swif est thoughts could trace.
The num'rous wonders of thy grace.

3 These on my heart are still imprest; With these I give my eyes to rest: And, at my waking hour I find God and his tove possess my mind.

PSALM CXXXIX. Third part.

Sincerity profest, and grace tried; or, The heart-

MY God, what inward grief I feel
When imp'ous men transgress thy will!
I mourn to hear their lips profane,
Take thy tremendous name in vain,
2 Does not my foul detest and hate
The fons of malice and deceit?
These who oppose thy laws and Thee,
I count them enemies to me.

8 Lord, fearch my foul, try ev'ry thought; Though my own heart accuse me not Of walking in a false disguise, I beg the trial of thine eyes.

4 Doth secret mischief lurk within? Do I indulge some unknown sin? O turn my seet, when'er I stray, And lead me in thy persect way.

3 My thoughts lie open to the Lord Before they're form'd within; And e'er my lips pronounce the word, He knows the fense I mean.

Owond'rous knowledge, deep and high!
Where can a creature hide?
Whinin thy circling arms I lie,
Befet on every fide.

5 So et thy grace furround me fill, And like a bulwark prove, To guard my foul from ev'ry ill, Secur'd by Sor'reign leve.

PAUSE.

6 Lord, where shall guilty fouls refire;
Forgotten and unknown;
In hely they prove the decoded for

In hell they meet thy dreadful fire, In heav'n thy girrious throne.

7 Should I suppress my vital breath,
To steape the wrath divine,
Thy voice would break the bars of death,

And make the grave refign.

8 If, wing'd with beams of morning light,

I fig to youd the Well,
The tand, which must sepport my slight,
Would from better my rest.

9 If o'er my fins he think to draw The custains of the night,

Those flaming eyes, which guard thy law, Would tu ntle shades to light.

PSALM CXLV. Second Part.

The goodness of God.

SWEET is the mem'ry of the grace, My God, my heav'nly King; Let age to age the righteousness In songs of glory sing.

2 God reigns on high, but not confines

H s goodness to the sky.s;

Through the whole earth his bounty shines,

And ev'ry want supplies.

3 With longing eyes, thy creatures mait

On Thee for daily food:

Thy libital hand provides their meat,

And fids their mouths with good.

4 How kind are thy compeffions. Lord!
How flow thine anger moves!

How foon he fends his pard ning word To cheer the fouls he loves.

5 Creatures, with a litheir endless race, Thy pow'r and praise proclaim; But faints, who taste thy richer grace, Delight to bless thy name.

PSALM CXLV. Third Part.

Mercy to 'uffirers, or, God hearing prayer.

ET ev'ry tongue thy goodness speak,

Thou sov'reign Lordof all;

Thy strength'ning hands uphold the weak, And raife the poor, who fall.

When forrow bows the spirit down,
Or virtue lies diffrest

Beneath fome proud oppreffor's frown, Thou giv'ft the mourners reft.

3 The Lord supports our tott'ring days, And guides our gliddy youth;

Holy and just are all thy ways, And a'l thy words are truth.

4 He knows the pain his fervants feel;
He hears his children cry,
And their beft wifhes to fulfil,
His grace is ever nigh.

5 His mercy never flail remove
From nen of heart fincere;
He faves the fouls, whose humble love
Is join'd with holy fear.

[6 His stubborn foes his sword shall slay, And pierce their hearts with pain; But none who serve the Lord, shall say, "They sought his aid, in vain."

7 My lips shall dweil upon his praise, And spread his same abroad; Let all the sons of Ildam raise The honors of their God.

P S A L M CXLVI. Long Metre.

Praise to God for his goodness and truth.

PRAISE ye the Lord; my heart shall join in works so pleasant, so divine;
Now while the field is mine abode,
And when my soul ascends to God.

2 Praise shall employ my noblest pow'rs, While immortality endures: My days of praise shall ne'er be past, While life and thought and being last. 3 Why should I make a man my trust? Princes must die, and turn to dust; Their breath depart, their pomp and pow'r And thoughts all vanish in an hour.

A Happy the man whose hopes rely On Ir'el's God! he made the sky, And earth and seas, with all their train; And none shall find his promise vain.

5 His truth forevr stands secure; He saves th' opprest, he sec ds the poor; He sends the labring concience peace, And grants the pris'ner sweet release.

6 The Lord hath eyes to give the blind; The Lord supports the sinking mind; He helps the stranger in distress, The widow and the fatherless.

7 He loves his faints he knows them well, But turns the wicked down to hell: Thy God, O Zion! ever reigns; Fraise Himin everlasting strains.

PSALM CXLVI.

Praise to God for his goodness and truth.

I'LL praise my Miker with my breath:
And, when my voice is lost in death,
Praise shall employ my nobler pow'rs:
My days of praise shall ne'er be past
While life and thought and being last,
Or immortality endures

2 Why should I make a man my trust? Princes must die, and turn to dust;
Vain is the help of shish and blood;
Their breath departs their pomp and pow'r,
And thoughts all vanish in an hour,
Nor can they make their promise good.

3 Happy the man, whose hopes rely n I, r'el's God; he made the sky,

And earth and feas, with all their train; His truth forever flands fecure; H. faves th' oppreft, he feeds the poor, And none shall find his promife vain.

4 The Lord hath eyes, to give the blind; The Lord supports the finking mind; He fends the lab'ring conscience peace; He helps the tranger in distress,

The widow and the fatherless,

And grants the pris'ner sweet release.

5 Heloves his faints: he knows them well, But turns the wicked down to hell: Thy God, O Zion! ever reigns:

Let ev'ry tongue, let ev'ry age, In this exalted work engage: Praise him in everlasting strains.

6 I'il praife him, while he lends me breath, And when my voice is lost in death, Praife shall employ my pobler pow'rs: My days of praife shall ne'er be past, While life and thought, and being last. Or immortality endures.

PSALM CXLVII. Firft Part.

The Divine Nature, Providence and Grace.

PRAISE ye the Lord: 'tis good to raise Our he uts and voices in his praise; His nature and his works invite To make this duty our delight.

2 The Lord builds up Jerusalem, And gathers nations to his name: His mercy melts the stubborn foul, And makes the broken spirit whole.

He form'd the stars, those heav'nly slames: He counts their numbers calls their names: His wisdom's vast, and knows no bound; A deep where all our thoughts are drown'd, A Great is our Lord, and great his might;
And all his glories infinite:
He crowns the meek, rewards the just,
And treads the wicked to the dust.

PAUSE.

s Sing to the Lord exalt him high, Who ipreads his crouds all round the fky; There he prepares the fruitful rain, Nor lets the drops defeend, in vain.

He makes the grafs the hills adorn, And clothes the imiling fields with corn; The beafts with food his hand; fupply, And the young ravens, when they cry.

7 What is the creatures' skill or force. The sprightly man, the warlike horse? The nimble wit, the active limb, All are too mean delights for him.

8 But faints are lovely in his fight; He views his children with de ight; He fees their hope, he knows their fear; And looks and loves his image there.

PSALM CXLVII. Second Pars.

Summer and Winter:
A Song for America.
COLUMBIA! praife thy mighty God,
And make his honors known abroad;
He bids the ocean round thee flow:
Not bars of brafs could guard thee fo. 182

- 2 Thy children are secure and blest: Thy shores have peace, thy cities rest; He feeds thy sons with finest wheat, And adds his blessing to their meat.
- 3 Thy changing feafons he ordains, Thine early and thy latter rains; His flakes of fnow, like wool, he fends, And thus the fpringing corn defends.

7.00

With hoary frost he frews the ground His hail descends with coart'ring found; Where is the man fo vainly boid, Who dates defy his dreadful cold?

He bids the Southern breezes blow a The ice diffolves, the waters flow: But he hath nobter works and ways, America! to draw thy praise.

6 In all thy climes his laws are shown: His gospel through the nation known: He hath not thus reveal'd his word Fo ev'ry land: praise ye the Lord!

PSAL M CXLVII. Com. metre. The Seafons of the Year.

WITH fongs and honors founding loud,
Address the Lord on high;
Over the heav'ns he spread his cloud,
And waters veil the sky.

2 He fends his show're of bleffings down To cheer the plains below; He makes the grass the mountains crown, And corn in vallies grow.

3 He gives the grazing ox his meat; He hears the ravens cry; But man who taffes the finest wheat, Should raise his honors high.

A His steady counsels change the face Of the declining year; He bids the fun cut short his race,

And wint'ry days appear.

5 His hoary frost, his sleecy snow. Descend, and clothe the ground. The liquid streams forbear to flow. In icy fetters bound.

Aa

6 When from his dreadful flores on high,
He pours the ratt'ling hail,
The wretch, who dures this God defy.

The wretch, who dares this God defy, Shall find his courage fail.

7 He fends his word and melts the fnow; The fields no longer mourn; He calls the warmer gales to blow, And bids the fpring return.

8 The changing wind, the flying cloud, Obey his mighty word: With fongs and honors, founding loud. Praife ye the fov'reign Lord.

PSALM CXLVIII.

Praise to God from all Creatures.

I E tribes of Adam, join
With heav'n and earth and feas,
And offer notes divine
To your Creator's praise.
Ye holy throng

Or angels bright, In worlds of light Begin the long.

2 Thou fun, with dazzling 1ays,
And moon which rui'st the night,
Shine to your Maker's praise,
With stars of twinkling light.
His pow'r declare,
Ye stoods, on high,
And clouds, which sty
In empty air,

3 The shining worlds above In glorious order stand, Or in swift courses move By his supreme command: ile spake the word, And all their frame, From nothing came, To praise the Lord.

4 He mov'd their mighty wheels In unknown ages patt,
And each his word fusfils
While time and nature laft.

In diff'rent ways
His works proclaim
His wond'rous name,
And fpeak his prafe.

PAUSE.

- 5 Let all the earth-born race,
 And monsters of the deep,
 The fish, which cleave the seas,
 Or in their bosom sleep,
 From sea and shere
 Their tribute pay,
 And still display
 Their Maker's pown.
- 6 Ye vapours, hail and fnow,
 Praife ye the th' Almighty Lord,
 And fformy winds which blow:
 'To execute his word:
 When light'nings fhine,
 Or thunders roar,
 Let earth adore
 His Hand divine.
- 7 Ye mountains, near the skies, With lofty cedars there, And trees of humbler fize, Which fruit in plenty bear. Beafts, wild and tame, Birds, flies and worms, In various forms, Exalt his name.
- 8 Ye kings and judges, fear The Lord, the fov'reign King: And while you rule us here, His Leav'nly honors fing:

Nor let the dream Of pow'r and flate Make you forget His pow'r furreme.

y firgins and youth engage
To found His praife divine,
While infancy and age
Their feebler voices join:
Wide as He reigns
His name be fung,
By ev'ry tongue,
In endless ftrains.

To Let all the nations fear
The God, who roles above,
He brings his people near
And makes them take his love:
While earth and fky
Attempt his praife,
His faints shall raife
His honors high,

P S A L M CXLVIII. Paraphrased.

Univer/al praise to God.

OUD hallelujahs to the Lord

From diftant worlds where creatures dwell;

Let heav'n begin the folemn word,

And found it dreadful down to hell,

Note, This p alm may be fing as the 113th pfalm if the two following lines are added to every flanza, viz.

Each of his works his name displays, But they can ne'er fulfil his praise.

a The Lord! how absolute he reigns! Let ev'ry angel bend the knee! Sing of his love in heav'nly frains, And speak how fierce his terrors be.

3 High on a throne his glories dwell, An a wful throne of shining blis: Fly through the world, O fun, and tell How dark thy beams, compar'd to His.

4 Awake, ye tempests, and his same In sounds of dreadful praise declare: And the sweet whisper of his name Fill ev'ry gentler breeze of air.

5 Let clouds, and winds, and waves agree To join their praise with blazing fire: Let the firm earth and rolling sea, In this eternal fong conspire.

6 Ye flow'ry plains, proclaim his skill; Vallies, lie low before his eye! And let his praise from ev'ry hill Rise tuneful to the neighb'ring sky.

7 Ye flubborn oaks and stately pines, Bend your high branches, and adore; Praise him ye beasts, in different strains; The lamb must bleat, the lion roar.

8 Birds, ye must make his praise your theme; Nature demands a song from you:
While the dumb fish which cut the stream Leap up and mean his praises too.
9 Mortals, can you refrain your tongue,

Mortals, can you refrain your tongue, When nature all around you fings? O for a shout from old and young, From humble swains, and lofty kings?

no Wide as his vast dominion lies
Make the Creator's name be known;
Loud as his thunder shout his praise,
And found it losty to his throne.

O may it dwell on ev'ry tongue!
But faints who best have known the Lord
Are bound to raise the noblest song.

12 Speak of the wonders of that love Which Gabriel plays on ev'ry chord: From all below and all above, Loud hallalujahs, to the Lord.

PSALM CXLVIII. Short metre

Universal praise.

To praise th' eternal God; Ye heavn'ly hosts, the song begin, And sound his name abroad.

2. Thou fun with golden beams, And moon, with paler rays, Ye starry lights, ye twinkling stames, Shine to your maker's praise.

3 He built those worlds above, And fix'd their wond'rous frame: By His command they stand or move, And ever speak his name.

4 Ye vapors, when ye rife, Or fall in show'rs of snow, Ye thunders, murm'ring round the skies, His pow'r and glory show.

5 Wind, Hail and flashing fire,
Agree to praise the Lord,
When ye, in dreadful storms, conspire
To execute his word.

6 By all his works above
His honors be expreft;
But faints, who tafte his faving love,
Should fing his praifes beft.

PAUSE I.

7 Let earth and ocean know They owe their Maker praise; Praise him, ye watry worlds below, And monsters of the seas.

E From mountains near the fky Let his high praise resound, From humble shrubs and cedars high, And vales and fields around.

9 Ye lions of the wood, And tamer beafts, which graze, Ye live upon his daily sood, And he expects your praise.

To Ye birds of lofty wing, On high his praifes bear, Or fit on flow'ry boughs, and fing Your Maker's glory there.

TF Ye creeping ante and worms, His var'ous wifdom flow; nd flies, in all yourshining swarms, Praise Him who drest you so.

E2 By all the earth-born race,
His honors be express:
But, saints, who know his heav'nly grace,
Should learn to praise him best.

PAUSE II.

13 Monarche of wide command, Praife ye th' eternal King; Judges, adore that Sov'reign hand Whence all your honors fpring.

14 Let vig'rous youth engage
To found his praifes high;
While growing babes and with'ring age
Their feebler voices try.

15 United zeal be shown
 His wond'rous fame to raise;
 God is the Lord; his name alone.
 Deserves our endless praise.

26 Let nature join with art, And all pronounce him bleft, But faints, who dwell to near his heart, Should ang his praises best.

PSALM CXLIX.

Praise God all his Saints; or, The Saints Judging the World.

A LL ye who love the Lord, rejoice, And let your fongs be new; Amidst the church, with cheerful voice, His later wonders shew.

2 The Jews, the people of his grace, Shall their Redeemer fing; And Gentile nations join the praise, While Zion owns her King.

- 3 The Lord takes pleafure in the just, Whom finners treat with scorn: The meek, who lie despised in dust, Salvation shall adorn.
- A Saints sha'l be joyful in their King, E'en on a dying bed; And, like the fouls in glory, sing,
- For God shall raise the dead.

 5 Then his high praise shall fill their tongues,
 Their hands shall wield the sword:
 And vengeance shall attend their songs,

The vengeance of the Lord.

- 6 When Christ his judgment-feat scends, Andbids the world appear, Thrones are prepar'd for all his friends Who humbly lov'd him here.
- 7 Then shall they rule with iron rod Nations that dar'd rebel: And join the sentence of their God. On tyrants doom'd to hell.
- 8 The royal finners, bound in chains, New triumphs shall afford; Such honor for the faints remains; Praife ye, and love the Lord.

PSALM CL.

A Song of Praife.

IN God's own house pronounce his praise?

His grace he there reveals:

To heav'n your joy and wonder raise,

For there his glory dwells.

Let all your facred paffions move, White you rehearfe his deeds:
But the great work of faving love
Your highest praise exceeds.

S All who have motion, life and breath,
Proclaim your Maker bieft;
Yet when my voice expires in death,
My foul shall praise him bek.

XXXIX. God's tender care of his Church, Isa. xlix. 13, 14, & c.

NOW shall my inward joys arise, And burst into a song: Almighty love inspires my heart, And pleasure tunes my tongue, a God on his thirfly Sion hill Some mercy-drops has thrown, And foreign oaths have bound his love To flow'r talyation down.

3 Why do we then include our fears, Sufficions and compaints?
Is he a God, and Thair is grace
Grow weary of his faints?

4 Can a kind woman e'er forget The intant of her womb,

And monght a thousand tender thoughts,
Her fuckling have no room?

g Yet, faith the Lord, shall native change, And mothers monsters prove, Sion still devells won the heart Of everlasting love.

6 Deep on the palms of both my hands I have engran'd her name; My hanas/hall raife her ruin'd wails, And build her broken frame.

XL. The brifiness and bleffedness of glorified Saints.

Rev. vii. 13, 14, 15, &c.

WHAT happy men, or angels the e,
That all their robes are fpotlefs white?
Whence did this glor'ous troop arrive
At the pure realms of heavinly light?

2 From tort'ring racks, and burning fires, And feas of their own blood they came:
But nobler blood has wash'd their robes, Flowing from Christ the dying Lamb.

3 Now they approach'd th' Almighty Throne With loud hojannas night and day:
Sweet anthems to the great Three-OneMeasure their bless'd eternity

R. I. 4 No more flialt hunger pain their fouls; He bids their parching thirft be gone. And foreads the fludow of his wings, To ikreen them from the foorching fun.

The Lamb who fills the middle throne, Shall fred around his milder beams: There shall they feast on his rich love, And drink full joys from living streams.

6 Thus shall their mighty blifs renew Through the valt round of endless years, While the foft hand of Sov'reign Grace Heals all their wounds and wipes their tears.

XLI. The Martyrs Glorified, Rev. vii. 15, &c.

THESE glor'ous minds low bright they shine! Blence all their walte array? How came they to the bappy feats Of everlating day?

From tort'ring paids to endlessjoys On flory wheels they rode, And frangely wash'd their raiment white In Ye w'aying blood.

3 Now they approach a spotless God, And bowbefore his throne; Their warbling harps and facred fongs

Adore the Holy One. 4 The unveil'd glories of his face Among his faints relide.

While the rich treasure of His grace Sees all their wants supply'd.

g Tormenting thirst shall leave their souls, And hunger flee as fast : The fruit of life's immortal tree

Shall be their fweet repast.

The Lamb shall lead His heav'nly flock Where living fountains rife,

And love Divine shall wipe away The forrows of their eyes.

XLII. Divine Wrath and Mercy. Na. i. 1,2,3, 50 DORE and t'emble for our God Isa* confuming fire! (*Heb. xii. 25.) His jealous eves his wrath inflame.

And raife his vengeance high'r.

2 Almighty vengeance, how it burns! How bright its fury glows! Vast magazines of plagues and storms

Lie treasur'd for his foes.

3 Those heaps of wrath by flow degrees Are fore'd into a flame: But kindled, oh ! how fierce they blaze ! And rend all nature's frame I

At his approach the mountains fice. And feek a wat'ry grave: The frighted fea makes hafte away,

And shrinks up ev'ry wave.

Through the wide air the weighty rocks Are fwift as hail-stones hurl'd; Who dares engage the fiery rage Which shakes the folid world?

6 Yet mighty God! thy Sov'reign Grace Sits Regent on the throne, The refuge of thy chosen race

When wrath comes rushing down. 2 Thy hand shall on rebellious kings A fiery tempest pour,

While we beneath thy shelt'ring wings. Thy just revenge adore.

XLV. The Last Judgement, Rev. xxi. 5, 6, 7, 8. CEE where the great Incarnate God Fille a majestie throne !

While from the skies his awful voice Bears the last judgment down,

"I am the FIRST, and I the LAST,
"Through endless years the same;

"I AM, is my memorial still, "And my Eternal Name,

3 "Such favors as a God can give, "My royal grace bestows:

- "Ye thirfty fouls, come, tafte the ftreams
 "Where life and pleafure flows.]
- 4[" The faint, who triumphs o'er his fine, " I'll own him for a fon;

"The whole creation shall reward "The conquests he has won.

- 5 "But. bloody hands, and hearts unclean, "And all the lying race,
- "The faithless, and the fcoffing crew,
 "Who spurn at offer'd grace;

6 "They shall be taken from my fight,
"Bound with an iron chain,
"And haddens plans'd into the lake

"And headlong plung'd into the lake
"Where fire and dackness reign."
O may I stand before the Lamb.

When earth and feas are fled!

And hear the Judge pronounce my name,
With bleffings on my head!

8 May I with those forever dwell. Who here were my delight; While finners banish'd down to hell, No more offend my fight.

ALVIII. Christian Rase, If. xl. x8, 29, &c.

AWAKE our fouls (away our fears,
Let ev'ry trembling thought be gone)

D d

Awake, and run the heav'nly race, And put a cheerful courage on.

2 True, 'tis a straight and thorny road,
And mortal spirits tire and faint;
But they torget the mighty God,
Who feeds the strength of ev'ry saint.

3 The mighty God, whose matchless pow'r Is ever new and ever young, And firm endures, while endless years Their everlasting circles run.

- 4 From Thee, the overflowing spring, Our souls shall drink a fresh supply; While such as trust their native Grength Shall melt away, and drop, and die.
- 5 Swift as an eagle cuts the air, We'l mount aloft to Thine & bode; On wings of love our fouls fhall fly, Nor tire amidft the heav'nly road.

XLIX Works of Moses and the Lamb, Re. xv. 3.

HOW strong thine arm is, mighty God!
Who would not fear Thy Name?

Jejus, how sw eet thy grace are!
Who would not love the Lamb?

- 2 He has done more than Mo es did,
 Our Prophet and our King:
 From bonds of hell he freed our fouls,
 And taught our lips to fing.
- 3 In the red sea, by Moses' hand Th' Egyptian host was drown'd; But his own blood hides all our fins. And guilt no more is found.
- 4 When through the defart Isr'el went, With manna they were fed;
 Our Lord invites us to his stells,
 And calls it lizing bread.

- 5 Moles beheld the promis'd land. Yet never reach'd the place; But Christ shall bring his foll wers home To see his Futher's face.
- 6 Then shall our love and joy be spil, And feel a warmer slame, And sweeter voices tune the song Of Moles and the Lamb.
- L. Light and Salvation by JESUS CHRIST Luke, i. 68, &c. John i. 29, 32.

NOW be the God of I r'el bleft, Who makes his truth appear; His mighty hand fu'fis his word, And all the oaths he fware

- 2 Now he bedews old Dscid's root With bleffings from the fkies: He makes the branch of promise shoot, The promis'd born arise
- 3 [John was the prophet of the Lord, To go before his face, The herald that our Saviour-God Sent to propage his ways.
- 4 He makes the great Salvation known;
 He speaks of pardon'd fins:
 While Grace Divine, with heav'nly love,
 In its own glory shines.
 - 5 " Behold the Lamb of God," he cries,

"Who takes our guilt away;
I faw the Spirit o'er His head,

" On his baptizing day.]

6" Be ev'ry vale exalted high;
"Sink ev'ry mountain low;

"The proud must stoop, and humble fouls

" Shall his falvation know.

7" The heathen realms with Ifr'el's land,

" Shall join in fweet accord;

"And all that's born of man, shall see

" The glory of the Lord.

8 "Behold the Morning Star arise,
"Ye who in darkness sit;

" He marks the path which leads to peace.

"And guides our doubtful feet."

LI. Preferving Grace, Jude, 24, 25.

TO GOD, the Only wife, Our Saviour and our King. Let all the faints, below the fkies, Their humble praifes bring.

2 'Tis his Almighty love, His counfel, and his care, Preferv'd us fafe from fin and death, And ev'ry hurtful fnare.

3 He will present our souls, Unblemish'd and compleat, Before the glory of his face, With joys divinely great.

4 Then all the chosen feed
Shall meet around the throne,
Shall bless the conduct of his grace,
And make his wonders known.

5 To our Redeemer-God, Wifdom and power belongs, Immortal crowns of majefty, And everlafting fongs.

LII. Bapti'm, Matt. xxviii. 19, Acts ii. 38

'TWAS the commission of the Lord, Go teach the nations and baptize. The nations have received the word Since he ascended to the skies.

- 2 He fits upon the eternal hills, With grace and pardon in his hands. And fends his cov'nant with the feals, To blefe the daykfome Gentile lands.
- 3 Repent, and be baptiz'd, he faith, For the remission of your sins;. And thus our sense assists our faith And shows us what his gospel means.
- 4 Our fours he washes in his blood, As water makes the body clean; And the good Spirit from our God Descends like purifying rain.
- Thus we engage ourfelves to thee, And feal our cov'nant with the Lord; O may the great Eternal three In heav'n our folemn yows record.

LIII. The Holy Scriptures, Heb. i. 1. 2 Tim. iii.

15, 16. Pfalm cxlvii. 19, 20.

OD, who in various methods told His mind and will to faints of old, Sent his own Son with truth and grace, To teach us in these latter days.

- 2 The nations read the written word, That book of life, that fure record: The bright inheritance of heav'n Is by the fweet conveyance giv'n.
- 3 God's kindest thoughts are here express'd, Abie to make us wise and bless'd; The doctrines are divinely true, Fit for reproof and comfort too.
- 4 Ye happy lands, who read his love In song epittles, from above, (He hath not funt his facred word To ev'ry land) praise ye the Lord.

LIV. Saints beloved in Christ, Eph. i. 3, &c.

JESUS, we blefs thy father's name;
Thy God and our's are both the fame;
What heav'nly bleffings from his throne
Fall down to finners through his Son!

- 2 Christ be my first elect, he said. Then chose our souls, in Christ, our head, Before he gave the mountains birth, Or laid soundations for the earth.
- 3 Thus did Eternal love begin , To raife us up from death and fin; Our characters were then decreed, Blameless in love, a holy seed.
- 4 Predestinated to be sons, Born by degrees, but chose at once; A new regenerated race, To praise the glory of his grace.
- 5 With Christ our Lord we share our part in the affections of his heart; Norshall our fouls be thence remov'd, 'Till he forgets his first belov'd.

LV. Sickness and Recovery, Isa. xxxviii. 9, &c.

WHEN we are rais'd from deep distress
Our God deserves a song;
We take the pattern of our praise
From Hezekiah's tongue.

- The gates of the devouring grave Are open'd wide, in vain, If he who holds the keys of death Commands them fast again.
- 3 Pains of the flesh are wont t' abuse Our minds with slavish fears: Our days are past, and we shall life The remnant of our years.

- 4 We chatter with a fwailow's voice, Or like a dove we mourn, With bitterness. instead of joys, Afflicted and forlorn.
- 5 Jehovah speaks the healing word, And no disease withstands: Fevers and plagues obey the Lord, And sly at his commands.
- 6 If half the fprings of I fe should break, He can our frame restore; He casts our fins behind his back, And they are found no more.

LVI. Babylon Falling, Rev. xv.3, xvi, 19. xvii. &

WE fing the glories of thy love;
We found thy dreadful-name:
The christian church unites the songs
Of Moses and the Lamb.

2 Great God, how wond'rous are thy works Of vengeance and of grace! Thou King of faints, Almighty Lord, Flow just and true thy ways;

3 Who dares refuse to fear thy name, Or worship at thy Throne? Thy judgments speak thy holiness Through all the nations known.

4 Great Bubylon, which rules the earth,
Drunk with the martyrs' blood,
Her crimes shall speedily awake
The fury of our God.

5 The cup of wrath is ready mix'd,
And the must drink the dregs;
Strong is the Lord, her Sov'reign Judge,
And shall fuish her plagues.

LVII. Original Sin, Ro. v. 12. Pí. li. 3. Job xiv. 4.

PACKWARD with humble flume we look On our original; How is our nature dath'd and broke

How is our nature dash'd and broke In our first Father's fall.

2 To all that's good, averfe and blind, But prone to all that's ill;

What dreadful darkness veils our mind! How obstinate our will!

3 [Conceiv'd in fin (O wretched flate)
Before we draw our breath;
The first young pulse begins to beat
Iniquity and death.

4 How firong in our degen'rate blood The old corruption reigns,

And, mingling with the crooked flood, Wanders through ail our veins!]

g Wild and unwholesome, as the root, Will all the branches be;

How can we hope for living fruit From fuch a deadiy tree!

6 What mortal pow'r from things unclean Can pure productions bring? Who can command a vital fiream From an infected foring?

7 Yet mighty God, thy wondrous love Can make our nature clean, While Christ and grace prevail above The tempter, death, and fin.

8 The Second Adam shall restore The ruins of the first; Hosanna to that for reign pow'r,

Which new creates our dust !

LVIII. The Devil Vanquilled, Rev. xii.7.

E I morta tongues attempt to fing
The wars of heav'n, when Michael flood

B. I. Chief gen'ral of th' Eternal King. And fought the battles of our God.

2 Against the dragon and his host The armies of the Lord prevail; In vain they rage, in vain they boaft, Their courage links, their weapons fail.

3 Down to the earth was fatan thrown ; Down to the earth his legionsifell; Then was the trump of triumph blown, And shook the dreadful deeps of heli.

4 Now is the hour of darkness past, Christ has affam'd his reigning pow'r: Behold the great accuser cast Down from the fkies, to rife no more!

5 'Twas by thy blood, immortal Lamb, Thine armies trod the tempter down: 'Twas by Thy Word and pow'rful name They gain'd the battle and renown.

6 Rejoice, ye heav'ns! let ev'ry star Shine with new glories round the fky: Saints, while ye frng the heav'nly war, Raife your Deliv'rers name on high!

LIX. Babylon Fallen, Rev. xviii. 20, 21.

IN Gabriel's hand, a mighty stone, Lies a tair type of Babylon: Prophets, rejoice, and all ye faints, God (hall avenge your long complaints.

2 He faid, and dreadful as he stood; He funk the mill-stone in the flood: Thus terribly shall Bab'lon fail-Sink-and no more be found at all.

LX. The promised Messiah Born, Luk. i. 46, &c.

UR fouls shall-magnify the Lord; In God, the Sayour, we rejoice :

While we repeat the Virgin's fong, May the fame Spirit tune our voice.

2 [The Highest saw her low estate, And mighty things His hand hath done; His overshad'wing pow'r and grace Makes her the mother of a Sen.

3 Let ev'ry nation call her bless'd, And end ess years prolong her fame: But God alone must be ador'd: Holy and Rev'rend is his Name.

4 To those who fear and trust the Lord, His mercy stands forever sure; From age to age his promise lives, And the performance is secure

5 He spake to Abra'm and his seed— In thee shall all the earth he bless'd? The mem'ry of that ancient word Lay long in His Eternal breast. 6 But now, no more shall Ifr'el wait; No more the Gentiles lie fordorn: Lo, the Desire of nations comes— Behold, the promis'd feed is born!

LXI. Christ Coming to Judgment, Rev. i . 5, 6, 7.

NOW to the Lord, who makes us know The wonders of his dying love, Be humble honors paid below, And strains of nobler praise above.

2 'Twas he who cleans'd our fouleft fins, And wash'd us in his richest blood; 'Tis He who makes us priests and kings, And brings us, rebels, near to God.

3 To Jesus our atoning Priest, To Jesus, our superior King. Be everlasting pow'r confess'd' And ev'ry tongue his glory sing. A Behold! on flying clouds he comes, And ev'ry eye fliall fee him move! Though with our fins we pierc'c him once, Now he difplays his pard'ning love.

5 The unbelieving world shall wail, While we rejoice to see the day: Come, Lord—nor let thy promise fail, Nor let thy char'ots long delay.

LXII. Christ Jesus, the Lamb of God, worshipped by all the Greation, Rev. v. 11, 12, 13.

CME let us join our chearful fongs
With angels, round the throne:
Ten thousand thousand are their tongues,
But all their joys are one.

2 Worthy the Lamb, that dy'd, they cry, To be exalted thus; Worthy the Lamb our lips reply, For he was flain for us.

3 Jejus is worthy to receive
Honor and pow'r divine;
And bleffings more than we can give,
Be, Lord, forever thine.

4 Let all who dwell above the fky, And air, and earth, and feas, Conspire to raise thy glories high, And speak thine endless praise.

5 Let a'll creation join in one, To bless the Sacred Name Of him who sits upon the throne, And to adore the Lamb.

LXIII. Christ's Humiliation, and Exaltation, Re.v.

WHAT equal honors shall we bring,
To Thee, O Lord, our God, the Lamb,
When all the notes which angels sing,
Are far inserior to thy name?

2 Worthy is he who once was flain, The Prince of Life, who groan'd and dy'd; Worthy to rife, and live, and reign At his Almighty Father's fide.

3 Pow'r and dominion are his due, Who flood condemn'd at Pilate's bar: Wisdom belongs to Je us too, Though he was charg'd with madness here.

A All riches are his native right, Yet he fustain'd amazing loss; To him ascribe Eternal Might, Who left his weakness on the cross-

5 Hanor immortal must be paid, instead of scandal and of scorn; While glory shines around his head, And a bright crown without a thorn.

6 Bleffings for ever on the Lamb, Who bore the curfe for wreiched men; Let angels found his facred name, And ev'ry creature fay—Amen.

LXIV. Adoption, 1 John, iii. 1, &c. Gal. vi. 6:

BEHOLD, what wond rous grace
The Father has beflow'd
On finners of a mortal race,
To call them yens of God!

That e should be unknown:
The Jewish world know not their King.
God's everlasting Son:—

3 Nor doth it yet appear How great we must be made: But when we see our Saviour near, We shall be like our Head.

A hope, fo much divine, May trials well endureMay purge our fouls from fense and fin, As Christ, the Lord is pure.

5 If in my Father's love I flire a filial part, Send down thy fpirit, like a dove, To rest upon my heart.

6 We wou'd no longer lie
Like flares beneath the throne;
Our faith thali Abba Father cry,
And thou the kindred own.

LXV. The day of Judgement. Rev. 11. 15.

LET th' fev'nth angel found on high;
Let shoughts be heard through all the sky:
Kings of the earth with glad accord,
Give up your kingdoms to the Lord.

- 2 Almighty God, thy pow'r affume, Who wast, and art, and art to come; Jesus, the Lamb, who once wast slain, For ever live, forever reign!
- 3 The angry nations fret and roar That they can flay the fiints no more: On wings of vengeance flies our God To pay the long arrears of blood.
- 4 Now must the rising dead appear— Now the decisive sentence hear; Now the dear martyrs of the Lord Receive an infinite reward.

LXVI Christ at his Table, Sol. Song, i. 2, 3, &c.

LET him embrace my foul, and prove Mine int'rest in his heav'nly love:
The voice which tells me—Thou art mine—Exceeds the blessings of the vine.

2 On thee th' annointing Spirit came, And spreads the favor of thy name;

That oil of gladness and of grace Draws virgin fouls to meet thy face.

3 Jesus allure me by thy charms, My foul shall fly into thine arms! Our wand'ring feet thy favors bring To the fair chambers of the King.

[4] Wonder and pleafure tune our voice, To fpeak thy praifes and our joys:
Our mem'ry keeps this love of thine
Beyond the tafte of richeft wine.

e Though in ourselves deform'd we are, And black as Kedars tents appear; Yet when we put thy beauties on, Fair as the courts of Solomon.

6 While at his table fits the King, He loves to fee us fmile and fing: Our graces are our best perfume, And breathe, like spikenard, round the room.]

2 As myrrh, new bleeding from the tree, Such is a dying Christ to me; And while he makes my foul his guest, My bosom, Lord, shall be thy rest. 13 No beams of cedar or of fir, Can with thy courts on earth compare; And here we wait until thy love Raise us to nobler scats above.]

LXVII. Seeking the pastures of Christ the Shepberd, Solomon's Song, i. 7.

THOU, whom my foul admires above All, earthly joy, and carthly love, Tell me dear Shepherd iet mcknow Where do thy fweetest pastures grow?

Where is the shadow of that rock, Which from the sua defends thy slock? Fain would I feed among thy sheep, Among them rest, among them sleep.

3 Why should thy bride appear like one Who turns aside to paths unknown? My constant feet would never rove, Would never feek another love.

[4 The footsteps of thy flocks I fee— Thy sweetest pastures, here they be, A wond rous feast thy love prepares, Bought with thy wounds, and groans and tears 5 His dearest fless he makes my food, And bids me drink his richest blood, Here to these hills my foul will come, 'Till my beloved lead me home.]

LXVIII. Banquet of love, Sol. Song ii. 1, 2, Ac.

BEHOLD the Role of Sharon here, The Lily which the vallies bear ! Behold the Tree of Life, which gives Refreshing truit and healing leaves!

a Among the thorns fo lilies fhine, Among wild gourds the noble vine; So, in my eyes, my Saviour proves, Amidft a thousand meaner loves.

3 Beneath his cooling shade 4 sit. To shield me from the burning heat; Of heav'nly fruit he spread a teast, To feed my eyes and please my taile.

4 Kindly he brought me to the place Where flood the banquet of his grace; He faw me faint and o'er my head The banner of his lo've he spread.

5 With living bread and gen'rous wine, He chear'd this finking heart of mine; And op'ning his own heart to me, He thew'd his thoughts, how kind they be.

6 G, Never let my Lord depart!
Lie down, and rest upon my heart;
I charge my sins not once to move.
Disturb, nor wake, nor grieve my love.

LXIX. Christ appearing to his Church and feeking her company, Sol. Song, ii. 1, 9, 10, 11, &c.

THE voice of my beloved founds
Over the rocks and rifing grounds;
O'er hills of guilt and feas of grief,
He leaps, he flies to my relief 1

2 Now through the veil of flesh I see, With eyes of love he looks on me; Now in the gospel's clearest glass He shews the beauties of his face.

- 3 Gently he draws my heart along, Both with his beauties and his tongue; Rife, faith my Lord, make baffe away. No mortal joys are worth thy flay.
- A The Jewith wint'ry flate is gone. The miks are fl-d the Spring comes on, The facred Turtle Done we hear Proclaim the new, the joyful year.
- 5 Th' Immortal Vine of heav'nly root, Bloffoms and buds, and gives her fruit; Lo! we are come to tafte the wine; Our fouls rejoice and blefs the Vine.
- 6 And when we hear our Jesus fay— Rife up, my love and hafte away! Our hearts would fain out-fly the wind, And leave all earthly loves behind.

LXX. Christ inviting and the Church answering the invitation, Soi. Song ii. 14, 16, 17.

HARK! the redeemer from on high, Sweetly invites his fav rites nigh;

B. I. SPIRITUAL SONGS.

From caves of darkness and of doubt, He gently speaks and calls us out.

- a My dove who kid fl in the rock, Thine heart almost with foreow broke, Lift up thy face forget thy fear, And let thy voice delight mine ear,
- A Thy voice to met founds ever fueet; My graces in thy count nance meet. Though the wain world thy face defpile, "To bright and comely in mine eyes.
- 4 Dear Lord our thankful heart received The hope thine invitation gives: To thee our joyful lipeshall raise The voice of prayer and of praise:
- Is I am my Love's and he is mine; Our hearts our hopes our passions join; Nor let a motion nor a word. Nor thought arise, to grieve my Lord.
- 6 My foul to passures fair he lends, Among the silies where he feeds, Among the saints, (whose robes are white Wash'd in his blood) is his delight.
- 7 'Till the day break and fluidows fice, 'Till the fweet dawning light I fee, Thine eyes to me-ward often turn, Nor let my foul in darkness mourn.
- 8 Be like a hart on mountains green, Leap o'er the hills of fear and fin; Nor guilt, nor unbelief divide My Love, my Saviour from my fide.]

LXXI. Christ found in the fireet, and brought to the Church, Sol. Song, iii. 1,2,3, 4, 5.

OFTEN I feek my Lord by night.

Je m, my love my, feul's delight

E = 2

With warm defire, and reftless thought I seek him oft, but find him not.

Then I arise and search the street,
Till I my Lord, my Saviour meet?
I ask the watchmen of the night,
Where did you ee my soul's desight?

3 Sometimes I find him in my way, Directed by a heav'nly ray; I leap for joy to fee his face, And hold him fast in mine embrace.

[4] I bring him to my mother's home.
(Nor does my Lord refuse to came)
To Zion's facred chambers where
My foul first drew the vital air.

5 He gives me there his bleeding heart, Pierc'd for my lake with deadly fmart; I give my four to him, and there Our loves their mutual tokens share.]

61 charge you all, ye earthly toys, Approach not to diffurb my joys; Nor fin nor hell, come near my heart, To cause my Saviour to depart.

LXXII. Coronation of Christ and Especifuls of the Church. Sol. Song, iii. 2.

D UGHTERS of Zion come behold The crown of honor and of gold, Wich the glad church, with joy, unknown, Plac'd on the head of Solomon.

2 Je'us thou everiasting King, Accept the tribute which we bring; Accept the well-deferv'd renown, And wear our praises as thy crown.

3 Let ev'ry act of worship be Like our espousas. Lord to thee; Like the near hour, when from above, We first seem'd thy pledge of love, 4 The gladness of that happy day, Our hearts would wish it long to stay: Nor let our faith for sake its hold, Nor comfort sink nor love grow cold.

5 O! let each minute as it flies, Increase thy praise, improve our joys, "Till we are rais'd to sing thy name At the great supper of the Lamb.

6 O that the months would roll away, And bring that coronation-day! The King of Grace, that full the throne, With all his Father's giories on.

LXXII!. The Church's beauty in the eyes o Christ, Sol. Song, iv. 1, 10, 11, 7, 8, 9.

IND is the speech of Christ, our Lord,
Affection sounds in every word;
Lo, thou art fair my love, he cries.
Not the young doves have sweeter eyes,

[2 Saveet are thy lips, thy pleefing noice Sulutes mineear with fecret joys; No spice so much delights the smell, Nor milking honey tastes so well.

3 Thouart all fair, my bride to me; I will behold no loot in thre: What mighty wonders love performs; And puts a comeliness on worms!

4 Defit'd and loathfome as we are, He makes us white, and calls us fair; Adorns us with that heav'nly drefs, His graces and his righteoutness.

5 My fister and my pouls he cries Bound to my hear, by var'ous ties: The powe' ful love my heart retains In strong delight and ple sing chains.

6 He calls me from the leopaid's den From the wide world of beafts and men, To Zian where his glories are— Not Lebanen is half fo fair.

7 Nor dens of prey, nor flow'ry plains, Nor earthly joys, nor earthly pains. Shall hold my feet, or force my flay, When Gbrist invites my foul away.

LXX IV. The Church the garden of Carift, Solomon Song, iv. 12, 13, 15, and v. 1.

WE are a garden wall'd around, Chofen and made peculiar ground; A little fpot, enclos'd by grace, Out of the world's wide wildernefs.

- 2 Like trees of myrrh and spice we stand, Planted by God the Father's hand; And all his springs in Zion slow, To make the young plantation grow.
- 3 Awake, O heav'nly Wind, and come, Blow on this garden of perfume! Spirit Divine, descend and breathe, A gracious gale on plants beneath.
- A Make our best spices flow abroad, To entertain our Saviour-God; And faith, and love, and joy appear, And ev'ry grace be active here.
- [5] Let my beloved come and tafte His pleafant fruits at his own feaft:— I come, my |pow/e. I come, he cries, With love and pleafure in his eyes.

6 Our Lord into his garden comes. Well pleas'd to finell our poor perfumes ; And calls us to a feast divine, Sweeter than honey milk or wine.

7 Eat of the Tree of Life my friends, The bleffings which my Father lends; Your tuffe shall all my dainties prove, And drink abundance of my love. 8 Jesus, we will frequent thy board, And fing the bounties of our Lord -But the rich food, on which we live, Demands more praise than tongues can give.]

THE word'ring wor'd enquires to know,
What are his charms, say they, above
The objects of a mortas love?

2 Yes my Beloved, to my fight Shews a fweet mixture red and white; All human beauties, all divine, In my Beloved meet and shine.

3. White is his foul, from blemish free; Red with the blood he shed for me; The fairest of ten thousand fairs, A sun, among ten thousand stars.

14 His head the fineft gold excels; There wisdom in perfection dwells, And gler; like a crewn adorns Those temples once beset with thorns!

5 Compassions in his heart are found, Hard by the figures of his wound: His facred fide no more than bear The cruel scourge the piercing spear.)

[6 His hands are fairer to behold. Than diamonds fet in rings of gold; Those heav nly hands, which on the tree Were nail'd and torn, and bled for me;

7! Though once he bow'd his feeble knees, Loaded with fins and agonies, Now on the throne of his command His legs like marble pillars, fland.]

[8 His eyes are majesty and love— The eagle temper'd with the dove, No more shall trickling forrows roll
Through those dear windows of his foul.

9 His mouth which pour'd out long complaints Now finiles and chears his fainting faints:
His countenance more graceful is
Than Lebanon, with all its trees.

no All over glor'ous is my Lord, Must be belov'd and yet ador'd; His worth if all the nations knew, Sure the whole earth would love him too.

LXXVI. Christ devells in heaven but visits on Earth, Sol. Song, vi. 1, 2, 3, 12.

And give a loofe to all your fire.

2 Purfue the pleafures you defign,
And cheer your hearts with fongs and wine;
Enjoy the day of mirth—but know—
There is a day of judgment too!

3 God from on high beholds your thoughts; His book records your fecret faults; The works of darkness you have done, Must all appear before the sun.

4 The vengeance to your follies due, Should firike your hearts with terror through? How will you stand before His face, Or answer for his injured grace?

5 Almighty God, turn off their eyes From the alluring vanities! And let the thunder of thy word Awake their fouls to fear the Lord.

XC. The fame.

L O, the young tribes of Adam rife,
And through all nature rove:
Fulfil the wishes of their eyes,
And take the joys they love.

2 They give a loofe to wild defires; But let the finners know, The first account, which God requires, Of all the works they do.

3 The Judge prepares his throne on high;
The frighted earth and feas
Avoid the fury of his eye,
And flee before his face.

4 How shall I bear that dreadful day, And stand the fiery test: I give all mortal joys away To be forever blest.

NOT the malicious or profane, The wanton, or the proud, Nor thieves, nor fland'rers shall obtain The kingdom of our God.

2 Surprising grace! and such were we By nature, and by fin; Heirs of inmortal misery,

Unholy and unclean.

3 But we are wash'd in Jesus' blood, We're pardon'd through his name; And the good Spirit of our God

Has fanctify'd our frame. 4 O, for a perfevering pow'r

To k eep thy just commands!

We would defile our hearts no more,

No more pollute our hands.

CV. Heaven invisible and Holy, 1 Cor. ii. 9, 19, Rev. xxi. 27.

Nor fense, nor reason known, What joys the Father has prepar'd For those who love the Son.

2 But the good Spirit of the Lord Reveals a heaven to come; The beams of g'ory, in his word, Allure and guide us home

3 Pure are the joys above the fky, And all the regions peace; No wanton lips, nor envious eye, Can fee or taffe the blifs,

4 Those holy gates forever bar Pollution, sin, and shame; None shall obtain admittance there, But followers of the Lamb.

5 He keeps the Father's book of life; There all their names are found; The hypocrite, in vain, shall strive, To tread the heav'nly ground.

CVI. Dead to Sinby the Cro's of Christ, Ro. vi. I.

SHALL we go on to fin,
Shecarife thy grace abounds,
Or crucify the Lord again,
And open all his wounds?

2 Forbid it, migh y God! Nor let it e'er be taid, That we, whose fins are crucify'd, Should raise them from the dead.

3 We will be flaves no more, Since Christ has made us free, Has nait'd our tyrants to the cross, And bought our liberty.

DECEIV'D by fubtle fnares of hell, Adam, our head, our father fell; When fatan, in the ferpent hid, Fropos'd the fruit which God forbid. 2 Death was the threat ning: Death began To take possession of the man; His unborn race received the wound, And heavy curses smote the ground.

3 But fatan found a worfe reward: Thus faith the vengeance of the Lord-

" Let everlafting hatred be,

" Betwixt the woman's feed and thee.

"4 The woman's feed shall be My Son;

"4 He shall destroy what thou hast done-

"Shall break thy head—and only feel "Thy malice raging at his heel."

Is He spake—and bid four thousand years Roll on—at length his Son appears:
Angels, with joy, descend to earth,
And sing the young Redeemer's birth.

6 Lo, by the fons of hell he dies!
But, as he hung 'twixt earth and 'kies,
He have their prince a fatal blow,
And triumph'd o'er the pow'rs below.

CVIII. Christ Unfeen and Beloved, 1 Pet. L. S.

NOT with our mortal eyes
Have we beheld the Lord;
Yet, we rejoice to hear his name,
And love him in his word.

2 On earth we want the fight Of our Redeemer's face; Xet, Lord, our inmost thoughts delight To dwell upon thy grace.

3 And when we tafte thy love, Our joys divinely grow Unipeakable, like those above, And heav'n begins below: CIX. The value of Christ, and his Righteen nefs, Phit. iii. 7, 8, 9.

No more, my God. I boast no more Otall the divises I have done: I quit the hopes I held before, To trust the merits of thy Son.

- 2 Now for the love I bear his Name, What was my gain I count my loss; My former pride I call my shame, And nail my glory to his cross.
- 3 Yes, and I must and will esteem All things but lose, for Jesus' sake; O, may my soul be sound in Him. And of his righteousness partake!
- 4 The best obedience of my hands
 Dares not appear before Thy Throne;
 But faith can answer Thy demands,
 By pleading what my Lord has done.

 Then, O my foul with joy obey
 Thy heavinly Father's call.
- 2 'Tis he by his Almighty grace, Who forms thee fit for heav'n; And, as an earnest of the place, Has his own Spirit giv'n.
- We walk by faith of joys to come— Faith lives upon his word; Bu while the body is our nome, We're absent from the Lord.

5 'Tis pleasant to believe thy grace, But we would rather see; We would be absent from the sless. And present, Lord, with thee.

CXI. Salvation by Grace, Titus iii, 3-7.

ORD, we confess our num'rous faults—
How great our guilt has been be foolish and vain were all our thoughts,
And a bour lives were fin.

2 But, O my foul, forever pro-Forever love his name.
Who turns thy feet from dang rous ways
Of folly, fin and fhame.

[3] Tis not by works of righteoufnefs Which our own hands have done; But we are fav'd by fov'reign grace, Abounding through His Son.

4 "Tis from the mercy of our God That ail our hopes begin; "Tis by the water and the blood Our fouls are wash'd from fin.

5 'Tis through the purchase of his death Who hung upon the tree, The Spirit is f. at down to breathe On such dry bones as we.

9 Rais'd from the dead we live anew; And justify'd by grace, We shall appear in glory too, And see our Father's face.

The wounded fest immediate ease,
The camp forebore to die.

2 Look up ward, in the dying hour,
 And live—the prophet cries;
 But Christ performs a nobler cure,
 When faith lifts up her eyes.

3 High on the crofs the Saviour hung; High o'er the heav'ns he reigns; Here finners, by th' oid ferpent flung, Look, and forget their pains.

When God's own son is lifted up,
A dying world revives;
The Jew behold's the glor'ous kope,
Th' expiring antile lives.

CXIII. Abraham's Bleffing on the Gentilea. Gen. xvii. 7. Rom. xv. 8. Mark x. 14.

HOW large the promife! how divine!
To Abra'm, and his feed;
L'll be a God to thee and thine,
"Supplying all their need."

The words of this extensive love From age to age endure; The angel of the covinant proves, And feals the bleffing fure.

3 Jesus, the ancient faith confirms.
To our great fathers giv'n;
He takes young children to his arms,
And calls them—beirs of heav'n.

4 Our God, how faithful are his ways!
His love endures the fame;
Nor from the promise of his grace
Blots out the children's name.

CXIV. The Jame, Romans, xi. 16, 17.

GENTILES by nature, we belong To the wild olive wood; Grace takes us from the barren tree, And grafts us in the good. 2 With the fame bieffings, grace endows
The Gentile and the Jew;
If pure and holy be the root

If pure and holy be the root, Such are the branches too.

- 3 Then let the children of the faints
 Be dedicate to God;
 Pour out thy Spirit on them, Lord,
 And wash them in thy blood.
- A Thus to the parents and their feed, Shall thy falvation come, And num'rous boufeholds meet at last in one eternal home.

CXV. Conviction of Sin, by the Low, Ro. vii. 8, &c.

ORD, how fecure my confeience was, And felt no inward dread; I was alive, without the law,

And thought my fins were dead.

- 2 My hopes of heav'n were firm and bright,
 But fince the precept came,
 With a convincing pow'r and light,
 I find how vile I am.
- 13 My guilt appear'd but finall before, 'Til., terrib.y, I faw How perfect holy, just and pure, Was thine Eternal Law.
- 4 Then felt my foul the heavy load; My fin reviv'd again;

I had provok'd a dreadful God, And all my hopes were flain.;

5 I'm like a helplefs captive, fold, Under the pow'r of fin; I carnet do the good I would, Nor keep my confirmence clean.

6 My God, I'll cry with ev'ry breath, For fome kind pow'r to fave, To break the yoke of fin and death, And thus redeem the flave.

CXVI. Love to God and our neighbour, Mat. xxii

Tilus faith the first and great command, Let ail thy inward pow'rs unite To love thy Maker, and thy God, With utmost vigor and delight.

2" Then shall thy neighbour, next in place, "Share thine affections and esteem,

"And let thy kindness to thyself

" Measure and rule thy love to him."

3 This is the fense which Moses spoke, 'This did the prophets teach and prove: ____ For want of this, the law is broke, And the whole law's fulfil'd by love.

4 But Oh! how base our passions are! How cold our charity and zeal; Lord, fill our souls with heavinly fire, Or we shall ne'er perform thy will.

CXVII. Election, fovereign and free, Ro. ix. 21.

BEHOLD the potter and the clay!
He forms his vessels as he please;
Such is our God, and such are we,
The subjects of his high decrees.

2 Doth not the workman's pow'r extend O'er all the mass, which part to choose, And mould it for a nobier end, And which to leave for viler use?

3 May not the fov'reign Lord on high Difpense his favors as he will, Choose some to life, while others die, And yet be just and gracious still?

14 What if to make his terror known, He lets his patience long endure, Suff'ring vile rebels to go on, And feal their own destruction sure?

5 What if he means to shew his grace, And his electing love employs To mark out some of mortal race, And form them sit for heav'nly joys?

6 Shall man reply against the Lord, And call his Maker's ways unjust, The thunder of whose dreadful word Can crash a thousand worlds to dust?

7 But, O my foul, if truth fo bright Should dazzle and confound thy fight, Yet ftill his written will obey, And wait the great decifive day.

8 Then shall he make his justice known, And the whole world, before his throne, With joy or terror, shall confess The glory of his righteousness.

CXVIII. Mojes & Christ; or, Sins egainst the Law and Gospel. John, i. 17. Heb. iii. 3, 5, 6. x. 28.

THE law by Moses came,
But peace, and truth and love.
Were brought by Christ (a nobler name)
Descending from above.

A midst the house of God
Their diff'rent works were done 1
Moses a faithful servant stood,
But Christ—a faithful Son.—

3 Then to his new commands
Be ftrict obed ence paid;
O'er all his Father's house he ftands
The Sov'reign and the Head.

4 The man who durft despise The law which Moses brought, Behold! how teribly he dies For his prefumpt'ous fault;

5 But forer vengeance falls
On that rebeliious race,
Who have to hear when Jefus calls
And dare refifthis grace.

CXIX. The different fuceess of the Go pel, 1 Ogr. i. 23, 24-2 Cor. ii. 15-1 Cor. iii. 6. 7.

CHRIST and his crofs are all our theme;
The mystrics that we speak,
Are scandal in the Jews' esteem,
And soly to the Greek:

2 But fouls enlight'ned from above, With joy receive the word! They fee what wisdom, pow'r and love, Shine in their dying Lord.

3 The vital favor of his name Reffores their fainting breath; But unbelief perverts the fame To guilt, defpair and death.

4 'Till God diffuse his graces down, Like show'rs of heav'uly rain, In vain Apollos sows the ground. And Paul may plant in vai.

CXX. Faith of things unfeen, Heb, xi. 1, 3, &c.

T'AITH is the brightest evidence
Ofthings beyond our fight,
Breaks through the clouds of flesh and sense,
And dwells in heavinly light.

3 It fets time paft in prefent view, Brings diftant prospects home, Of things a thousand years ago, Or thousand years to come.

3 By faith we know the worlds were made: By God's Almighty Word ; Abra'm, to unknown countries led, By faith obey'd the Lord.

A He fought a city fair, and high, Built by th' Eternal Hands; And faith affures us, though we die, That heav'nly building flands.

CXXI. Children devoted to God, Gen. xvii. 7,10. Acts, xvi, 14, 15, 33.

(For those who pract ce Infant Baptism.)

THUS faith the mercy of the Lord, "I'll be a God to thee;

" I'll biefs thy num'rous race—and they
"Shall be a feed for me."

- 2 Abra'm believ'd the promis'd grace, And gave his fors to God; But water feals the bleffing now, Which once was feal'd with blood.
- 3 Thus Lydia fanctify'd her house, When the receiv'd the word; Thus the believing jailor gave His houshold to the Lord.
- 4 Thsu later faints, Eternal King,
 Thine ancient truth embrace;
 To Thee, their infant offspring' bring
 And humbly claim thy grace.

CXXII. Believers buried with Christ in Babtism; Rom. vi. 3 4. &c.

DO we not know that folemn word— That we are buri'd with the Lord; Baptis'd into his death and then Put off the body of our fin?

2 Our fouls receive diviner breath, Rais'd from corruption guilt and death : Hh 36 from the grave did Christ arise, And lives to God, above the skies.

3 No more let fin or fitan reign. Over our mortal flesh again: The var'ous lufts we ferv'd before Shall have dominion now no more.

CXXIII. The Repenting Prodigal, Lu. xv. 15

BEHOLD the wretch, whose furt and wine Had wasted his estate;
He begs a share among the swine,
To taste the husks they eat.

"I die with hunger, here (he cries)
"I flarve in foreign lands:

- "My Father's house has large supplies, And bount'ous are his hands.
- 3 "I'll go, and with a mouraful tongue;"
 " Fall down before his face;

"Father, I've done thy justice wrong, "Nor can deferve thy grace."

- 4 He faid—and halt'ned to his home,
 To feek his Father's love;
 The Father faw the rebel come—
 And all his bowels move.
- 5 He ran—and fell upon his necker.
 Embraced and kifs'd his fon;
 The rehers heart with forrow brake.
 For fel ies he had done

6" Take off his clothes of shame and fin; (The Father gives command)

- "Dreis him in garments white and clean, "
 "With sings adorn his hand."
- 7 " A day of feating I ordain: "
 O Let mirth and joy abound;
 G My ton was dead and lines again,
 G Wastoft, and now is found."

CXXIV. The first and the Second Adam, Ro. v 12.

DEEP in the dust, before thy throne, Our guist and our disgrace we own ; Great God, we own th' unhappy name Whence sprang our nature and our shame.

2 Acam, the finner—At his fail, Death, like a coaqu'ror, feiz'd us all; A thousand new-born babes are dead By tatal-union to their head.

3 But while our spirits fill'd with awe, Behold the terrors of thy law, We sing the honors of thy grace, That lent to save our ruin'd race.

4 We fing the everlasting Son, Who join'd our nature to his own; ADAM THE SECOND, from the dust Raises the ruins of the first.

[c By the rebellion of one man, Through all his feed the mischief ran; And by one man's obed'ence now Are all his feed made righteous too.] 6 Where fined reign and death abound. There have the sons of Adam tound Abounding life—thus glor'ous grace Reigns through the Lord, our righteousness.

CXXV Christ's Compassion to the Weak and Tempter ed, Heb. iv. 15, 16, and v. 9, Mat. xii. 20.

WiTH joy, we meditate the grace Of our High-Priest, above; His heart is made of tenderness, His bowels melt with love.

2 Touch'd with a sympathy within, He knows our feeble frameHe knows what fore temptations mean, For he has felt the fame.

3 But spotless, innocent, and pure, The great Redremer stood: While satan's fiery dar's he bore, And did resist to blood.

A He in the days of feeble fl fl,
Pour'd out his cries and tears;
And, in his measure, teels afresh
What ev'ry member bears.

(5 He'll never quench the smoaking flax, But raise it to a slame,

The bruifed reed he never breaks, Nor fcorns the meanest name.]

6 Then let ou humbl ε faith address
His mercy and his pow'r;
We shall ob ain deliv'ring grace
In the distressing hour.

CXXVI. Charity and Uncharitablenefs, Rom. xiv.

OT iffrent food, nor diff'rent dress Compose the kingdom of our Lord— But peace and oy and rightcousness, Faith, and obed'ence to his word.

2 When weaker christians we despise, We do the gospel mighty wrong; For God, the gracious and the wise, Receives the feeble with the strong.

3 Let pride and wrath be banish'd hence; Meekness and love our souls persue; Nor shall our practice give offence To faints, the Gentile or the Jew.

CXXVII. Christ's invitation to finners, Mat, z.

"Ye heavy-laden finners, come;

Pil give you rest from all your toi's, "And raife you to my heav'nly home,

2 " They sha'l find rest who learn of me;

"I'm of a meek and lowly mind;

"But passion rages like the sea.

"And pride is reftlefs as the wind.

3 " Bleft is the man whose shoulders take

" My yoke, and bear it with delight: "My yoke is easy to his neck:

" My grace shall make the burden light.

4 Jefus, we come at thy command: With faith, and hope, and humble zeal, Refien our spirits to thy Hand, To mould and guide us at thy will.

CXXVIII. The Apolles, Commission, Mark xvi. 15, &c. -Mat. xxviii. 78, &c.

O preach my gospel, faith the Lord;
Bid the whole earth my grace receive; "He shall be fav'd who trusts my word: " He shall be damn'd who won't believe.

la "I'll make your great commission known, " And you shall prove my g fpel true,

" By all the works which I have done,

"By all the wonders ye faall do.

2 "Go heal the fick, go raife the dead, "Go cast out devils in my name;

" Nor let my prophets be afraid.

"Though Greeks reproach and Jews b'afpheme.

4 " Teach all the nations my commands-" I'm with you 'till the world shall end ;

"All pow'r is trufted in my hands,

"I can destroy and I defend."

g He spake-and light shone round his head; On a bright cloud to heav'n he rode 11 7. 4

They to the farthest nations spread The grace of their ascended God.

CXXIX. Submiffion and Deliverance, Gen:xxii.6.

S AINTS, at your heav'nly Father's word, Give up your comforts to the Lord; He shall restore what you resign, Or grant you blessings more divine.

2 So Abra'm, with obed'ent hand, Led forth his fon, at God's command; The wood the fire, the knife he took, His arm prepar'd the dreadful stroke.

" Abra'm, forbear, the angel cry'd,
"Thy faith is known, thy love is try'd;
"Thy fon shall live—and in thy seed
"Shall the whole earth be bless'd indeed."

a just in the last distressing hour The Lord displays deliving pow'r: The mount of danger is the place, Where we shall see surprizing grace.

OW by the bowels of my God,
His fharp diffrefs. his fore complaints.

By his last grouns, his dying blood,
I charge my foul to love the faints.

2 C'amor and wrath, and war, be gone— Envy and fpite forever cease; Let bitter words no more be known Among the faints, the fons of peace.

3 The Spirit. like a peaceful dove, Files from the realms of noise and strife; Why should we vex and grieve his love, Who seals our fouls to heav niy life?

Through all our lives, let mercy run:

So God forgives our num'rous faults For the dear fake of Chrift, his Son.

CXXXI Pharise and Publican, Lu. xvii. 10.

BEHOLD how finners dilagree—
The Pub ican and Pharise!
One doth his righteouspes proclaim;
The other owns his guit and shame.

2 This man at humble distance stands, And cries for grace, with lifted hands; That boldly rifes near the turone, And talks of duties he has done.

3 The Lord their diff'rent language knows, And diff'rent answers he bestows: The humble soul, with grace he crowns, While on the proud his anger frowns.

4 Dear Father, let me never be Join'd with the boafting Pharisce; I have no merits of my own, But plead the suffrings of thy Son.

CXXXII. Holinefs and Grace. Tit. ii. 10-13-

O let our lips and lives express,
The holy Gospel we profess:
So let our works and virtues shine
To prove the doctrine ALL DIVINE.

Thus shall we best proclaim abroad The honors of our, Saviour-God; When the Sa vation reigns within Andgrace subdues the pow'r of sin.

a our flesh and sense must be deny?d, Passion and envy lust and pride; While justice temp rance, truth, and love, Our inward piety approve.

A Religion bears our fpirits up. While we expect that bieffed hope, The bright appearance of the Lord, And faith stands leaving on his word.

CXXXIII. Love and Charity, 1 Cor. xix. 2-7.

LET Pharifees of high effects,
Their faith and zeal declare;
All their religion is a dream,
If love be wanting there.

Love fuffers long, with patient eye,
 Nor is provok'd in hafte;
 She lets the prefentinj'ry die,
 And long forgets the paft.

[3 Malice and rage, those fires of hell, She quenches with her tengue; Hopes, and believes, and thinks no iil, Though the endures the wrong.

A Shenor defires, nor feeks to know.

The feandals of the time:
Nor looks with pride on those below,
Nor envies those who climb.

5 She lays her own advantage by To feek her neighbor spood;
So God's own Son came down to die,
And bought our aves with blood.

6Love is the grace which keeps her powing.
In realms of "pht above;
Their faith and hope are known no more,

But faints forever love.

CXXXIV. Religion vain swithout Love, r Car.

HAD I the topgues of Greeks and Jews. If it we be ablent, I am found Liketinking brafs, an empty found.

2 Were I in pir'd to preach and tell All that is donein heav'n and bells Or, could my faith the world remove, Still I am nothing, without love.

3 Should I distribute all my store To feed the bowels of the poor, Or give my body to the si me; To gain a ma try's glor'ous name—

4 If love to God, and love to men Be abtent—all my kopes are vain: Not tongues, nor gifts, nor fiery zeal, The work of love can e'er tu fil.

CXXXV. The love of Christ fled abroad in the Heart, Eph. ii. 16, &c

C DME dearest Lord, descend and dwell By faith and love in every brend; Then shall we know, and taste and feel The joys which cannot be expressed.

a Come, fill our hearts with it ward ftrength, Make our enlarged touls poffers
And learn the heighth, and breadth, and length, Of thine unmeasurable grace.

3 Now to the God, whose pow'r can do More than our thoughts or wishes know, Be everlasting nonors done By ail the church, through Chist his Son.

EXXXVI. Sincerity and Hypecrity: or, Formality in worthist Job iv. 23. Pf CXXiX. 23.
OD is a Spirit, inft and wife;

In vain to heav'n we raife our cries.

And leave our fouls behind.

Nothing but tru h before his throne,
 With honor can appear:
 The painted hypocrites are known,
 Through the difguife they wear,

3 Their lifted eyes falute the skies,
Their bending knees, the ground;
But God abhors the facrifice
Where not the heart is found.

4 Lord, fearch my thoughts, and try my ways.

And make my foul fincere:
Then shall I stand before thy face,
And find acceptance there.

CXXXVII. Salvetion by Grace, 2 Tim. i. 9, 10.

NOW to the pow'r of God Supreme, Be everlafting honors giv'n; He faves from hell—(we bleis his name) He calls our wand'ring feet to heav'n.

2 Not for our duties or deferts, But of his own abounding grace, He works falvation in our hearts, And forms a people for His praise.

3 'Twas his mere pleafare which begun 'To refeue rebels doom'd to die: He gave us grace in Chaist his Son, Before he spread the starry sky.

4 Jesus the Lord, appears at last, And makes his Father's counsels known Declares the great transactions past, And brings immortal blessings down.

5 He dies—and in that dreadful night, Did all the pow'rs of hell deftroy; Rifing he brought our heav'n to light, And tookpollession of the joy.

CXXXVIII. Saints in the Hands of Christ, John. x, 28, 29.

FIRM as the earth Thy gospe! stands,
My Lord, my hope my trust;
If I am found in Jesus, hands
My foul can pe'er be lost,

2 His honor is engag' d to fave The meaneft of his sheep; All which his heavn'ly Father gave His hands tecurely keep.

3. Nor, death nor hell shall e'er remove His fav'rites from his breast; In the dear bosom of his love They must forever rest.

CXXXIX. Hope in the Covenant, Heb.vi 17, 176

HOW ofthave fin and fatan strove
To rend my four from Thee, my God!
But everlasting is thy love,
And less seals it with his blood.

- 2 The oath and promife of the Lord Join to confirm the wond'rous grace; Eternal Pow'r performs the word, And fills all heav'n with en dless praise.
- 3 Amidst temptation sharp and long, My foul to this dear Refuge slies; Hope is my anchor firm and strong, While tempests blow, and billows rife.
- 4 The gospel bears my spirit up; A faithful and unchanging God Lays the foundation of my hope, In oaths, and promises, and blood.

CXL. A living and a Dead Faith, collected from feveral Scriptures.

MIST AKEN fouls! who dream of heavin, And make their empty boaft Of inward joys, and fins forgivin, While they are flaves to luft.

2 Vain are our fancies, airy flights, If faith be cold and dead; None but a living pow'r unites To Christ the living Head.

- 3 'Tis faith that changes all the heart,
 'Tis faith which works by love;
 That birts all finful joys depart,
 And lifts the thoughts above.
- 4 'Tis faith which conquers earth and helf,
 By a cerefital pow'r:
 This is the grace which shall prevail
 In the decisive hour.
- 5 Faith must obey her Father's will,
 As well as trust his grace;
 A pard'ning God is jealous still
 For his own holines.
- 6 When from the curse he sets us free,
 He makes our natures clean:
 Nor would he send his Son to be
 The minister of fin.
- 7 His spirit putifies our frame, And seals our peace with God; Jestis, and his salvation, came By water and by blood.

CXLI. The Humiliation and Exaltation of Christ,

WHO has believ'd thy word, Or thy Salvation known? Reveal thine arm Almighty Lord, And giorify thy Son!

2 The Jews efferm'd him here Too mean for their belief: Sorrows his chief acquaintance were, And his companion, grief.

3 They turn'd their eyes a way, And treated him with fcorn; But 'twas their griefs t an him lay, Their forrows he has borne. 4 'Twas for the stubborn Jews, And Gentiles, then unknown, The God of Justice pleas'd to bruite His best-beloved Son.

" But I'll prolong his days.

"And make his kingdom frand:
"My pleafure, (faith the God of grace):
"Shall proper in his hand.

6 "His jeyful foul thali fee "The purchase of his pain;

"And by his knowledge justify "The guilty sone of men.

7" Ten thousand captive flaves
"Releas'd from death and fin.

"Shall quit their prisons and their graves,
"And own His pow'r divine.

8 "Heav'n shall advance My Son "To joys which earth deny'd, "He saw the follies men had done,

"And bore their fins, and dy'd."

CXIII. The Jame, Isa. liii. 6-9, 13.

IKE sheep we went astray.

And broke the fold of God;

Each wand'ring in a diff'rent way,

But all—the documenard road.

2 How dreadful was the nour, When God our wand'rings laid— And did at once his vengeance pour Upon the Shepherd's head!

3 How glor'ous was the grace, When Christ sustain'd the stroke His life and blood the Shepherd pays A rausom for the slock.

4 His honor and his breath Were taken both away; I i Join'd with the wicked, in his death, And made as vile as they.

5 But, God shall raise his head O'er all the sons of men, And make him see a num'rous seed To recompense his pain.

6 " I'll give him, (faith the Lord)
"A portion with the ftrong;
"He shall possess a large reward.
"And hold his honors long."

CXLIII. Charaters of the Children of God.

A S new-born babes defire the breaft, To feed, and grow, and thrive; So faints, with joy, the gospel taste, And by the gospel live.

With inward guft their heart approves
All which the word relates;
They love the men their Father loves,
And hate the works he hates

Not all the flatt'ring baits on earth, Can make them flaves to luft; They can't forget their heav'nly birth, Nor grovel in the duft.

4. Not all the chains which tyrants use,
Can bind their souls to vice;
Fairh, like a conqu'ror, can produce
A thousand victories.]

Is Grace, like an uncorrupted feed,
Abides, and reigns within;
Immortal principles forbid
The fons of God to fin.]

6 Not by the terrors of a flave
Do they perform his will;
But with the noblest pow'rs they have,
If is sweet commands sulfil.]

7 They find accefs at ev'ry hour To God, within the vail: Hence they derive a quick'ning pow'r, And joys, which never fail.

8 O happy fouls! O glorious state Of overflowing grace! To dwell so near their Father's seat,

And fee his lovely face!

9 Lord, I address thy heav'nly throne— Call me a child of Thine; Send down the spirit of thy Son To form my heart divine.

There fined thy choisest love abroad And make my comforts strong; Then shall I say—My Father God, With an unway ring tongue.

CXLIV. The Witneffing and feeling Spirit, Rose. viii. 14, 16. Eph. i. 13, 14.

WHY should the children of a king Go mourning all their days? Great Comforter, descend, and bring Some tokens of thy grace!

Dost thou not dwell in all thy faints, And feal the heirs of Heav'n? When wilt thou banish my complaints, And shew my fins for siv'n?

Affure my conscience of her part.
In the Redeemer's blood;
And bear thy witness with my heart.
That I am born of God.

4 Thou art the earnest of his love, The pledge of joys to come: And thy soft wings, Celestial Dove ! Will safe convey me home. CXLV. Christ and Aaron, taken from Heb. vii. 9

JESUS, in Thee, our eyes behold
A thousand glosies more
Than the rich gems and polish'd gold
The Sons of Auton wore.

- 2 They first their own burnt-off rings brought To purge themselves from fin; Thy life was pure without a spot, And all thy nature clean.
- is Fresh blood, as constant as the day, Was on their alter spirt;
 But thy one offering takes away Forever, all our guilt.
- 4 Their priesthood ran through sev'ral hands,
 For mortal was their race?
 Thy never-changing effice stands
 Eternal as toy days.
- y Once in the circuit of a year, With blood, but not his own, Aaron within the vail appear'd Before the golden throne.
- 6 But Christ by his own pow'rful blood, A cends above the skies: And, in the presence of our God, Shows his own sacrifice.
- 7 Jesus, the King of glory, reigns
 On Zion's heav'nly hill;
 Looks like a Lamb hat has been slain,
 And wears his priesthood still.
- 3 He ever lives to intercede Before his Father's face, Give him, my foul. thy cause to plead, Nor doubt thy Father's stace. CXLVI. Characters of Christ.
- O, worship at Immanuel's feet, See, in his face what wonders meet;

Earth is too narrow to express His worth, his glory, or his grace.

12 The whole creation can afford But fome faint fladows of my Lord; Nature to make his beautics known, Must mingle colours, not her own.

- ? Is be compar'd to Wine or Bread?
 Dear Lord our fouls would thus be fed:
 That flesh, that dying blood of thine
 Is bread of life—is heav'nly wine
- A Is He a Tree? The world receives Salvation from his healing leaves: The righteous branch, that fruitful bough 18 David's root and offspring too.
- 5 Is He a Roe? Not Sharon yields Such fragrancy in all her fields: Or, if the Lily he affume, The vallies blefs the rich perfume.
- 6 Is He a Vine? His heavn'ly root Supplies the boughs with life and fruit: O, let a lafting union join My foul to Christ, the living Vine!
- γ Is He the Head? Each member lives, And owns the vital pow'rs he gives; The faints below and faints above, Join'd by his Spirit and his love.
- 8 Is He a fountain? There I'll bathe, And heal the plague of fin and death: These waters all my soul renew, And cleanse my spotted garments soo.
- 9 Is He a Fire? He'il purge my dross: But the true gold fustains no loss: Like a refiner shall he fit— And tread the refuse with his feet.

The Rock of Ages never moves;

Li 3

Yet the fweet Preams which from him flow, Attend us all the dufart through

[I I Is He a Way? He leads to God— The path is drawn in lines of blood; There would I walk, with hope and zeal, Till I arrive at Zion's hill.]

[12 Is He a Door? Pillenter in; Behold the pattures large and green! A paradife—divine'y fair; None but the sheep have freedom there.]

[13 Is He design d a Corner-Stone, For men to build their hear'n upon. I'll make him my foundation too; Nor fear the plots of hell below.

14. Is He a temple? I adore
Th' indwelling majefty and pow'r;
And fill, to his most hosy place,
Whene'er I pray, I'll turn my face.

15 It He a Star? He breaks the night; Picrome the thades with dawning light: I know his glories from afar, I know the bright, the Morning Star.

16 Is He a Sun? His beams are grace; H's course is joy and righteominess; Nations rejoice when he appears To chase their clouds, and dry their tears.

17 O let me climb those hieher skies. Where storms and darkness never rise! There he displays his pow'rs abroad, And shines, and reigns th' Incarnate God.

x3 Nor earth nor flas, nor fun, nor flars, Nor heav'n his tu'l refembiance hears; His beauties who can never trace, Till we behold him face to face. CXLVII .- The Names and Titles of Christ.

Is from the treasures of his word,
I borrow titles for my Lord;
Norart nor nature can supply
Sufficient forms of majesty.

2 Bright image of the Father's Face. Shining with undiminish'd rays; Th' Eternal God's eternal Son— The Helr and Partner of his throne.

g The King of kings—the Lord most high Writes his own name upon his thigh; He wears a garment dipp d in blood, And breaks the nation with his rod.

A Where grace can neither melt nor move, The Lamb refents his injur'd love; Awakes his wrath, without deley, And Judah's Lion tears the prey.

5 But when for works of seace he comes, Waat winning titles he affumes!
Light of the world, and life of men;
Nor bears those characters in vain.

6 With tender pity in his heart, He acts the Mediators part; A friend and brother he appears, And well fulfils the names he wears.

2 Atlength the Judge his throne alcends, Divides the rebeis from his friends: And faints in fall fruition, prove His rich variety of love.

CXLVIII. The fame

WiTH cheerful voice I fing The titles of my Lord; And borro vall the names Of honor, from his word; Nature and art Can ne'er supply Sufficient forms Of Majesty.

In Jefus we behold His Father's glorious face, Shining for ever bright With mild and lovely rays:

Th' Eternal God's Eternal Son, Inherits and Partakes the throne

The fov'reign King of kings,
The Lord of lords, most high.
Writes his own name upon
His garment, and his thigh:
His name is call'd
The word of God:
He rules the earth
With iron rod.

Where promifes and grace.
Can neither melt nor move.
The angry Lamb refents.
The inj'ries of his love;
Awakes his wrath
Without delay,
As lions roar
And tear the prey-

5 But, when for works of peace The great Redeemer comes, What gentler characters, What titles he affumes! Light of the world,

And life of men;
Nor will he bear
Those names in vain.

6 Immense compassion reigns
In our Immanuel's heart,
When he descends to act
A Mediator's part.
He is a friend
And brother too;
Divinely kind,
Divinely true.

7 At length the Lord, the Jadge, His awful throne afcends; And drives the rebels far From favorites and friends, Then thall the faints

Then thall the faints
Completely prove
The heights and depths
Of all his love.

EXLXI. Offices of Christ-from the Scriptures.

JOIN all the names of love and pow'r,

Which ever men or angels bore;

All are too mean to speak his worth,

Or set Immanuel's glory forth.

2 But O, what condescending ways He takes, to teach his heav'niy graced My eyes, with joy and wonder, see What forms of love he bears for me.

3 The angel of the cov'nant stands With his commission in his hands; Sent from his Father's milder throne To make the great salvation known.

4 Great Prophet, let me bless Thy name s By thee the joyful tidings came. Of wrath appeas'd, of sin forgiv'n, Of hell subdu'd, and peace with heav'n.

5 My bright example, and my guide, I would be walking near thy fide; O never let me run aftray, Nor follow the forbidden way! 6 Hove my Shepherd—he thall keep My wand'ring four among his sneep; He feeds his flock, he calls their names, and in his bosom bears the lambs.

7 My Surety undertakes my caule, Answ'ring his Father's broken laws; Behold, my foul at freedom set! My Surety paid the dreadful debt.

2 Jesus, my great High-Priest, has dy'd—I feek no sacrifice beside: His blood did once for all atone. And now it pleads before the throne.

My.advocate appears on high— The Father lays his thunder by; Not all that earth or hell can fay Shall turn my Father's heart away.

10 My Lord, my Conqu'ror, and my King, Thy feeptre, and thy iword I fing; Thine is the vict'ry, and I fit A joyful subject at thy feet.

II Afpire, my foul, to glorious deeds— The Captain of Salvation leads— March on—nor fear to win the day, Though death and hell obstruct the way.

12 Should death and hell, and pow'rs unknown
Put all their forms of mischief on;
I shall be safe—for Christ displays
Salvation in more fow'reign ways.

JOIN all the glorious names Of wisdom, love and pow'r, Which evermortals knew, Which angels ever bore: All are too mean

To speak his worth,

Too mean to let My Saviour forth.

But, O, what gentier terms!
What condescending ways
Doth our Redeemer use,
To teach his heav'nly grace!
Mine eyes, with joy
And wonder, see
What forms of love
He bears for me.

3. Array'd in mortal fielh,
He, like an angel, frands,
And holds the promifes
And pardons in his hands:
Commission'd from,
His Father's throne,
To make his grace
To mortals known.

4 Great Prophet of my God,
My tongue would blefs thy name;
By Thee the joyful news
Of our Salvation came;

The joyful news
Of fins forgivin,
Of hell fubdu'd,
And peace with heavin!

g Be thou my Counfellor, My pattern, and my guide And through this tefart land Still keep me near thy fide. O let my feet Ne'er run aftray,

Ne'er run aftray, Nor rove, nor feek The crooked way!

6 I love my Shepherd's voice 3. His watchful eye shall keep My wand'ring foul among
The thousands of his sheep:
He seeds his flock,
He calls their names,
His bosom bears
The tender lambs.

- 7 To this dear Surety's Hand.
 Will I commit my cause;
 He answers and fulfils
 His Father's broken laws,
 Behold my foul
 At freedom set,
 My Surety paid
 The creatful debt.
- 8' Jefus, my great High Prieft,
 Offer'd his Blood, and dy'dMy guilty confinence feeks
 No facrifice befi le.
 His pow'rful Blood
 Did once atone;
 And now it pleads
 Before the throne.
 - 9 My advocate appears
 For my defence, on high;
 The Father bows his ears,
 And lays his thunder by.
 Not all which heli
 Or fin can fay,
 Shall turn his heart,
 His love away.

My dear almighty Lord.
My Conqu'ror, and my King,
Thy feeptre, and thy fword.
Thy reigning grace I fing.
Time is the pow'r—
Behold I fit
In willing bonds
Beneath thy feet.

II Now let my foul arife, And tread the tempter down; My captain leads me forth To conquest and a crown.

A feeble faint Shall win the day, Though death and hell Obstruct the way.

1) Should all the hofts of death And powers of hell, unknown, Put their most dreadful forms Of rage and mischief on; I shall be fafe— For Christ displays

Superior pow'r,
And guardian grace.

BOOK II.

COMPOSED ON

DIVINE SUBJECTS.

I. Along of Praise to God from AMERICA.

NATURE, with all her pow'rs, shall fing God the Creator, and the King: Nor air, nor earth, nor skies, nor seas, Deny the tribute of their praise.

2 Begin to make his glories known, Ye Seraphs, who fit near his throne; Tune your harps high, and foread the found To the creation's utmost bound.

3 All mortal things, of meaner frame, Exert your force, and own his name; Whilft, with our fouls, and with our voice, We fing his honors, and our joys,

4 To Him be facred all we have, From the young cradle to the grave; Our lips shall his loud wonders tell, And evry word—a miracle.

5 This Western World, our native land, Lies safe in the Almighty's hand;

Our foes of vict'ry dream in vain, And shake the captivating chain.

6 He builds for liberty a throne, And makes it gracious like his own; Makes our fuccessive rulers kind, And gives our dangers to the wind.

- 7 Raife monumental praifes high To him who thunders through the fley, And, with an awful nod or frown, Shakes an afpiring tyrant down.
- 8 Pillars of lasting brass proclaim The triumph's of th' Eternal name; While trembing nations read from far The honors of the God of war.
- 9 Thus let our flaming zeal employ Our loftieft thoughts and loudeft fongs; Zion pronounce, with warmeft joy, Hofannas from ten thoufand tongues.
- Attemps in vain to reach thy name:
 The ftrongest notes which angels raise,
 Faint in the worship and the praise.

II. The death of a Sinner.

MY thoughts on awful fubjects roll,
Damnation and the dead;
What horrors feize the guilty foul
Upon a dying bed!

- 2 Ling'ring about these mortal shores,
 She makes a long delay
- Till like a flood with rapid force, Death sweeps the wretch away!
 - Then swift and dreadful, she descends Down to the siery coast;

Among abominable fi: nds, Herself, a frightful ghost.

4 There endless crowds of finners lies And darkness makes their c ains, Tortur'd with keen despair, they cry-

Yet wait for fiercer pairs.

- 5 Not all their anguish, and their blood, For their old guilt atones: Nor the compassion of a God Shall hearken to their groans.
- 6 Amazing grace, which kept my breath, Nor bid my foul remove. 'Ti! I had learn'd my Saviour's death. And well infur'd his love.

III. The death and burial of a Saint. THY do we mourn departing friends? Or fhake at death's alarms? 'Tis but the voice which Jesus sends To call them to his arms.

- 2 Are we not tending upward too, As fast as time can move? Nor would we wish the hours more flow To keep us from our Love.
- 2 Why should we tremble to convey. Their bodies to the tomb? There the dear fleth of Jefus lay, And left a long perfume.
- 4 The graves of all his faints he blefs'd. And loften'd ev'ry bed ; Where should the dying members reft, But with the dving Head ?
- 5 Thence he arose, ascending high-And shew'd our feet the way : Up to the Lord our fouls shall fly? At the great riling day.

6 Then let the last loud trumpet sound,
And bid our kindred rise;
Awake ye nations, under ground,
Ye saints, ascend the skies.

IV. Salvation in the Cro's.

HERE, at thy crofs, my dying God,
I lay my foul beneath thy love;
Beneath the droppings of thy blood,
Jefus, nor shall it e'er remove.

- 2 Not all which tyrants think or fay, With rage and light 'ning in their eyes— | Nor hell should fright my soul away, Should hell with all its legions rise.
- 3 Should worlds confpire to drive me hence, Moveless and firm, this heart should lie; Resolv'd, (for that's my last desence) If I must perish—here to die.
- 4 But foeak my Lord, and calm my fears, Am I not fafe beneath thy fhade? Thy vengeance will not strike me here, Nor fatan date my foul invade.
- 5 Yes—I'm fecure beneath Thy blood, And all my foes shall iose their aim: Hosanna to my dying God! And my best honors to His name.

V. Longing to praise Christ letter.

ORD, when my thoughts with wonder roll
O'ar the sharp sorrows of thy soul,
And read my Maker's broken laws,
Repair'd and honor'd by the cross:

2 When I behold death, hell, and fin, Vanquish'd by that dear blood of thine, And see the Man who groan'd and dy'd, Sit glorious by his Father's side—

K k 2

- 3 My passions rise, and foar above— I'm wing'd with faith, and fir'd with leve; Fain would I reach eternal things, And learn the notes which Gabriel sings.
- A But my heart fails, my tongue complains. For want of their immortal firains:
 And, in such humble notes as these,
 Falls far below thy victories.
- 5 Weil the kind minute must appear, When we shall leave these bodies here; These closs of clay—and mount on high, To join the songs above the sky.

VI. A Morning Song.

ONCE more, my foul, the rifing day
Sautes thy waking eyes;
Once more, my voice, thy tribute pay
To Him who rolls the skies.

- 2 Night unto night His name repeats; The day renews the found, Wide as the heav'n, on which he fits To turn the feafons round.
- 3 'Tis he supports my mortal frame, My tongue shall speak his praise: My sins would rouze his wrath to slame— And yet bis surath del ys!
- [4 On a poor worm thy pow'r might tread, And I could ne'er withfrand; Thy justice might have crush'd me dead, But mercy held thine hand.
- 5 A thousand wretched fouls are fled Since the last fetting fun. And yet thou length nest out my thread, And yet my moments run!
- While I enjoy the light;

t å

Then shall my sun in smiles decline, And bring a pleasant night.

VII. An Evening Song.

READ Sov'reign. let my ev'ring fong, Like toly incense rise; Assist the offrings of my tongue To reach the lefty skies.

2 Through all the dangers of the day Thy hand was faill my guard; And fail, to drive my wants away, Thy mercy flood prepar'd.

3 Perpet'al bleffings from above Encompais me around, But O, how few returns of lote Hath my Creator found!

4 What have I done for him who dy'd
To fave my wretched foul?
How are my follies mu'tip y'd,
Faft as my minutes roll!

J Lord with this guilty heart of mine,
To thy dear cross lince;
And to hy grach my four refign,
To be renewed by Thee.

6 Sprinkled afterh with pard'ning blood.
1'd lay me down to reft:
As in th' imbraces of my God,
Or on my Saviour's breaft.

VIII. A Hymn for Morning or Evening?

OSANN as with a cheer ul found, Fo God's upholding hand: Ten thousand snares attend us round, And yet secure we stand!

a That was a most amazing pow'r, Which rais'd us with a word;

And ev'ry day, and ev'ry hour, We lean upon the Lord.

3 The ev'ning rests our weary head. And angels guard the room; We wake-and we admire the bed Which was not made our tomb.

4 The rifing morning can't affore That we shall end the day ! For death flands ready at the door

To fnatch our lives away.

5 Our breath is forfeited by fin To God's revenging law: We own thy grace, immortal King, In ev'ry gaip we draw.

6 God is our Sun, whose daily light Our joy and fafety brings; Our feeble flesh lies fafe at night Beneath his shady wings.

IX. Godly Sorrow arifing from Christ's Sufferings.

LAS! and did my Saviour bleed? And did my Sov'reign die ? Would he devote that facred Head For fuch a worm as I?

12 Thy Body flain, fweet Jefns, Thine-And bath'd in its own blood-While, all expos'd to wrath divine. The glor'ous Suff'rer stood !]

3 Was it for crimes which I had done He groan'd upon the tree? Amazing pity! grace unknown And love, beyond degree !

Well might the Sun indarkness hide, And thut his glories in, When God, the mighty Maker, dy'd For man, the creature's fin.

5 Thus, might I hide my blushing face While his dear cross appears, Difforce my heart in thankininese, And meet my eyes in tears.

6 But diops of grief can ne'er repay The debt of Love I owe; Here, Lord, I give myfeif away, 'Tis all that I can do.

X. Parting with Carnal Joys.

MY foul forfakes her vain delight,
And bids the world farewell;
Base as the dirt beneath my feet,
And mitchievous as hell.

- 2 No longer will Lask your love, Nor feek your friendship more; The happiness which I approve, Lies not within your pow'r.
- There's nothing round this spacious farth,
 Which suits my large defire;
 To boundless joy, and solid mirth,
 My nober thoughts aspire.
- [4 Where pleafure rolls its living flood, From fin and drofs refin'd, Still fpringing from the throne of God, And fit to cheer the mind.
- 5 Th' Almighty Ruler of the sphere. The Glorious and the Great. Brings his own all-sufficience there, To make our bills compleat.]
- 1'd climb the heav'nly road:
 There fits my Savicur dreft in love—
 And there—my miling God.

 False as the smooth deceitful sea, And empty as the whist'ling wind.

2 Your streams were floating me along Down to the gulph of black despair; And, while I listen'd to your song, Your streams had e'en convey'd me there.

3 Lord I adore thy match'efs grace, Which warn'd me of that dark abys; Which drew me from those treach'rous seas, And bade me seek superior bliss.

4 Now, to the shining realms above I stretch mine hands, and glance mine eyes; O for the pintons of a dove.

To bear me to the upper skies;

5 There, from the bosom of my God, Oceans of enoless pleasures roll; There would I fix my last abode, And drown the forrows of my foul.

XII. Christ is the fubstance of the Levitical Preisthood.

THE true Meffiah now appears; The types are all withdrawn: So fly the fhadows and the stars Before the rising dawn.

2 No fmoaking fweets, no bleeding lambs, Nor kid nor bullocks flain:
I seense and spice, of costly names,
Would all be burnt in vain.

3 Aaron must lay his robes away, flis mitre and his vest. When God himself comes down to be The off'ring and the priest.

A He took our mortal flesh, to show The wonders of his love; For us he paid his life below, And prays for us above. 5 Father, he cries, forgive their fins, For I, my elf have dy'd; And then he shews his open'd veins, And pleads his wounded side.

XIII. The creation, preservation Distolation, and Reforation of this World.

SING to the Lord, who built the skies,
The Lord, who rear'd this stately frame;
Let all the nations found his praise,
And lands, unknown, repeat his name,

2 He form'd the seas and fram'd the hills, Made ev'ry drop, and ev'ry dust— Nature and time, with all their wheels, And push'd them into motion first.

3 Now from his high imper'al throne, He looks far down upon the spheres? He bids the shining orbs roll on, And round he turns the hasty years.

4 Thus shall this moving engine last 1 'Till all his saints are gather'd in; Then for the trumpet's dreadful blast To shake it all to dust again!

5 Yet when the found shall tear the skies, And light'nings burn the globe below— Saints you may lift your joyful eyes. There's a new heav'n and earth for you.

XIV. Lord's Day; or, Delight in Ordinances.

WELCOME, sweet day of rest, Which saw the Lord arise; Welcome, to this reviving breast, And these rejoicing eyes!

And featts his faints to-day

Here we may fit, and fee him here, And love, and praise and pray.

3 O'se day amidft the place
Where my dear Go! has been,
Is fweeter than ten thouland days
Of pleafurable fin.

4 My willing foul would flay in fuch a frame as this; And fit, and fing herfelf away To everlafting blifs.

XV. The enjoyment of Christ.

R from my thoughts, vain world be gone;
Let my religious hours alone;
Fain would my eyes my Saviour fee—
1 wait a vifit, Lord, from thee!

2 My heart grows warm with holy fire, And kindles, with intenfe defire; Come, my dear Jefus, from above, And feed my foul with heavinly love.

13 The trees of life immortal fland In booming rows, at thy right hand; And, in fweet murmurs, by their fide, Rivers of bifs perpet'al glide:

A Haste them, but with a smiling face, And spread the table of thy grace:
Bring down a taste of truth divine,
And cheer my heart with sacred wins.

5 Blefs'd Je'us, what delicious fare, How fweet thy entertainments are! Never did angels tafte above, Redeeming grace, and dying love.

6 Hail, great Immanuel, all divine! In thee thy Father's glories thine: Thou brighteft, fweeteft, faireft One, Whom eyes have feen, or angels knowne

XWI. Part the second.

ORD, what a heav'n of faving grace Shines through the beautics of thy face, And lights our passions to a slame; Lord, how we love thy charming name!

- 2 When I can fay—My God is mine; When I can feel thy giories shine, I tread the world beneath my feet, And all the earth call 8 good or great.
- 3 While fuch a feene of facred joys Our raptur'd eyes and fouls employs, Here we could fit, and gaze away, A ong, an evertafting day.
- 4 Well—we shall quickly pass the night To the fair coast of perf et light; Then shall our joyful senses rove O'er the dear object of our love.
- [5] There shall we drink full draughts of bliss, And pluck new life from heav'nly trees! Yet now and then, dear Lord bestow. A drop of heav'n on worms below.
- 6 Send comforts down from thy right hand While we pass through this barren and; And, in thy tempie, let us see A glimpse of love, a glimpse of Thee.]

XVU. God's Eternity.

R ISE, rife, my foul and leave the ground, Stretch all thy thoughts abroad! And roufe up ev'ry tuneful found To praife th'eternal God.

2 Long, e'er the lofty skies were spread, Jehovah fil'd his throne:
E'er Adam form', or angels made,
The Maker liv'd alone, 3 His boundless years can ne'er decrease, But still maintain their prime; ETERNITY's his dwelling place — And EVER is his time.

4 While, like a tide, our minutes flows
The prefent and the past:
He fills his own immortal NOW.

And fees our ages wafte.

5 The fea and fky must perish too, And vast destruction come; The creatures look how old they grow, And wait their fiery doom!

6 Well—let the fea fhrink all away, And flame melt down the fkies; My God fhall live an endicfs day, When th' old creation dies.

XVIII. The Ministry of Angels.

TICH on a hill of dazzling light. The King of glory (preads his feat; And troops of angels, fireach'd for flight, Stand waiting at his awful feet."

2 " Go, faith the Lord, my Gabriel, go-

" Make hafte, ye cherubs, down below,

"Sing and proclaim—the Saviour come."

3 Herea bright fquadron leaves the fkies, And thick around Elifta ftands; Anon, a heav'nly foldier flies, And breaks the chains from Peter's hands.

4 Thy winged troops, O God of hofts, Wait on thy wand'ring church below; Here, we are failing to thy coafts, Let angels be our convoy too.

5 Are they, not all thy fervants, Lord? Atthy command they go and come 3.

With cheerful hafte obey thy word, And guardthy children to their home.

XIX Our frail Bodies, and God our Preserver.

E Γ others boast how strong they be, Nor death, nor danger fear; But we ll contest, O Lord, to thee, What feeble things we are.

2 Fresh as the grass, our bodies stand—And slourish bright and gay:

And fades the grass away.

3 Our life contains a thousand springs, And dies, if one be gone: Strange! that a harp, of thousand strings, Should keep in tune so long.

4 But 'tis our Go! fupports our frame— The God who built us first; Salvation to th' Almighty name

That rear'd us from the dust.

5 He spake—and traight our hearts and brains, In all their motions rose:

Let blood, faid he, flow round the veins, And round the veins it flows.

6 While we have breath, or use our tongues, Our Maker we'll a 'ore; His Spirit moves our heaving lungs, Or they would breathe no more.

Why is my heart fo far from Thee,
My God, my chief delight?
Why are my thoughts no more by day
With thee, no more by night?

[2 Why should my foolish passions rove?] Where can such sweetness be,

As I have tafted in thy love, As I have found in thee?

3 When my forgetful foul renews
The favor of thy grace,
My heart prefumes I cannot lofe
The relith, all my days.

4 But e'er one fleeting hour is past, The flatt'ring world employs Some fensual bait, to seize my taste,

Some fensual bait, to seize my taf And to pollut e my joys.

With fair deceitful charms,
Intrude into my thoughtless heart,
And thrust thee from my arms.

6 Then I repent, and vex my foul
That I should lose thee so;
Where will those wild affections roll
Which let a Saviour go?

[7 Sin's promis'd joys are turn'd to pain, And I am drown'd in grief; But my dear Lord returns again; He ffles to my relief!

2 Seizing my foul with fweet furprize, He draws with loving bands; Divine compaffion's in his eyes, And pardon's in his hands.]

[9 Wretch that I am, to wander thus, In chase of fasse delight! Let me be fasten'd to thy cross, Rather than lose thy sight.

To Make haste, my days, to reach the goal,
And bring my heart to rest
On the dear centre of my soal,
My God, my Saviour's breast!

XXI. A Song of Praise to God the Redsemer.

ET the oil heathen tune their long Of great Diana, and of Jove; But the fweet theme which moves my tongue, is my Redeemer and his love.

2 Behold a God defeends and dies, To fave my foul from gapinghell! How the black guph, when fatan fies, Yawn'd to receive me, when I fell!

3 How justice frown'd, and Vengeauce frood, in To drive me down to endless pain; But the great son propos'd his blood, And heavinly wrath grew mild again.

4 Infinite Lover! gracious Lord!
To Thee be endless honors giv'n:
Thy wond'rous Name shall be ador'd,
Round the wide earth, and wider Leav'n.

XXII. With Gol is terrible Majefly.

TERRIBLE God, who reign'st on high, How a wful is thy thund'ring hand! Thy flery boits, how fierce they fly! Nor can all earth, or hell with sand.

2 This the old rebel-angels knew, And fatan fell beneath thy frown, Thine arrows fruck the traitor through, And weighty vengeance funk him down.

3This Sodom felt—and feels it flill— And roars beneath th' eternal load: With endless burning, who can dwell, Or bear the fury of a God?

A Tremble, ye finners, and fubmit: Throw down your arms before his throne Bend your hears low beneath his feet, Or his ftrong hand shall crush you down: 5 And ye, blefs'd faints, who love him too, With rev'rence bow before his name: Thus all his heav'nly fervants do: God is a bright and burning flame.

XXIII. The Sight of God and Chrift, in Heaven.

DESCEND from heav'n immortal Dove, Stoop down, and take us on thy wings; And mount, and bear us far above The reach of these inferior things:

2 Beyond, beyond this lower sky, Up, where eternal ages roll; Where solid pleasures never die, And fruits immortal feast the soul.

3 O for a fight, a pleafing fight, Of our Almighty Father's throne! 'There fits our Saviour, crown'd with light, Cloath'd in a body, like our own.

A Adoring faints around him stand, And thrones and powr's before him fall; The God shines gracious through the man, And sheds sweet glories on them all!

O what amazing joys they feel, While, to their golden harps, they fing; And fit on ev'ry heav'nly hill, And fpread the triumphs of their King!

6 When shall the day, dear Lord, appear— That I shall mount to dwell above! And stand, and bow before them there. And view thy face, and sing, and love?

XXIV. The Evil of Sin vifible, in the fall of Angels and Men.

WHEN the Great Builder arch'd the skies,
And form'd all nature, with a word;
The joyful cherubs tun'd his praise,
And ev'ry bending throne ador'd,

2 High, in the midst of all the throng. Satan, a tall arch-angel sat;
*Among the morning stars he sung,
'Till sin destroy'd his heav'nly sate.

[3 'Twas fin that huri'd him from his throne, Grov'ing in fire, the rebel lies; ‡How art thou funk in darknifs down, Son of the morning, from the faies!

A And thus our two first parents stood, 'Till sin defin'd the happy place;
They lost their garden and their God,
And ruin'd all their unborn race.]

[5 So fprang the plague from Adam's bow'r, And fpread destruction all abroad: Sin, the curs'd name, which in one hour, Spoil'd fix days labor of a God.

6 Trembie my foul, and mourn for grief, That fuch a fee should sieze thy break; Fly to thy Lord for quick relief; Oh! may he slay this treach rous guest.

7 Then to thy throne. victor'ous King, Then to thy throne our shouts shall rise; Thine everlassing arm we'll sing, For sin, the monster, bleeds and dies. *Job xxxviii, 7. ‡La. xiv. 12.

XXV. Camplaining of Spiritual Sloth.

Y drowfy pow'rs, why fleep ye so?
A wake my fluggish sou!!
Nothing has half thy work to do;
Yet nothing's haif so dull!

- 2 The little ants, for one poor grain,
 Labor, and tug, and five;
 Yet we who have a heav'n t' obtain,
 Hiw neg igent we live!
- 3 We for whose sake all nature stands, And stars their courses move;

We, for whole guard, the angel bands Come flying from above.

4 We for whom God the Son came down,
And labor'd for our good;
How careless to secure that crown
He purchas'd with his blood!

5 Lord, shall we live so sluggish still, And never act our parts? Come, holy dove, from th' heav'nly hill, And sit and warm our hearts!

6 Then shall our active spirits move; Upward our souls shall rise; With hands of faith and wings of love, We'll sly and take the prize.

XXVI. God invifible.

ORD, we are blind, poor mortals, blind,
We can't behold thy bright abode;
O! 'tis beyond a creature-mind
To glance a thought half way to God.

2 Infinite leagues beyond the fky, The great ETERNAL reigns alone; Where neither wings nor fouls can fly, Nor angels climb the toplefs throne.

3 The Lord of glory builds his feat Of gems, infufferably bright; And lays beneath his facred feet Substantial beams of gloomy night.

4 Yet, glor'ous Lord thy gracious eyes Look through and chear us from above; Beyond our praise thy grandeur flies, Yet we adore, and yet we love.

XXVII. Praije ye Him. all His Angels, Pfalm cxlviii. 2.

GOD! the Eternal awful name, That the whole heav'nly army fears, Which shakes the wide creation's frame, And satan trembles when he hears.

- z Like flames of fire his fervants are, And light furrounds his dwelling-place; But O, ye fiery flames declare The brighter giories of his face.
- 3 'Tis not for such poor worms as we, To speak so infinite a thing; But your immortal eyes survey The beauties of your Sov'reign King.
- 4 Tell how he shews his smiling face, And clothes all heav'n in bright array; Triumph and joy run through the place; And songs eternal as the day.
- 5 Speak—(for you feel his burning love)
 What zeal it fpreads through all your frame!
 That facred fire dweils all above,
 For we, on earth, have loft the name.
 [6 Sing of his pow'r and justice too;
 That infinite right hand of his,
- That infinite right hand of his, Which vanquish'd satan and his crew, When thunder drove them down from bliss.]
- 7 What mighty florms of poison'd darts Were hurl'd upon the rebels there! What deadly jav'lins nail'd their hearts Fail to the rocks of long despair!
- 8 Shout to your King, ye heav'nly host : You who beheld the finking foe; Firmly ye stood when they were lost; Praise the rich grace that kept you to.
- 9 Proclaim his wonders from the skies; Let ev'ry distant nation hear: And, while you found his lofty praise, Let humble mortals bow and sear.

XXVIII. Death and Eternity.

STOOP down, my thoughts, which use to rise;
Converse awhile with death;
Think how a gasping mortal lies,
And pants away his breath.

a His quiv'ring lip hangs feeble down, His pulies faint and few: Then, fpeechlefs, with a doleful groan, He bids the world adieu.

3 But oh! the foul, which never dies! At once it leaves the clay! Ye thoughts, purfue it where it flies, And track its wond'rous way!

4 Up to the courts where angelsdwell, It mounts triumphing there:
Or devils plunge it down to hell,
In infinite defpair.

5 And must my body faint and die? And must this foul remove? Oh, for some guardian-angel nigh, To bear it safe above!

6 Jelus, to thy dear faithful hand, My naked foul I truft; And my flesh waits for thy command, To drop into my duft.

XXIX. Redemption by Price and Power.

J ESUS, with all thy faints above,
My tongue would bear her part;
Would found aloud thy faving love,
And fing thy bleeding heart.

Blefs'd be the Lamb, my deareft Lord, Who bought me with his blood, And quench'd his Father's flaming fword, In his own vital blood. The Lamb that freed my captive foul From fatan's heavy chains,
And fent the lion down to how!;
Where hell and horror reigns.

4 All glory to the dying Lamb, And never-ceasing praise, While angels live to know his name, Or faints to feel his grace.

XXX. Heavenly foy on Earth.

COME, we who love the Lord, And let our joys be known; Join in a fong with fweet accord, And thus furround the throne.

2 Let forrows of the mind, Be banish'd from the place; Religion never was defign'd To make our pleasures less.

3 Let those refuse to sing
Who never knew our God;
But fav'rites of the heav'niy king
Should speak their joys abroad.

4 The God who rules on high, And thunders when he please, Who rides upon the stormy sky, And manages the seas.

5 This awful God is ours, Our father and our love: He will fend down his heav'nly pow're To carry us above.

6 There we shall see his face, And never, never sin; There, from the rivers of his grace, Drink endless pleasures in, 7 Yes and before we rife
To that immortal state,
The thoughts of such amazing bliss
Should constant joys create.

8 [The men of grave have found Glory begun, below; Celeftial fruits, on earthly ground, From faith and hope, may grow.]

9 The hill of Zion yields A thousand sacred sweets, Before we reach the heavinly fields; Or walk the golden streets.

To Then let our fongs abound,
And ev'ry tear be dry;
We're marching through Immanuel's ground,
To fairer worlds on high.

XXXI. Christ's Presence makes Death ealy.

WHY should we start, and fear to die?
What tim'rous worms we mortals are!
Death is the gate of endless joy,
And yet we dread to enter there.

2 The pains, the groans, and dying firife, Fright our approaching fouls away; Still we fhrink back again to life, Fond of our prifon, and our clay.

3 Oh! if my Lord would come and meet, My feet thou d firetch her wings in halle, Fly feariefs, through death's iron gate, Nor feel the terrors as the pass'd.

A Jefus can make a dying bed Feet foft as downy pillows are, White on his breaft I lean my head, And breathe my life out weetly there.

SPIRITUAL SONGS.

XXXII. Frailty and Folly.

How vaftour four's affairs !

Yet feulefs mortals vainly firite

To twith out their years.

2 Our days run thoughtlefsiy along, Without a moment's ftay, Just like a story or a fong, We pass our lives away.

3 God, from on high, invites us home, But we march heedlefs on; And, ever halt'ning to the tomb, Stoop downwards as we run.

4 How we deferve the deepest hell,
Who taste the joys above!
What chains of vengeance should we feel
Who break such cords of love!

Draw us, O God, with fov'reign grace,
And life our thoughts on high,
That we may end this mortal race,
And fee favation nigh.

XXXIII. The Bleffed Society in Heaven.

R AISE thee, my foul, fly up, and run Through ev ry heav'ney ftreet, and fay—there's nought below the fun, That's worthy of thy feet.

12 Thus will are mount on facred wings, And tread the courts above; Nor earth, nor all her might eff things, Shall tempt our meanest love.]

3 There, on a high majestic throne, Th' Almighty Father reigns, and sheds his glorious goodness down On all the blissful plains.

M m

- 4 Bright, like a Sun, the Saviour fits, and speads eterial noon;
 No ev'sings there, nor gloomy nights. To want the feeb'e moon.
- Amidst those ever-shining skies
 Behold the Sacred Dove!
 White banish'd fin, and forrow flies
 From all the reatms of love.
- 6 The giorious tenants of the place
 Stand bending round the throne;
 And faints and ferands, fing and praife
 The infibite THREE-ONE.
- 7 But O, what beams of heav'nly grace, Transport them all the while! Ten thousand finiles from Jesus' face, And love in ev'ry smile!
- 3 Jefus and when shall that dear day, That joy ut hour appear, When shall I leave this house of clay, To dwell among them there?

XXXIV. Breathing ofter the Holy Spirit.

OME. Holy Spirit, heav'nly Dove, With all thy quick'ning pow'rs, Kndle a flame of facred love In these cold hearts of ours.

- a Look, how we grovel here, below, Fond of thefe trifling toys; Our fouls can neither fly nor go, To reach eternal joys.
- 3. In vain we tune our formal fongain vain we firive to rife; Hofannas languish on our tengues, And our devotion dies.
 - 4 Dear Lord! and shall we ever live At this poor dying rate?

Our love fo faint, to cold to tace,
And thine to us to great?

5 Come, Holy apart, heaving Dove. With all thy quicking powers; Come, thed alroad a Saviour's love, And that that kindle ours.

XXXV. Praise to God for creation & redemption.

If them neglect thy glory, Lord,
Who never knew thy grace;
But our loud fong shall fish record
The wonders of thy praise.

We raise our shouts, O God, to Thee, And fend them to thy throne: All geory to th' UNITED THREE, The undivided ONE.

3 'Twas He, (and we'll adore his name)
Who form'd us by a word;
'Tis Herekor'd our ruin'd frame:
Salvation to the Lord!

4 Hofanna! let the earth and fries Repeat the joyful found:
Rocks, hills, and vales, reflect the voice in one eternal round.

XXXVI. Christ's Intercession.

WELL, the Redeemer's gone T' appear before a God, To fprinkle o'er the flaming throne With his attoning blood.

2 No fiery vengance now: No burning wrath comes down: If justice calls for finners blood. The Saviour thews his own.

3 Before his Father's eye Our humble fuit he moves; The Father lays his thunder by, And looks, and fmiles, and loves,

4 Now may our joyful tongues Our Maker's honour fing; Jefus the Pricit, receives our longs And bears them to the King.

5 We bow before his face, And found his giories high; 66 Hosanna to the God of Grace •• Who lays his thunder by.

6" On earth thy mercy reigns,
"And triumpha all above;

" But Lord, how weak our mortal firains,
" To fpeak immortal love!

7 " How jarring and how low
" Are all the notes we fing!
" Sweet Saviour, tune our fongs anew,
"And they shall please the King,"

XXXVII. The fame.

IFT up your eyes to th' heav'nly feats,
Where your Redeemer stays:
Kind intercesser, there he sits,
And loves, and pleads, and prays,

a'Twas well my foul, he dy'd for thee.
And fhed his vital blood:
Appeas'd ftern inflice on the tree,
And then arose to God.

3 Petitions now and praise may rise, And saints their off'rings bring; The Priest, with his own sacrifice, Presents them to the King.

4 Let others trust what names they please Their faints and angels boast: We've no such advocates as these, Nor pay to th' heaviny hosts. Jefus, alone, thail bear my cries
Up to his Father's throne;
He (dearest Lord) persumes my fighs,
And sweetens cy'ry groan.

6 Ten thouland praifes to the King; Hofanna in the high'st; Ten thousand thanks out spirits bring To God, and to his Christ.

XXXVIII. I ove to God.

TAPPY the heart where graces reign,
Where love into res the break;
Love is the brightest of the train,
And strengthens all the rest.

2 Knowledge, alas! 'tisalf in vain, And all in vain our fear; Our flubborn fins will fight and reign, If love be abient there.

3 "Tis love which makes our cheerful feet In fwift obed ence move; The devils know—and tremble too; But Satan caunot love.

4 This is the grace which lives and fings, When taith and hope shall cease; "Tis this shall strike our joyful strings, In the sweet realms of bliss.

5 Before we quite for ake our clay, Or leave this dark abode, Let wings of love bear us away To see our smiling God.

XXXIX. The Shortness and Milery of Life.

OUR days alas! our mertal days, Are short and wretched too! Evil and few, the Patriarch fays, And well the patriarch knew, M m 2 which heav'n allows to men!

And pains, and fins run through the round
Of threefcore years and ten.

3 Well—if ye must be fad and few, Run on my days in haste; Moments of sin, and months of wee,

Ye cannot hy too fast.

4 Let heav'nly love prepare my foul, And call her to the ficies, Where years of long falvation roll, And glory never dies.

XL. Our Comfort in the Covenant made with Christ.

OUR God, how firm his promise stands, Ev'n when he hides his sace! He trusts in our Redeemer's hands His glory, and his grace.

a Then why, my foul, these sad complaints, Since Christ and we are one? Thy God is faithful to his faints,

Is faithful to his Son.

3 Beneath his smiles my heart has liv'd, And part of heav'n posses'd; I praise his name for grace receiv'd, And trust him for the rest.

XLI. A fight of God mortifies us to the World.

De to the fields, where angels lie, And living waters gently roll, Fain would my thoughts leap out, and fly, But fin hangs heavy on my foul.

2 Thy wond rous blood, dear dying Christ, Can make this world of guilt remove; And thou can fe bear me where thou fly it, On thy kind wings, celedial Dove! 3 O might I once mount up and fee The glories of th' eternal fkies; What little things these worlds would be! How despicable to my eyes.

4 Had I a glance of Thee, my God, Kingdoms and men would vanish soon; Vanish, as though I saw them not, As a dim candle dies at noon.

5 Then they might figh, and rage, and rage, I should perceive the noise no more. Than we can hear a shaking leaf.
While ratt'sing thunders round us roat.

6 Great All in All, Eternal King, Let me but view thy lovely face; And all my pow'rs shall bow, and sing Thine endless grandeur, and thy grace.

XLII. Delight in God.

MY God, what endless pleasures dwell Above, at thy right hand! Thy courts below, how amiable, Where all thy graces stand!

2 The swallow near thy temple lies, And chirps a chearful note:
The lark mounts up toward thy skies, And tunes her warbling throat:

3 And we, when in thy prefence, Lord, Do shout with joyful tongues; Or sitting round our Father's board, We crown the feast with songs.

4 While Jesus shines with quick'ning grace, We sing, and mount on high; But, if a frown becloud his face, We faint, and tire, and die.

5 Just as we see the lonesome dove Bemoan her widow'd state, Wand ring, the flies through all the grove,
And mourns her loving mate;
[6] Jult fo, our thoughts, from thing to thing,
In reflies circles rove;
Jult fo, we droop, and hang the wing,
When Jeffishness his love.]

XLIII Chrift's Sufferings and Giory.

NOW for a time of lofty peafe To great lebeveh's equal Son! As ake, my voice in heavily leys. Tell long the wonders he hath done.

2 Sing how he left the worlds of light, I not the bright robes he wore above; How fwift and joyful was ins flight, On wings of everlatting love!

3 Down to this bafe, this finful earth, He came to raffe our nature high; He came to alone Armighty wrath—Jefus, the God, was born to die.

14. Hell, and its sions, roar'd around :
His precious blood the mouters fpit;
White weighty forrows prefs'd him down,
Large as the loa's of all our guitth.

5 Deep in the fhades of gloomy death, 'Th' Aimi hav captive pris nor lay; Th' Aimichty captive en the earth, 20 And role to everlating day.

6 Lift up your eyes, ye fins of light, Up to his throng of thining grace; See what immortal glories fit Round the fweet beautics of his face!

2 Among a thousand harps and fongs, Jefus, the God, existed reigns; His face d name fills all their tongues, And echoes through the heaving plains!

XLIV, Hell; or, the Vengeance of God.

WiTH holy fear, and humble fong, The dreadful God our fouls adore; Revirence and awe become the tongue Which speaks the terrors of his pow'r.

a Far, in the deep, where darkness dwells, The land of horror and despair, Justice has built a dismal hell, And laid her stores of vengeance there.

3 Eternal plagues, and heavy chains, Tormenting racks, and fiery coals, And darts, t' inflict immortal pains, Dy'd in the blood of damned fouls.

4 There satan, the first sinner, lies, And roars, and bites his iron bands; In vain the rebel, strives to rise, Crush'd with the weight of both thy hands.

5 There guilty ghofts, of Adam's race, Shriek out, and howl, beneath thy rod: Once they could feorn a Saviour's grace, And fo incens'd a dreadful God.

6 Tremble my oul, and kiss the Son—Sinner obey thy Saviour's call; Else your damnation hastens on And hell gapes wide to wait your fall.

XLV God's Condescension to our Worship,

THY favors, Lord, furprise our souls;
Will the Eternal dwell with us?
What canst thou find beneath the poses,
To tempt thy chariot downward thus?
Still might he fill his starry throne,
And please his ears with Gabriet's songs;
But th' heav'nly majesty comes down,
And bows, to hearken to our tongues!

3 Great Gos! what poor returns we pay For love to infinite as thine! Words are out air, and tongues but clay, But thy compation's all divine.

XLVI. God's condescension to Human affairs.

TP to the Lord who feigns on high, And views the nations from afar. Let evertailing praifes fly. And tell how large t is bounties are. 2 He who can fliake the worlds he made, Or with his word, or with his rod : His goodness how amazing great! And what a condefeending God! 2 God, who must stoop to view the skies, And bow to fee what angels do, Down to our earth he casts his eyes,

And bends his footfleps downward too.]

4 He overrules all mortal things, And manages our mean affairs: On humble fouls the King of Kings Bestows his counsels, and his cares.

& Our forrows, and cur fears we pour Into the bosom of our God: He hears us in the mountu! hour, And helps to bear the heavy load.

6 In vain might lofty princes try Such condescention to perform: For worms were never rais'd fo high, Above their meanest fellow-worm.

7 Oh! could our Hankful heart devile A tribute count to thy grace, To the third heav'n our fongs faculd rife, And teach the golden harps thy praise.

XLVII. Glory and Grice in the person of Christ.

NOW to the Lord a noble fong; Awake, my four; awake my tongue; Hofanna to th' Eternal Name! And all his bound lefs love proc'aim.

2 See, where it shines in Jesus' face, The brightest image of his grace; God, in the person of his Son, Has all his might'est works out-done.

3 The spacious earth, and spreading flood, Proclaim the wire and powerful God; And thy rich gioties from afar, Sparkle In every rolling flar.

4 But, in his looks, a glory famis, The nebleft labour of thine hands; The pleating luftre of his eyes Outthines the wonders of the fkies.

5 Grace! 'tis a freet, a chaming theme; My thoughts rejoice at Jeius' rame; Ye angels, dwed upon the found; Ye heav'us, reflect it to the ground.

6 Oh, may I live to reach the place Where he unvens his love'y face—Where all his beauties you behold. And fing his name to harps of gold!

XLVIII. Love to the Creatures is dangerous,

How falle, and yet how fair!
Each pleafure nath its poifon too,
And ev'ty fweet—a fnare.

2 The brightest things below the sky Give but a flatt'ring light; We should suspect some danger nigh, Where we posses desight. 3 Our dearest joys, and nearest friends, The partners of our blood, How they divide our way ring minds, And leave but haif for God!

4 The fondness of a creature's love, How ftrong it ftrikes the fense! Thither the warm affections move, Nor can we call them thence.

5 Dear Saviour, let thy beauties be My foul's eternal food;
And grace command my heart away
From all created good.

XLIX. Moses dying in the Embraces of God.

DEATH cannot make our fouls afraid,
If God be with us there;
We may wak through the darkest shade,
And never yield to fear.

2 I could renounce my Allbelow, If my Creator bid; And run, if I were cau'd to ge, And die, as Mofes did.

Might I but climb to Pifgah's top, and view the promis'd land, My flesh itself should long to drop, And pray for the command.

4 Clasp'd in my heav'nly Fathet's arms, I would forget my breath; And lose my life among the charms Of so divine a death.

L. Comforts under Sorrozus and Pains.

N OW let the Lord, my Saviour, finile, And fliew my name upon his heart; I would forget my pains a while. And in the pleasure, lose the smart.

2 But Oh!! it fwells my forrows high. To fee my bleffed Jefus frown; My fpirits fink my comforts die, and all the fprings of life are down.

3 Yet, Why? My foul, why these complaints? Still, while he frowns his bowers move; Still, on his heart, he bears his faints, And feels his forrows, and his love.

4 My name is printed on his breaft; His book of life contains my name: I'd rather have it there impress'd, Than in the bright records of fame.

5 When the last fire burns all thingshers, Those letters shall securely stand; And in the Lamb's fair book appear, Writ by th' eternal Father's hand.

6 Now let my minutes f.moothly run, Whilft here I wait my Father's will; My rifing and my fetting fun, Roll gently up and down the hill.

Il. God the Son equal with the Father.

BRIGHT King of glory, dreadful God!
Our fpirits bow before thy feat:
To thee we lift a humble thought,
And worship at thine awful feet.

[2 Thy pow'r hath form'd thy wisdom sways All nature with a fov'reign word; And the bright world of stars obeys The will of their superior Lord.

3 Mercy and truth unite in one.
And. fmiling fit at thy right hand:
Eternal justice guards thy throne,
And vengeance waits thy dread command.

4 A thousand feraphs, strong and bright, Stand round the glorious Deity;

N n

But, who, amongst the fons of light, Pretends comparison with Thee?

- 5 Yet there is one of human frame, Jefus away'd in flesh and blood, Thinks it no robbery to claim A full equality with God.
- 6 Their glory thines with equal beams; Their effence is forever one: Though they are known by different names, The Father God, and God the Son.
- 7 Then let the name of Christ our King, Wi he qual honors be ador'd; His praise let ev'ry angel fing—And all the nations own the Lord.

LII. Death, dreadful or delightful.

To those who have no God.
When the poor foul is forc'd away
To feek her last abode.

- 2 In vain to heav'n she lifts her eyes; For guilt, a heavy chain. Still drags her downward from the skies To darkness, fire, and pain.
- 3 Awake, and mourn ye heirs of hell Let stubborn finners fear; You must be driv'n from earth, and dwell A long FOREVER there.
- 4 See how the pit gapes wide for you. And flashes in your face: And thou, my fool, look downwards too, And fing recoving grace.
- 5 He is a God of fov'reign love, Who promis'd heav'n to me, And taught my thoughts to foar above, Where happy fpirits be.

6 Prepare me. Lord, forthy right-hand, Then come the joyful day; Come, death, and tome celedial band, To bear my foul away.

L!H. Soints Pilgrimage or Earth and Heaven.

ORD, what a wretched land is this,
Which yields us no import.
No cheering fruits, no wholetome treet,
No fireams of Living joy!

2 But pricking thorns, through all the ground.

And mortal poisons grow;

And all the rivers which are found, With dang rous waters flow.

3 Yet the dear path to thine abode. Lies through this horrid land;

Lord we would keep the heav'nly road,

And run at thy command.

4 Our fouls shall tread the defart through With undiverted feet:

And faith, and flaming zeal fubdue The terrors which we meet.

5 A thousand favage beafts of prey Around the forest roam: But Julah's Lion guards the way,

And guides the ftrangers home.

6 Long nights and darkness dwell below

With fearce a twinkling ray:
But the bright world, to which we go,
Is everlafting day.

Is everlasting day.

7 By glim'ring hopes and gloomy fears, We true the facted road; Through difinal deeps, and dang'rous inares, We make our way to God.

8 Our journey is a thorny maze, But we march upward flid; Forget these troubles of the way, And reach at Zion's hill.

9 See the kind angels, at the gates, Inviting us to come! There Jeffer, the Forerunner, waits

To welcome trav'lers home!

To Ulicre, on a green and flow'ry mount,

Our weary fouls shall fit

And, with transporting joys, recount
The labors of our feet.

No vain discourse shall fill our tongue, Nortrisses vex our ear; Infinite grace shall fill our song, And God delight to hear.

12 Eternal glories to the King
Who brought us fafely through;
Our tongues shall never cease to fing,
And endless praise renew.

LIV. God's pre ence is Light, in darknefs.

MY God, the Spring of all my joys,
The life of my delights,
The glory of my brightest days,
And comfort of my nights!

2 In darkaft fluides, if he appear,
 My dawning is begun!
 He is my four's fiveet Morning Star,
 And he—my rifing Sun.

3 The opining heavins around me shine With beams of shered bliss, While Jesus shews his heart is mine, And whispers—I am his.

4 My foul would leave this heavy clay at that transporting word; Run up, with joy, the shining way, T' embrace my dearest Lord.

199

5 Fearless or hell, and ghastly death,
1'd break through ev'ry foc.
The wings of love, and arms of faith,
Should bear me conqu'ror, through.

LV. Frail life and fucceeding Eternity,

THEE. we adore, eternal Name— And humbly own to Thee, How feeble is our mortal frame; What dying worms are we!

2 Our wasting lives grow thorter field As months and days increase; And every beating pulse we tell, Leaves but the number lefs.

3 The year rolls round, and fleats away The breath which first it gave; Whate'er we do, where'er we be, We're trav'ling to the grave.

. Dangers fland thick through all the ground.
To push us to the tomb:
And fierce diseases wait around,

To hurry mortals home.

5 Good God! on what a flender thread Hang everlashing things! Th' eternal states of all the dead Upon life's feeble strings!

6 Infinite joy, or endless wee, Attends on ev'ry breath; And yet how unconcern'd we go Upon the brink of death!

Waken. O Lord, our drowfy fense To run this dang'rous road; And, if our fouls are hurry'd hence, May they be found with God.

LVI. Vain Prosperity.

Who grow profanely great,

Though they increrase their golden store, And rife to won !'rons height.

2 They take of all the joys which grow Upon this earthly clod! Weil they may fearch the creature through, For they have ne'er a God.

3 Shake off the thoughts of dying too. And think your life your own ; But death comes half ning on to you,

To mow your glory down.

4 Yes-you must bow your stately head ; Away your spirit flies; And no kind angel near your bed, To bear it to the fkies.

5 Go now and boaft of all your stores-And tell how bright they shine; Your heaps of glitt'ring dust are your's, And my Redeemer's mine!

LVII. The plea ure of a good Confcience.

ORD, how secure and blest are they Who seel the joys of pardon'd fin! Should florms of wrath flike earth and fea, Their minds have heav'n and peace within.

2 The day glides fweetly o'er their heads, Made up of innocence and love; And fort and filent as the shades, Their nightly minutes gently move.

3 Quick as their thoughts their joys come on, But ily not half to fast away: Their fouls are ever bright as noon, And calm as fummer ev'nings be.

4 How oft they look to th' heav'nly hills. Where groves of living pleasure grow! And longing hopes, and cheerful finites Sit, undifturb'd, upon their brow.

5 They fcorn to feek our golden toys; But spend the day, and share the night In numb'ring o'er the richer joys Which heav'n prepares for their delight.

6 While wretched we, like worms and moles. Lie grov'ling in the dust below; Almighty grace, renew our souls, And we'll aspire to glory too.

LVIII. Shortness of Life, and goodness of God.

TIME! What an empty vapor 'tis!
And days how fwift they are!
Swift, as an Indian arrow flies
Or like a shooting star.

2 The present moments just appear, Then slide away, in haste; That we can never say—they're here; But only say—they're past.

3 Our life is ever on the wing, And death is ever nigh; The moment when our lives begin, We all begin to die.

4 Yet, mighty God! our fleeting days
Thy lafting favours fliate;
Yet, with the bounties of thy grace.
Thou load'ft the rolling year.

5 'Tis fov'reign mercy finds us food, And we are cloth'd with love: White grace stands pointing out the road, Which leads our fouls above.

6 His goodnets runs an endlefs round— All glory to the Lord: His mercy never knows a bound— And be his name ador'd.

7 Thus we begin the lasting fong; And when we close our eyes.; Let ages down thy praise prolong, 'Till time and nature dies.

LIX. Paradife on Earth.

C LORY to God, who walks the fky,
And fends his beflings through—
Who tells his faints of joys on high—
And gives a tafte below.

2 Glory to God, who hoops his throne, That duft and worms may fee't, And brings a glimple of glory down Around his facred feet.

3 When Christ, with all his graces crown & Sheds his kind beams abroad, Tis a young heav'n on earthly ground,

And glory in the bud.

A A blooming paradife of joy in this wild defart fprings; And ev'ry fenfe! thraight employ On fweet celeftial things.

5 White lilies all around appear,
And each his glory flows!
The Rose of Sharon blossoms here,
The fairest flow'r which blows.

6 Chearful! teaft on heavily fruit, And drink the pleafures down; Pleafures which flow hard by the foot Of the eternal throne!

7 But, ah! how foon my joys decay— How foon my fins arife—

And fratch the heav'nly scence away From these samenting eyes!

8 When shall the time, dear Jesus, when The shining day appear, That I shall leave those clouds of sin, And guilt and darkness here. 9 Up to the fields above the skies, My hasy feet would go— There everlasting flow'rs anile, And joys, uawith'ring, grow.

LX. The Truth of God, the Promier,

PRAISE, everlasting praise, be paid

To Him who earth's foundation laid;

Praise to the God, whose strong decrees,

Sway the creation as he please.

2 Praise to the goodness of the Lord, Who rules his people by his word; And there, as strong as his decrees, He sets his kindest promises.

[3 Firm are the words his prophets give— Sweet words, on which his children live; Each of them is the voice of God Who spake, and spread the skies abroad.

4 Each of them pow'rful as that found Which bid the new-made heavins go round; And stronger than the solid poles On which the wheelef nature rolls.]

5 Whence then should doubts and fears arise? Why trick'ling forrows drown our eyes? Slowly, alas! our mind receives
The comforts which our Maker gives.

6 Oh, for a strong a lasting faith, 'To credit what th' Almighty faith! T' embrace the message of his Son, And call the joys of heav'n our own,

7 Then should the earth's old pillars shake, And all the wheels of nature break; Our steady souls shall fear no more Than solid rocks, when billows roar.

8 Our everlasting hopes arise above the ruinable skies;

Where the eternal Builder reigns, And his own courts his pow'r fustains.

LXI. A thought of Death and Glory.

MY foul, come, meditate the day,
And think how near it flands,
When thou mult quit this house of clay,
And fly to unknown lands.

a And you, mine eves, look down and view.
The horlow gaping tomb;
This gloomy prifer waits for you.

This gloomy prison waits for you, Whene'er the sammons come.

3 Oh! could we die with those who die, And piace us in their stead; Then would our spirits learn to sly, And converse with the dead.

4 Then thould we fee the faints above, in their own glor'ous forms,

And wonder why our fouls thould love

To dwell with mortal worms!

5 How we should from the elections of flesh.

These fetters, and this load;

And long for evining to undress,

And long for ev'ning, to undress That we may rest with God.

6 We should almost forfake our clay
Before the summons come;
And pray, and wish our fouls away
To their eternal nome.

LXII. God, the Thunder: or, the last Judgment and Hell.*

SiNG to the Lord, ye heav'nly hofts, And thou, O earth, adore:

^{*} Made in a great sudden Storm of Thunder, August 20th, 1697.

Let death and hell, through all their coafts, Stand trembling at his pow'r.

2 His founding chariot shakes the sky; He makes the couds his throne; There all his stores of light ning lie,

There all his stores of light'ning lie, Till vengeance darts them down.

- 3 His nostrils breathe out fiery fireams—And, from his awful tongue
 A fov'reign voice divides the flames,
 And thun 'er roars along!
- 4 Think. O my foul, the dreadful day, When this incenfed God Shall rend the fky and burn the fca, And fling his wrath abroad;
- What finall the wretch, the finner do?
 He once defy'd the Lord:
 But he finall dread the Thund'rer now,
 And fink beneath his word.
- 6 Tempefts of angry five shall roll To blast the rebel worm: And beat upon his naked foul In one eternal storm.

LXIII. A Funeral Thought

A RK! from the tombs a dolcful found;
My ears, attend the cry—
Ye living men. come, view the ground

Where you must shortly lie.

" Princes, this clay must be your bed, "In spite of all your tow'rs;

"The tall, the wife, the rev'rend head "Must lie as low as our's."

great God, is this our certain doom?
And are we ftill fecure!

walking downwards to our tomb, yet prepare no more?

To fit our fouls to fly;
Then when we drop this dying flesh,
We'll rife above the sky.

LXIV. God the Glory and Defence of Zions

The feat of thy Creator's grace; Thine holy courts are his abode: Thou earthly palace of our God.

2 Thy walls are strength and at thy gates, A guard of heavinly warriors waits; Nor shall thy deep foundations move, Fix'd on his counsels, and his love.

3 Thy foes in vain defigns engage; Against his throne, in vain they rage! Like rising waves with angry roar, Which dash, and die upon the shore.

4 Then let our fouls in Zion dwell, Nor fear the wrath of Rome or hell; His arms embrace this happy ground, Like brazen bulwarks built around.

5 God is our shield, and God our sun; Swift as the sleeting moments run, On us he sheds new beams of grace, And we rested his brightest praise.

LXV. The Hopes of Heaven, or Support under Tri-

WHEN I can read my title clear
To manfions in the skies,
I bidfarewell to every fear,
And wipe my weeping eyes.
Should earth against my foul engage.
And hellish darts be hun'd,

Then I can fmile at Satan's rage, And face a frowning world.

3 Let cares, like a wild deluge, come, And ftorms of forrow fall; May I but fafely reach my home,

My God, my heavin, my All.

4 There shall I bathe my weary foul In seas of heav'nly rest And not a wave of trouble roll Across my peaceful breast.

LXVI. A prospect of Heaven makes death eafy.

THERE is a land of pure delight,
Where faints immortal reign;
Infinite day excludes the night,
And pleafures banish pain.

2 There everlasting spring abides, And never-with ring flow'rs; Death, like a narrow sea divides This heavinly land from ours.

[3 Sweet fields, beyond the swelling flood, Stand dreft in living green. So, to the Jews, old Canaan flood, While Jordan roli'd between.]

4 But tim'rous mortals start and shrink, To cross this narrow sea,

And linger shiv'ring on the brink, Through fear to launch away.

5 Oh! could we make our doubts remove, Those gloomy doubts that rise— And see the Canaan, which we love, With unbeclouded eyes.

6 Could we but climb where Moles Bood, And view the landscape o'er;

Not Jordan's fireams, nor death's cold flood, Should fright us from the shore.

LXVII. God's Eternal Dominion.

CREAT God! how infinite art thou!

What worthless worms are we!

Let the whole race of creatures bow,
And pay their praise to Thee.

- Thy throne eternal ages flood, E'er seas or stars were made! Thou art the ever-living God, Were all the nations dead.
- 3 Nature and time quite naked lie To thine immense survey, From the formation of the sky, To the great burning-day.
- A Eternity with all its years.
 Stands prefent in thy view,
 To Thee, there's nothing old-appears—
 Great God! there's nothing new.
- Gur lives through various scenes are drawn,
 And vex'd with trifling cares;
 While thine eternal thought moves on
 Thine undiffurb'd affairs.
- 6 Great God! howinfinite att Thou! What worthless worms are we!
 Let the whole race of creatures bow,
 And pay their praise to Thee.

LXVIII. The humble Worthip of Heavens

ATHER, 4 long, I faint to fee
The place of thine abode!
I'd leave thy earthly courts, and flee
Up to thy feat, my God!

a Here I behold thy distant face, And 'tis a pleasing fight; But to abide in thize embrace, Is infinite delight!

3 I'd part with all the joys of fenfe, To gaze upon thy throne; Pleafure fprings fresh forever thence, Unspeakable, unknown.

- 4 There all the heav'nty hofts are feen; In shining ranks they move; And drink immortal vigor in, With wonder, and with love.
- 5 Then at thy feet with awful fear, Th' adoring armies fall ! With joy they shrink to NOTHING there, Before th' eternal ALL.
- 6 There I would vie with all the hofts In duty and in blis; While le's than nothing I could boaft, *Aud wanity confess.
- 7 The more thy glories strike mine eyes, The humbler I shall lie; Thus, while I sing, my joys shall rise Unmeasurably high.

LXIX. The Faithfulness of God in the Promies.

BEGIN, my tongue fome heav'nly theme And speak some boundless thing; The mighty works, or might'er name Of our eternal King,

2 Tell of his wond'rous faithfulness, And found his pow'r abroad; Sing the fweet promise of his grace, And the performing God.

2 Proclaim falvation from the Lord, For wretched dying men; * La. xl. 17. His hand has writ the facred word With an immortal pen.

4 Engrav'd as in eternal brass,
The mighty promise shines;
Nor can the pow'rs of darkness raise
Those everlasting lines.

Is He, who can dash whole worlds to death,
And make them, whe n he please;
But speaks—and that Almighty breath
Fulfils his great decrees.

6 His very word of grace is firong
As that which built the fkies;
The voice, which rolls the stars along,
Speaks all the promises.

- 7 He faid—Let the wide heav'n be spread & And heav'n was stretch'd abroad;
 Abra'm—I'll be thy God—he said—
 And he was Abra'm's God.
- 8 Oh, might I hear thine heav nly tongue But whifper—thou, art mine! Those gentle words should raise my song To notes almost divine.
- How would my leaping heart rejoice,
 And think my heav'n tecure?
 I'd truft the All-creating voice,
 And faith defires no more.]

LXX. God's Dominion over the Sea, Pl.cvi.

OD of the, feas, thy thund'ring voice
Makes all the roaring waves rejoice;
And one foft word of thy command,
Can fink them, filent, in the fand.

If but a Moles wave thy rod, The fea divides, and owns its God; The ftormy floods their Maker knews and led his chosen arraics through. 3 The fealy flocks, amidst the fea, To Thee, their Lord, a tribute pay: The meanest fish, which swims the flood, Leaps up, and means a praise to God.

[4 The larger monfters of the deep, On thy commands attendance keep: By thy permission, sport and play, And cleave along their foaming way.

5 If God his voice of tempest rears, Leviathan lies still, and fears; Anon he litts his nostrils high, And spouts the ocean to the sky.]

6 How is thy glor'ous po z'r ador'd Amidit these wat'ry nations, Lord! Yet the bold men who trace the seas, Bold men'refuse their Maker's praise,

17 What scenes of miracles they see, And never tune a fong to Thee! While on the flood they safely ride, They curse the hand which smoothes the tide.

8 Anon they plunge in wat'ry graves, And some drink death among the waves; Yet the surviving crew blaspheme. Nor own the God who rescu'd them.

9 Oh! for some fignal of thy hand! Shake all the seas; Lord, shake the Land! Great Judge descend! isk men deny That there's a God who rules the sky.

LXXI. Praise to God foom all Greatures.

THE glories of my Maker, God, My joyful voice thall sing, And call the nations to adore Their Former, and their King.

2 'Twas his right hand which fliap'd our clay And wrought this human frame;

O 0 2

But from his own immediate breath Our nobler spirits came.

3 We bring our mortal pow'rs to God, And worship with our tongues: We claim some kindred with the skies, And join th' angelic fongs.

Let grov'ling beafts, of ev'ry shaps, And fowls of ev'ry wing, And rocks, and trees, and fires and feas

Their various tribute bring.

ye planets, to his honor thine; And wheels of nature, roll; Praise him in your unweary'd course Around the steady pole.

6 The brightness of our Maker's name The wide creation fills, And his unbounded grandeur fies Beyond the heav'nly hills.

LXXII. The Lord's day ; or, the Resurredion of Chrift.

DLEST morning, whose young dawning rays, D Beheld our rifing God; Which saw him triumph o'er the dust, And leave his laft abode!

 In the cold prison of a tomb The dead Redeemer lay : Till the revolving skies had brought The third, th'appointed day.

3 Hell, and the grave, unite their force To hold our God, in vain; The fleeping Conqueror arofe, And burft their feeble chain.

A To thy great name, Almighty Lord, These facred hours we pay And loud Hofannas shall proclaim The triumph of the day.

5 Salvation and immortal praise To our victor'ous King; Let heav'n, and earth, and rocks, and seas, With glad hosannas ring.

LXXIII. Doubts scattered.

TENCE, from my foul, fad thoughts, be gone
And leave me to my joys;
My tongueshall triumphip my God,
And make a joyful noise.

- 2 Darkness and doubts had veil'dmy mind, And drown'd my head in tears; Till fov'reign grace, with shining rays, Dispell'd my gloomysea rs.
- 3 Oh! what immortal joys I felt, And raptures, all divine— When Jefus told me—I was his, And my Beloved mine!
- 4 In vain the tempter frights my foul,
 And breaks my peace, in vain;
 One glimpfe dear Saviour, of thy face,
 Revives my joys again.

LXXIV. A Complaint of Ingratitude

Is this the kind return?
And these the thanks we owe?
Thus to abuse eternal love,
Whence all our blessings flow!

2 To what a stubborn frame
Has sin reduc'd our min!!
What strange, rebellious, wretches we,
And God—as strangely kind!

3 On us, he hids the fun Shed his reviving rays; For us the skies their circles run, To lengthen out our days.

4 The brutes obey their God, And bow their necks to men: But we, more base, more brutish things, Reject his eafy reign.

5 Turn, turn us, mighty God, And mould our fouls afresh: Break, Sov'reign Grace, these hearts offtone, And give us hearts of flesh.

6 Let old ingratitude Provoke our weeping eyes; And hourly, as new mercies fall, Let hourly thanks arise.

LXXV. The beatific fight of Christ.

ROM Thee my God, my joys shall rise, And run eternal rounds; Beyond the limits of the skies, And all created bounds.

2 The holy triumphs of my foul Shall death itself outbrave Leave dull mortality behind, And fly beyond the grave,

3 There, where my bleffed Jefus reigns, In neav'n's unmeafur'd space, Ill fpend a long eternity

In pleasure, and in praise.

4 Millions of years my wand'ring eyes Shall o'er thy beauties rove, And endless ages, I'll adore The glories of thy love.

5 Sweet Jesus ! ev'ry smile of thine Shall fresh endearments bring, And thousand taftes of new delights From all thy graces fpring.

6 Hafte, my Beloved, fetch my foul Up to thy bleft abode;

Fly, for my fpirit longs to fee My Sariour and my God.

LXXVI. Refurrection and Ascension of Christ.

H OSANNA to the Prince of light,
Who cloth'd himself in clay;
Enter'd the iron gates of death,
And tore the bars away.

- 2 Death is no more the king of dread, Since our Immanuel rofe; He took the tyrant's fling away, And fpoil'd our hellish foes.
- 3 See, how the Conqu'ror mounts aloft, And to his Father flies! With fcars of honor in his flesh, And triumph in his eyes.
- 4 There our exalted Saviour reigns, And featters bleffings down; Our Jefus fills the middle feat Of the celefial throne,
- 5 Raife your devotion, mortal tongues, To reach this blefs'dabode; Sweet be the accents of your fongs To our incarnate God.
- 6 Bright angels, strike your loudest strings, Your sweetest voices raise: Let heav'n and all created things, Sound our Immanuel's praise.

LXXVII. The christian Warfare.

STAND up, my foul, shake off thy fears, And gird the gospel.armour on; March to the gates of endless joy; Where thy great Captain-Saviour's gone.

2 Hell, and thy fins refift thy course; But hell and fin are vanquish'd foes;

Thy Jesus nail'd them to the cross, And sang the triumph, when he rose.

- 13 What though the prince of daskness rage.
 And waste the fury of his spite?
 Eternal chains contine him down
 To stery deeps, and endless night.
- 4 What though thine inward lufts rebel? 'Tis but a ftruggling gasp for life; The weapons of victor'ous grace Shail flay thy fins, and end the ftrife.]
- 5 Then let my foul march boldly on, Prefs forward to the heav'nly gate; There peace and joy eternal reign, And glitt'ring robes, for conqu'rors, wait. 6 Their shall I wear a starry crown, And triumph in aimighty grace; While all the arm es of the skies

Join in my glor'ous Leader's praife. LXXVIII. Redemption by Christ.

WHEM the first parents of our race Rebell'd, and lost their God, And the infection of their fin Had tainted all our blood.

- 2 infinite pity touch'd the heart Of the eternal Son; Defeending from the heav'nly court, He left his Father's throne.
- 3 Afide the Prince of glory threw His most divine array; And wrapp'd his God-head in a veil Of our inferior clay.
- 4 His living pow'r, and dying love, Redeem'd unhappy men; And rais'd the ruins of our race To life, and God, again.

5 To thee, dear Lord, our flesh and foul We joyfully refign; Bleft Jesus, take us for thy own,

For we are doubly thine.

B. II.

6 Thine honor shall forever be
The bus'ness of our days,
Forever shall our thankful tongues
Speak thy deserved praise.

LXXIX. Praife to the Redeemer.

PLUNG'D in a gulph of dark despair,
We, wretched sinners, lay;
Without one cheerful beam of hope,
Or spark of glim'ring day.

- With pitying eyes, the Prince of grace Beheld our helpless grief: He faw—and (O! amazing love!) He ran to our relief.
- 3 Down from the shining seats above; With joyful haste he sled, Enter'd the grave, in mortal slesh, And dwelt among the dead.
- A He spoil'd the pow'rs of darkness thus, And brake our iron chains; Jesus has freed our captive souls, From everlasting pains.
- [5 In vain the baffled prince of heil,
 His curfed projects tries;
 We, who were doom'd his endless flaves,
 Are rais'd above the skies.]
- 6 Oh! for this love, let rocks and hills Their lasting silence break, And all harmon'ous human tongues, The Saviour's praises speak.
- 17 Yes-we will praise thee, dearest Lord, Our souls are all on slame;

Holanna, round the spacious earth, To thine adored name!

8 Angels, affift our mighty joys, Strike all your harps of gold: But when you raife your highest notes, His love can ne'er be told.]

LXXX. God's acvful power and Goodness.

OH! the Almighty Lord!
How matchless is his pow'r!
Tremble. O earth, beneath his word,
While all the heav'ns adore.

- 2 Let proud imper ous kings, Bow low before his throne! Crouch to his feet, ye haughty things, Or he will tread you down.
- 3 Above the skies he reigns, And with amozing blows, He deals insufferable pains On his rebell'ous foes.
- 4 Yet, everlasting God,
 We love to speak thy praise;
 Thy sceptre's equal to thy rod,
 The sceptre of thy grace.
 - 5 The arms of mighty love
 D. fend our Zion well:
 And heav'nly mercy walls us round
 From Babyion and hell.
- 6 Salvation to the King Who fits enthron'd above: Thus we adore the God of might, And blefs the God of love.

AND now the scales have left mine eyes;
Now I begin to see:

Oh, the curs'd deeds my fins have done! What murd'rous things they be!

2 Were these the traitors, dearest Lord, Which thy fair body tore? Monsters, that stain d those heav'nly limbs With sloods of purple gore!

3 Was it for crimes which I had done, My dearest Lord was flain! When justice felz'd God's only Son,

And put his foul to pain?

4 Forgive my guilt, O Prince of peace!
1'il wound my God no more:
Hence, from my heart, ye fins, be gone,
For Jefus 1 adore

E Furnish me, Lord, with heav'nly arms
From grace's magazine;
And I'll proclaim eternal war
With ev'ry darling fin.

LXXXII. Redemption and Protestion from Spirit-

A RISE, my foul, my joyful pow'rs, And triumph in my God: Awake, my voice, and loud proclaim His glorious grace abroad.

He rais'd me from the deeps of fin, The gates of gaping hell;
And fix d my flanding more fecure
Than'twas before I fell.

3 The arms of everlasting love Beneath my foul he plac'd, And, on the Roch of Ages, fet My slipping footsteps fast.

4 The city of my bless'd abode is wall'd around with grace;

Salvation for a bulwark, flands To shield the facred place.

3 Satan may vent his fharpest spite,
 And all his legions roar;
 Almighty mercy guards my life,
 And bounds his raging pow'r.

6 Arife, my foul, awake, my voice, And tunes of pleafure fing; Loud hallelujths shall address My Saviour, and my King.

LXXXIII. The passion and Excitation of Christ

THUS faith the Ruler of the skies—
"Awake, my dreadful sword;
"Awake, my wrath, and smite the man,
"My fellow (saith the Lord,")

2 Vengeance receiv'd the dread command; And, armed, down file flies! Jefus fubmitst' his Father's hand, And hows his head, and dies.

But, oh! the wisdom, and the grace Which join with vengance now!

He dies, to fave our guilty race, And yet he rifes too.

4 A person, so divine, was he, Who yielded to be slain, That he could give his soul away, And take his life again.

5 Live, glor ous Lord, and reign on high; Let ev'ry nation fing, And angels found, with endletrioy,

The Saviour and the King.

LXXXIV. The fame.

COME, all harmon ous tongues,

Tis Christ, the Everlasting God, And Christ, the man we sing.

Tell how he took our flesh, To take away our guilt;

Sing the cear drops of facred blood, Which hellish monsters spirt.

[3 Alas ! the cruel fpear Went deep into his fide; And the rich blood of purple gore, Their mund'rous weapons dy'd.]

4 The waves of fwelling grief Did o'er his botom roll:

And mountains of A.mighty wrath Lay heavy on his fool.

5 Down to the shades of death He bow'd his awful head; Yet he arose to live and reign When death itself is dead.

6 No more the bloody fpear;
The crofs and naits no more;
For hell, it'elf, fliakes at his name,
And all the heav'ns adore.

7 There the Redeemer fits, ligh on his Father's throne; The Father lays his vene cance by.

The Father lays his vengeance by, And finiles upon his Son.

8 There his full glovies shine
With uncreated rays;
And bless his faints' and angels' eyes,
To everlasting days.

LXXXV. Sufficiency of Pardon.

WHY does your face, ye humble fouls.
Those mounful colours wear?

What doubts are these which waste your faith, And nourish your despair ?

2 What though your num'rous fins exceed The stars which fill the skies

And, aiming at th'eternal throne, Like pointed mountains, rise!

3 What though your mighty guilt, beyond The wide creation fwell, And has its curs'd foundations laid Low as the depths of hell!

4 See here an endless ocean flows Of never-failing grace! Behold a dying Saviour's veins

The facred flood increase!

5 It riks high, and drowns the hills,
Has neither shore nor bound:
Now: if we search to find our sins,
Our sins can ne'er be found.

A wake our hearts, adore the grace
That buries all our faults.
And pard'ning blood, which swells above
Our follies, and our thoughts.

LXXXVI. Freedom from fin and mifery, in bear'n.

OUR fins, alas! how ftrong they be! And, like a vi'lent fea, They break our duty, Lord, to thee, And hurry us away.

2 The waves of trouble, how they rife! How loud the tempests roar!
But death shall land our weary souls
Safe on the heavinly shore.

3 There, to fulfil his fweet commands, Our freedy feet shall move; No fin shall clog our winged zeal, Or coel our burning love. The wonders of his grace;

'Till heav'nly raptures fire our hearts, And finile in ev'ry face.

5 For ever, His dear facred name Shall dwell upon our tongue;

And Jesus and falvation be The close of every tong.

LXXXVII. D.vine Giories above our Reafon.

HOW wond'rous great! how glor ous bright Must our Creater be! Who dwells amidst the dazzling light Of vast infinity!

2 Cur foaring spirits upward rise Tow'rd the celestial throne:

Fain would we fee the bleffed THREE, And the Almighty ONE.
3 Our reason stretches all its wings,

And climbs above the fkies; But fill how far beneath thy feet Our grov'ling reason lies!

[4 Lord, here we bend our humble fouls, And awfully adore:

For the weak pin'ons of our minds Can stretch a thought no more.

5 Thy glories infinitely rife Above our lab'ring tongue; In vain the highest scraph tries To form an equal song.

[6 In humble notes our faith adores
The great myfter'ous King.
While angels firain their nob'er pow'rs,
And sweep th' immortal firing.]

LXXXVIII. Solvation,

LVATION! Oh, the joyful found!

Tis pleasure to our cars;

P. p. 3

A fov'reign balm for ev'ry wound, A cordial for our fears.

2 Bury'd in forrow, and in fin, At hell's dark door we lay; But we arife, by Grace divine, To fee a heav'nly day.

3 Salvation! let the echo fly
The spacious earth around.
While all the armies of the sky,
Gonspire to raise the sound.

LXXXIX. Christ's Vistory over Satan.

HOSANNA to our conquiring King!
The prince of darkness files:
His troops rush head long down to hell,
Like light ning from the skies.

- 2 There, bound in chains the lions roar, And fright the refer d theep; But heavy bars confine their pow'r And malice to the deep.
- 3 Hofanna to our conqu'ring King !
 All hail incarnate love!
 Ten thousand fongs and glories wait
 To crown thy head above.
- 4 Thy vict'ries, and thy deathless fame Through the wide world shall run; And everlasting ages sing The triumphs thou hast won.

XC. Faith in Corift for pardon and fan Hifaction.

HOW fad our litte, by nature, is !

Our fin, how deep it flains!

And fatan binds our captive minds

Faft in his flavilh chains.

2 But thers's a voice of fov'reign grace. Sounds from the facred word;

B. II. SPIRITUAL SONGS.

Ho! ye despairing sinners, come, And trust upon the Lord.

3 My foul obeys th' Almighty calls, And runs to this relief; I would believe thy promife, Lord;

Oh help my unbelief.

[4 To the dear fountain of thy blood, Incarnate God I fly; Here let me wash my spotted soul

From crimes of deepest die.

5 Stretch out thine arm victo'rous King; My reigning fins subdue; Drive the old dragon from his feat,

With all his hellish crew.

A guilty, weak, and helples worm
On thy kind arms I fail:

Be thou my firefigth, and righteoufnels.

My Jefus and my Ali!

XCI. The glory of Christ in Heaven.

O!, the delights, the heav'nly joys, The glories of the place. Where Jesus sheds the brightest beams Of his o'erslowing grace!

Sweet majefty, and awful love Sit finiting on his brow;
And all the glor ous ranks above
At humble diffance bow.

(3 Princes, to his imper'al name Bend their bright feeptres down; Dominions, thrones, and pow'rs rejoice To fee him wear the crown.

4 Archangels found his lofty praise Through ev'ry heav'nly street; And lay their highest honors down Submissive, at his f.et. 5 Those fost, those blessed feet of his, Which once rude iron tore, High on a throne of light they stand And all the faints adore.

6 His head, that dear majestic head, Which cruel thoms did wound, See what immortal glories shine, And circle it around.

7 This is the Man, th' exalted Man, Whom we unfeen acore! But when our eyes behold his face. Our hearts shall love him more.

8 Lord! how our fouls are all on fire To fee thy bleft abode: Our tongues rejoice, in tunes of praise! To our incarnate God!

9 And while our faith enjoys the fight, We long to leave our clay; And with thy fiery charlots, Lord, To fetch our fouls away.

XCII. The Church lawed, and her enemies difappointed; or, deliverance from Treason SHOUT to the Lord and et your joys, Through all the nations run; Ye Western skies, resound the noise Beyond the rising sun.

4 Thee, Mighty God, our fouls admire,
Thee, our glad voices fing:
And join with the ce eftial choir,
To praise th' eternat king.

2. Thy pow'r the whole creation rules, And on the flarry fkies. Sits imiting at the reak defigns. Thine envious foes device.

4 Thy foorn derides their feeble rage, - And, with an awful fromu, Flings vast confusion on their plots, And shakes their Babel down.

Ly Their feeret fires in caverns lay, And we the facrifice; But gloomy caverns strove, in vain.

To 'scape All-searching eyes.

6 Their dark defignswere all reveal'd: Their treasons all betray'd: Praise to the Lord, who broke the snare

Their curfed hands had laid.]

7 In vain the bufy fons of hell
Still new rebeliions try;

Their fouls shall pine with envous rage, And vex away and die.

8 Almighty grace defends our land From their malicious pow'r; Let Zion with united fonge, Almighty grace adore.

XCIII. God All, and in All, Pfalm Ixxiii. 25.

MY God, my life, my love, To Thee, to Thee I call; I cannot live, if thou remove; For thou art All in All.

[2 Thy shining grace can cheer This dungeon where I dwell, 'Tis paradise, when thou art here; If thou depart 'tis hell.]

3 The fmilings of thy face, How am'able they are! "Tis heav'n; to reft in thine embrace, And no where elfe, but there.

4 To Thee and Thee alone, The angels owe their blifs; They fit around thy gracious throne, And dwell where Jefus is. Not all the harps above
Can make a heavily place,
If God his relidence remove,
Or but conceal his face.

6 Nor earth, nor all the sky, Can one delight afford; No, not a drop of real joy,

Without thy prefence, Lord.

7 Thou art the Sca of Love, Where all my cleafures roll; The circle where my passions move And centre of my foul.

8 To Thee my fpirits fly
With reftlers warm defire;
And yet how far from Thee I tie!
Dear Jefus, raife me high r.

XCIV. God my only happines, Pfal. lxxiii. 25.

MY God, my portion, and my love,
My everlating Ad!

I've none but Thee in heavin above,
Or on this carthly ball.

2 What empty things are all the ikies, And this intor'or clod! There's nothing here deferves my joys; There's nothing like my God.

3 la vain the bright the burning fun Scatters his feeble light: "Tis thy fweet beams create my noon; If thou withdraw, tisnight."

4 And while upon my reftlefs bed Among the shades I roll; If my redeemer shews his head, "Tis morning with my foul."

S To Thee I owe my wealth and friends, And health, and fale abode; Thanks to thy name for meaner things, But they are not my God.

6 How vain a toy is glitt ring wealth, if once compar'd to Thee!

Or what's my fafety or my health, Or all my friends to me?

? Were I poffellor of the earth, And call'd the stars my own; Without thy graces, and thyself,

Without thy graces, and thyfelf, I were a wretch undone.

Let others firetch their arms, like feas,
 And graip in all the thore;
 Grant me the vifits of thy face,
 And I defire no more.

XCV. Look on him cubom they pierced, and mourns

NEIN: TE grief! amazing woe!

Behold my bleeding Lord!

Hell and the fews conspire his death.

And use the Roman sword.

2 Oh! the sharp pangs of smarting pain My dear Redeemer bore, When knotty whips, and ragged thorns, His facred body tore!

3 But knotty whips and ragged thorns, in vain do I accuse:

In vain I blame the Roman hands, And the more spiteful fews!

A 'Twere you, my fins, my cruel fins, His chief tormentors were; Each of my crimes became a nail;

And unbelief-the spear,

5 'Twere you that pull'd the vengeance down Upon his guiltless head:

Break, break my heart-oh, burst mine eyes, And let my forrows bleed!

6 Strike mighty grace, my flinty foul, 'Till melting waters flow; And deep repentance drown mine eyes In undiffembled woe!

XCVI. Angels punished, and Man faved.

OWN, headlong, from their native skies, The rebel-angels fell; And thunder-bolts of flaming wrath Purfu'd them deep to hell.

2 Down from the top of earthly biis Rebell'ous man was hurld: And Jefus stoop'd beneath the grave, To reach a finking world.

3 Oh'love of infinite degrees! Unmeasureable grace! Must heav'n's eternal darling die, To fave a trait'rous race?

Must angels fink forever down. And burn in quenchlefs fire; While God forfakes his thining throne; To raise us wretches high'r?

B. II.

3 To Thee, to Thee, almighty Love, Our fouls, ourfelves, our all we pay: Millions of tongues shall found thy praise On the bright hills of heavinly day.

XCVIII. Hardness of heart Complained of

MY heart, how dreadful hard it is?!
How heavy here it lies!
Heavy and cold within my breaft,
Just like a rock of ice!

2 Sin, like a raging tyrant, fits Upon this flinty throne: And ev'ry grace lies bury'd deep, Beneath this heart of stone.

3 How feldom do I rife to God, Or taste the joys above! This mountain presses down my faith, And chills my flaming love.

4 When smiling mercy courts my soel With all its heav'nly charms. This stubborn, this relentless thing, Would thrust it from my arms.

5 Against the thunders of thy word, Rebeh'ous I have flood; My heart, it shakes not at the wrath And terrors of a God.

6 Dear Saviour, steep this rock of mine, In thine own crimfon sea!

None but a bath of blood divine Can melt the flint away.

XCIX. The Book of God's decrees.

LT the whole race of creatures lie Abas'd before their God; Whate'er his fov'reign voice has form'd He governs with a nod.

Ten thousand ages c'er the skies
 Were into motion brought.
 All the long years and worlds to come
 Stood present to his thought.

3 There's not a sparrow, or a worm,
But's found in his decrees;
He railes monarchs to their thrones;
And finks them as he please.]

And 'tis His hand which hides my fun,
If darkness cloud my days.

yet I would not be much concern do Nor vainly long to fee. In volumes of his deep decrees, What months are writ for me.

When he reveals the book of life, O, may I read my name Among the chosen of his love. The foll wers of the Lamb!

C. The Presence of Christ is the Life of my Soul.

HOW full of anguish is the thought!

How it distracts and tears my heart,
If God at last, my fov'reign Judge,
Should frown, and bid my foul depart!

2 Lord, when I quit this earthly stage; Where shall I sly, but to thy breast? For I have sought no other home— For I have learn'd no other rest.

3 I cannot live contented here, Without some glimpses of thy face; And heavin, without thy presence there, Would be a dark and tiresome place. When earthly cares engross he day, and hold my thoughts afide from Thee; The shining hours of chearful light, Are long and tedious years to me.

g And if no ev'ning visit's paid Between my Saviour and my foul, How dull the night! how sad the shade! How mournfully the minutes roll!

- 6 This field of mine might learn as foon To live—yet part with all my blood; To breathe, when vital air is gone, Or thrive and grow, without my food.
- 7 Christ is my light, my life, my care, My blessed hope, my heavinly prize; Dearer than all my passions are, My limbs, my bowels, or my eyes.
- The strings which twine about my heart, Tortures and racks may tear them off; But they can never, never part With their dear hold of Christ, my love.
- 9 My God! and can a humble child, Who loves thee with a flame to high, Be ever from thy face exil'd, Without the pity of thine eye?

And in thy book the promise stands,
That where thou art, thy friends must be.

CIII. Christ's Commission, John iii. 16, 17. COME happy fouls, approach your God, With new melod'ous fongs; Come, render to almighty grace The tribute of your tongues.

2 Softrange, fo boundless was the love Which pity'd dying men, The Father feat his equal Son To give them life again.

3 Thy hands dear Jesus, were not arm'd, With a revenging rod: No hard commission to perform The vengeance of a God.

4 But all was mercy-all was mild-And wrath forfook the throne; When Christ on the kind errand came, And brought falvation down.

5 Here, finners you may heal your wounde, And wipe your forrows dry : Trust in the mighty Saviour's name, And you shall never die.

6 See, dearest Lord, our willing fouls, Accept thine offer'd grace : We blefs the great Redcemer's love, And give the Father praise.

CIV. The jame. AISE your triumphant fongs K To an immortal tune Let the wide earth resound the deeds, Celestial grace has done.

2 Sing how eternal love
Its chief beloved chose;
And bid him raise our wretched race
From their abys of woes.

3 His hand no thunder bears, No terror clothes his brow; No bolts to drive our guilty fouls To fiercer flames below.

4 'Twas mercy fill'd the throne
And wrath stood seent by,
When Christ was sent with pardons down
To rebels doom'd to die.

5 Now finners, dry your tears, Let hopeless forrow cease; Bow to the sceptre of his love, And take the offer'd peace.

6 Lord, we obey thy call;
We lay an humble claim
To the falvation thou hast bought
And love and praise thy name.

CV. Repentance flowing from the patience of God.

A ND are we wretches yet alive?
And dare we yet rebel?
Tis boundless, 'tis amazing love,
That bears us up from hell!

- 2 The burden of our weighty guilt Would fink us down to flames, And threat'ning vengeance rolls above To crush our feeble frames.
- 3 Almighty goodness cries—forbear:
 And strait the thunder stays:
 And dare we now provoke his wrath,
 And weary out his grace?
- 4 Lord We have long abus'd thy love, Too long indulg'd our fin,

Our aching hearts e'en bleed to fee What rebels we have been.

No more, ye lufts, shall ye command, No more wi! we obey;

Stretch out, O God, thy conq'ring hand, And drive thy foes away.

CVI. Repentance at the Cross.

OH, if my foul were form'd for woe,
How would I vent my fiehs!
Repentance should, like rivers, flow
From both my streaming eyes.

2 'Twas for my fins, my dearest Lord Hung on the curfed tree, And groun'd away a dying life

For thee, my foul, for thee.

3 Oh! how I hate those lusts of mine, Which crucify'd my Go!! Those fins which piere'd and nail'd his steffs fast to the fatat wood,

Yes, my Redeemer, they shall die, My heart has so decreed;

Nor will I spare the guilty things Which made my Saviour bleed.

5 Whilft, with a melting broken heart, My murder'd Lord I view, I's raife revenge against my fins, And flay the murd'rers too.

CVII. The everlafting obsence of God intelerable.

6 Jefus, I throw my arms around, And hang upon thy breaft: Without a gracious smile from Thee, My spirit cannot rest.

7 Oh I tell me that my worthless name Is graven on thy hands; Shew me fome promife, in thy book, Where my falvation stands.

8 Give me one kind, affuring word To fink my fears again; And cheerfully my foul shall wait "Her threefcore years and ten.)

CVIII. Acce's to the throne of grace, by a Mediator. OME. let us lift our joyful eyes Jo to the courts above, And fmile to fee our Father there

Upon a throne of love.

2 Once 'twas a feat of dreadful wrath, And fhot devouring flame ;" Our God appear'd confuming fire, And Vengeance was his name.

A Now we may bow before his feet. And venture near the Lord ! No fiery cherub guards his feet, No double flaming fword.

5 The peaceful gates of heav'nly blife Are open'd by the Son; High let us raise our notes of praise. And reach the almighty throne.

6 To Thee ten thousand thanks we bring, Great advocate on high ; And glory to th' eternal king, Who lays his fury by.

CIX. The Darkness of Providence.

ORD, we adore thy vaft defigns, In' obscure abyss of Providence! Too deep to found with mortal-lines, Too dark to view with feeble fense.

2 Now thou array'ft thine awful face In angry frowns, without a fmile: We, through the cloud, believe thy grace, Secure of thy compassion, still.

3 Through feas and ftorms of deep diffress, We fail by faith, and not by fight; Faith guides us in the wilderness, Through all the terrors of the night.

 Andev'ry shape, and ev'ry face
 Look heav'ny and divine.

There lively hopes we owe To Jeins' dying love; We would adore his grace below And fing his pow'r above,

6 Dear Lord, accept the praise
Of these our humble songs—
Till tunes of nobier found we raise
With our immortal tongues.

CXI. Thank giving for victory.
ZION rejoice, an Judah ling,
The Lord affumes his throne;
Columbia, own the heavinly King
And make his glories known.

The great, the wicked, and the proud, From their high feats are hurr'd, The Jehovah rides upon a cloud, And thunders through the world. 3 He reigns upon th' eternal hills, Distributes mortal crowns; Empires are fix'd beneath his smiles, And totter at his frowns.

A Navies, which rule the ocean wide, Are van quist'd by his breath, And legions, arm'd with pow'r and pride, Descend to wat'ry death.

Let tyrants make no more pretence To vex our happy land; Jehovah's name is our defence, Our buckter is his hand.

[6 Still may the King of grace descend To rule us by his word; And all the honors we can give, Be offer'd to the Lord.]

CXII. Angels ministering to Christ and Saints.

REAT God! to what a glorious height
Haft thou advanc'd the Lord, thy Son!
Angels in all their robes of light,
Are made the fervants of his throne.

Before his feet thine armies wait,
And fw'ft as flames of fire they move,
To manage his affairs of Rate,
In works of vengeance, and of love,
3 Lis orders run through all the hofts;
Legions defeend at his command,
To shield and guard these Western coasts,
When foreign rage invades our land.

4 Now they are sent to guide our feet
Up to the gates of thine abode;

Through all the dangers which we meet, Intravelling the heav'nly road. 5 Lord when Heave this mortal ground, And thou shalt bid me rife and come-Send a beloved angel down, Safe to conduct my spirit home.

CXIII. The fame.

THE majefty of Solomon,
How glorious to behold—
The fervants waiting round his throne,
The iv'ry and the gold!

2 But, mighty God, thy palace shines With far superior beams!

Thine angel-guards are swift as winds;

Thy ministers are slames!

3. So on as thine only Son had made His entrance on the earth,

A fhining army downward fled, To celebrate his birth.

And when oppress'd with pains and fears, On the cold ground he lies— Behold—a heav by form appears,

T' allay his agonies

5 Now to the hands of Christ our King, Are all their legions giv'n; They wait upon his faints, and bring His chosen heirs to heav'n.

6 Pleasure and praise run through their hos; To see a sinner turn :

Then fatan has a captive loft.
And Christ—a subject born.

7 But there's and hour of brighter joy, When he his angels fends

Obstinate rebels to destroy, And gather in his friends.

BOOK III.

Prepared for the boly Ordinance of the

LORD'S SUPPER

1. The Lord's Supper instituted, 1 Cor. xi. 236

"TWAS on that dark, that doleful night, When pow'rs of earth and hell arose Against the Son of God's delight, And friends betray'd him to his foes.

Before the mournful fcene began, He took the bread and blefs'd and brake: What love through all his actions ran! What wond'rous words of grace he spake!

3 This is my body, broke for fin, Receive and eat the living food:
Then took the cup, and blefs'd the wine $
Tis the new cov'nant in my blood.

4 For us his flesh with nails was torn;
He bore the scourge, he felt the thorns
And justice pour'd upon his head
Its heavy vengeance in our stead.

s. For us his vital blood was spilt, To buy the pardon of our guilt: When, for black crimes of biggest size, He gave his soul a facri fice.

6." Do this (he cry'd) till time shall end,
"In mem'ry of your dying Friend;
"Meet at my table; and record
"The love of your departed Lord."

7 Jesus, thy feast we celebrate; We shew thy death, we fing thy name; "Till thou return and we shall eat The marriage-supper of the Lamb.

II. Communion with Christ and with Saints.
1 Cor. x. 16, 17:

JESUS invites his faints-To meet around his board a Here pardon'd rebels fit, and hold. Communion with their Lord.

2 For food he gives his flesh;
We bids us drink his blood:
Amazing favor! matchless grace,
Of our descending God!

3 This holy bread and wine, Maintain our fainting breath, By union with our living Lord, And intrest in his death.

4 Our heav'nly Father calls
Christ and his members one:
We the young children of his love,
And he the first-born Son.

5 We are but feviral parts
Of the fame broken bread;
One body, with its feviral limba;
But Jefus is the He ad.

Let all our pow'rs be join'd His glorious name to raife: Pleasure and love fill ev'ry mind, And ev'ry voice be praise.

III. The New Covenant, fealed.

TME promise of my Father's love
Shall stand forever good:
He said—and gave his soul to death,
And seal'd the grace, with blood.

2 To this dear cov'nant of thy word 1 fet my worthless name:

I feal th' engagement with my Lord, And make my humble claim.

3 The light and firength, and pardining graces
And glory, shall be mine:

My life and foul, my heart and flesh, And all my powers are thine

I call that legacy my own, Which Jefus did bequeath; Twas purchas'd with a dying groan, And ratify'd in death.

5 Sweet is the mem'ry of his name Who blefs'd usin his will, And to his testament of love Made his own life the seal.

IV. Christ's dying love.

Was God's eternal Son!
Our mis'ry reach'd his heav'nly mind,
And pity brought him down.

3 When justice, by our fins provok'd, Drew forth its dreadful fword, He gave his four up to the stroke, Without a murmiring word, 3 He funk beneath our heavy woes, To raife us to his throne:

There's ne'er a gift his hand bestows, But cost his heart a groan.

- This was compassion like a God, That when the Saviour knew The price of pardon was his blood; His pity ne'er withdrew.
- 5 Now though he reigns exalted high, His love is ftill as great: Well he remembers Calvary, Nor let his faints forget.
- 6 Here we behold his bowels roll
 As kind as when he dy'd:
 And fee the forrows of his foul
 Bleed through his wounded fide.
- 7 Here we receive repeated feals Of Jefus' dying love: Hard is the wretch who never feels One foft affection move.
- 3 Here et our hearts begin to melt, While we hie death record.
 And with our joy for pardon'd guilt, Mourn that we pierc'd the Lord.
- V. Chrift the Bread of Life. John vi. 31, 35, 39.

TET us adore th' Eternal Word,
'Tis He our fouls has fed:
Thou art our living ftream .O Lord,
And thou th' immortal Bread.

- 2 The manna came from lower skies, But Jesus from above; Where the fresh springs of pleasure rise, And rivers flow with love.
- 3 The Jews the fathers dy'd at laft, Who ate that heav'nly bread;

But these provisions which we talte, Can raise us from the dead.

A Bles'd be the Lord who gives his flesh
To nourish dying men,
And often spreads his table fresh,

Lest we should faint again.

5 Our fouls shall draw their heavinly breath, Whilst Jesus finds supplies; Nor shall our graces fink to death,

For Jesus never dies.

6 Daily our mortal flesh decays, But Christ, our site shall come; His unresisted pow'r shall raise Our bodies from the topic.

VI. The Memorial of our ablent Lord. John xvi, 16. Luke xxil. 19. John xiv. 3.

JESUS is gone above the fkies.
Where our week fenf s reach him not;
And carnal objects cour. our eyes,
To thrust our Saviour from our thought.

2 He knows what wan ? ring hearts we have, Apt to forget his lovely face; And to refresh our minds he gaze. These kind memorials of his grace.

3 The Lord of life this table spread With his own flesh and dying blood; We on the rich provision seed, And taste the wine and bless our God.

4 Let finful fweets be all forgot, And earth grow lefs in our efteem; Christ and his love fill ev'ry thought, And faith and hope be fix'd on him,

F Whilst he is absent from our sight.
Tis to prepare our souls a place;
Un &

That we may live in heav'nly light, and dwell forever near his face.

6 Our eyeslook upward to the hills whence our returning Lord shall come; We wait thy chariot's awful wheels, To fetch our longing spirits home.

VII. Crucification to the World by the Crofs of Christ, Gal. vi. 14.

WHEN I furvey the wond' rous cross
On which the Prince of glory dy'd,
My richest gain I count but loss
And pour contempt on all my pride.

2 Ferbid it, Lord, that I should boast, Save in the Death of Christ, my God: All the vain things which charm me most, I sacrifice them to his blood.

3 See from his head, his hands, his feet, Sorrow and love flow mingled down! Did e'er fuch love and forrow meet? Or thorns compose so rich a crown?

A His dying crimson, like a robe, Spreads o'er his body on the tree; Then am I dead to all the globe, And all the globe is dead to me.

5 Were the whole realm of nature mine, That were a prefent far too fmall; Love fo amazing, fo divine, Demands my foul, my life, my all.

VIII. The Tree of Life.

OME, let us join a joyful tune
To our exalted Lord—
Ye faints on high around his throne,
And we around his board.

While once upon this lower ground, Weary and faint ye flood,

What dear refreshment here ye found From this immortal food!

B. III.

3 The tree of life, which near the throne In heavin's high garden grows,

Laden with grace bends gently down Its ever-fmiling boughs.

4 Hov'ring among the leaves there stands, The sweet celestial Dove,

And Jefus on the branches hangs
The banner of his love.

5 'Tis a young heav'n of strange delight White in his shade we sit: His fruit is pleasing to the sight, And to the taste as sweet.

6 New life it spreads through dying hearts, And cheers the drooping mind;

Vigor and joy the juice imparts,
Without a fting behind.

7 Now let the flaming weapon fland, And guard all Eden's trees: There's ne'er a plant in all that land Which bears fuch fruit as thefe.

8 Infinite grace our fouls adore
Whose wond'rous hand has made
This living branch of sov'reign pow'r
To raise and heal the dead.

IX. The Spirit, the Water and the Blood.

I John, v. 6.

ET all our tongues be one,
To praise our God on high,
Who from his beform fent his Son,
To fetch us, strangers nigh.

Nor let our voices cease To fing the Saviour's name; Jefus, th' Embassador of peace, How chearfuily he came!

3 It cost him cries and tears
To bring us near to God:
Great was our debt and he appears
To make the payment good.

4 My Saviour's pierced fide Pour'd out a double flood; By water we are purifi'd And pardon'd by the blood.

5 Infinite was our guilt,
But He, our Prieft, atones;
On the cold ground his life was spilt,
And offer'd with his groans.

6 Look upmy foul to him Whole death was thy defert, And humbly view the living fiream Flow from his breaking heart.

7 There, on the curfed tree, In dying pangs he lies. Pulfils his Father's great decree, And all our wants fupplies.

8 Thus the Redeemer came, By water and by blood: And when the Spirlt speaks the me, We feel his witness good

Bear their record above.
Then I believe he dy'd for me,
And feal my Saviour's love.

[ro Lord, cleanse my soul from an,
Nor let thy grace depart:
Great Comforter! abide within,
And witness to my heart.]

X. Christ Cruciffed; the Wissom and Pow'r of God.

NATURE with open volume stands.
To spread her Maker's praise abroad;
And ev'ry labor of his hands
Shews something worthy of a God:

2 But in the grace which refeu'd man, His brightest form of glory thines; Here on the cross 'tis fairest drawn In precious blood, and crimson lines.

[3 Here his whole name appears complete; Nor wit can gu is, nor reason prove, Which of the etters best is writ, The pow'r the wildom, or the love.]

4 Here I behold his inmost heart, Where grace and vengeance strangely join; Piercing his Son with sharpest smart, To make the purchas'd pleasures mine.

5 Oh! the fweet wonders of that cross, Where God, the Saviour loved and dy'd! Her nobleft life my foirst draws From his dear wounds, and bleeding fide.

6 I would forever speak his name In sounds to mortal ears unknown, With angels join to praise the Lamb, And worship at his Father's throne.

XI. Pardon brought to our Senses.

ORD, how divine thy comforts are !
How heav'nly is the place.
Where Jesus spreads the sacred feast
Of his redeeming grace!

And fweetest glories shine;
Here Jesus says, that I am his;
And my beloved's mine.

3 Here (says the kind Redeeming Lord, And shews his wounded ade)

"See here the fpring of all your joye, "Which open'd, when I dy'd !"

And tells of all his pain:

"All this, fays he 1 bore for thee,"
And then he smiles again.

5 What shall we pay our heavinly King,
For grace so vast as this!
He brings our pardon to our eyes.

He brings our pardon to our eyes, And feals it with a kifs.

6 Let fuch amazing loves as these
Be founded all abroad;
Such favors are beyond degrees,
And worthy of a God.

7 To Him who wash'd us in his blood.

Be ever lasting praise;
Salvation honor, glory pow'r,

Eternal, as his days.

XII. The Gofpel Feaft, Luke xiv. 16, &c.

HOW rich are thy provisions, Lord!
The table furnish'd from above!
The fruits of life o'erspreads the board,
The cup o'erslows with heav'nly love.

- Thine ancient family the Jews, Were first invited to the feat: We humbly take what they refuse, And Gentiles thy salvation taste.
- 3 We are the poor, the blind, the lame 3 And help was far, and death was nigh! But, at the gospel-call, we came, And ev'ry want receiv'd supply.
- From the high way which leads to hellfrom paths of darkness and despair,

B. III. Lord, we are come with thee to dwell. Glad to enjoy thy presence here.

What shall we pay th' Eternal Son, Who left the heav'n of his abode, And to this wretched earth came down, To bring us, wand'rers, back to God !

6 It cost him death, to fave our lives: To buy our fouls, it cost his own : And all the unknown joys he gives, Were bought with agonies, unknown.

7 Our evertafting love is due To him who ranfom'd finners, loft : And pity'd rebels, when he knew The vaft expense his love would coft.

XIII. Divine Love making a Feast, and calling in the Guels, Luke, xiv. 17, 22, 23.

TOW sweet and awful is the place. With Christ within the doors, While everlafting love displays The choicest of her stores!

2 Here ev'ry bowel of our God" With foft compassion rolls; Here peace and pardon, bought with bloods Is food for dying fouls.

While all our hearts and all our fongs Ioin to admire the feaft, Each of us cry, with thankful tongues, " Lor!, why was I a gueft!

4." Why was I made to hear thy voice, " And enter, while there's room;

"When housands make a wretched choice, " And rather starve than come ?"

Twas the same love which spread the feast That fweetly forc'd us in :.

Else we had fill refus'd to tafte. And perish'd in our sin.

16 Pity the nations, O, our God: Constrain the earth to come; Send thy victor ous word abroad. And bring the strangers home.

? We long to fee the churches full, That all the chosen race

May with one voice, one heart, one foul, Sing thy redeeming grace.

XIV. The Song of Simeon ; Luke ii. 28 ; or, & Sight of Christmakes Death easy.

NOW have our hearts embrac'd our God; We would forget all earthly charms, And wish to die, as Simeon would With his young Saviour in his arms.

2 Our lip's should learn that joyful fong. Were but our hearts prepar'd like his ; " Our fouls still waiting to be gone, " And at thy word depart in peace.

3 " Here we have feen thy face, O Lord, And view'd falvation with our eyes, " Tafted and feit the living word, "The bread descending from the skies.

4 " Thou haft prepar'd this dying Lamb, " Haft fet his blood before our face :

" To teach the ferrors of thy name, " And firew the wonders of thy grace.

5 "He is our light, our morning-ftar, " Shail shine on nations yet unknown;

"The glory of thine Ifr'el here, " And joy of spirits near the throne."

XV. Our Lord Jefus at his own Table.

'HE mem'ry of our dying Lord Awakes a thankful tongue;

How rich he fpreads his royal board, And biefs'd the food, and fung.

2 Happy the men who cat this bread, But doubly blefs'd was he Who gently bow'd his loving head, And lean'd it Lord, on Thee,

3 By faith the fame delights we tafte As that great fav'rite did, And fit and lean on Jefus' breaft,

And he and lean on Jeius' break,

A Down from the palace of the skies; Hither the King descends!

" Come, my beloved, eat, (he cries)
"And drink falvation, frienes.

[5" My flesh is food and physic too, " A balm for all your pains:

"And the red ftreams of pardon flow "From these my pierced veins."

6 Hofanna to his hount'ous love, For fuch a feast below!

And yet he feeds his faints above With nobler bleflings too.

7 Come the dear day the glorious hour, Which brings our fouls to reft! Then we shall need these types no more, But dwell a. th' heav'nly teast.]

XVI. The Agonies of Christ.

NOW let our pains be all forgot, Our hearts no more repine; Our fuff'rings are not worth a thought, When, Lord, compar'd with thine.

a In lively figures here we fee The bleeding Prince of Love; W w Each of us hope, he dy'd for me, And then our griefs remove.

3. Our humble faith here takes her rife, While fitting round his board;
And back to Calvary the flies,

To view her groaning Lord.

When his own God withdrew:
And the large load of all our guilt
Lay heavy on him too.

5 But the divinity within Supported him to bear; Dying, he conquer'd hell and fin, And made his triumph there.

6 Grace, wildom justice, join'd and wrought. The wonders of that day: No mortal tongue nor mortal thought

Can equal thanks repay.

7 Our hymns should found like those above, Could we our voices raise: Yet, Lord, our hearts shall all be love. And all our lives be praise.

XVII. The Fielb and Blood of Chrift.

Which grace divine performs.

Th' Eternal God comes down and bleeds,
To nourish dying worms.

2 This foul-reviving wine, Dear Saviour, 'tis thy blood; We thank that facred fleih of thine For this immortal food.

3 The banquet which we cat, Is made of heavinly things; Birth hath no dainties half so sweet As our Redeemer brings. 4 In vai n had Adam fought, And fearch'd his garden round, For there was no fuch bieffed fruit In all the happy ground.

5 Th' angelic hoft above
Can never tafte this food;
They feast upon their Maker's love
But not a Saviour's blood.

6 Onus th' Almighty Lord
Bestows this maichless grace;
And meets us with some chearing word,
With pleasure in his face.

7 Come, all ye drooping faints;
And banquet with the King?
This wine will drown your fad complaints,
And tune your voice to fing.

8 Salvation to the name
Of our adored Christ;
Through the wide earth his grace proclaim,
His glory in the high'st.

XVIII. The fame.
JESUS! we how before thy feet!
Thy table is divine'v ftor'd!
Thy facred flesh our fonls have ate,
'Tis living bread—we thank thee, Lord!

2 And here we drink our Saviour's blood; We thank thee, Lord! 'tis gen'rous wine, Mingled with love, the fountain flow'd Fromthat dear bleeding heart of thine.

3 On earth is no fuch sweetness found, For the Lamb's flesh is heav'nly food; In vain we search the globe around For bread so fine, or wine so good.

A Carnal provisions can at best,
But chear the heart, or warm the head ;
But the rich cord'al which we take,
Fives life eternal to the dead.

5 Praise to the Maker of the feast; His name our fouls forever bless; To God the King, and God the Priest, A loud hosanna round the place.

AT thy command, our dearest Lord,
Here we attend thy dying feast:
Thy blood like wine, adorns thy board,
And thy owe fiesh feeds every guest.

a Our faith adores thy bleeding love, And trust for life in one who dy'd; We hope for heav'nly crowns above, From a Redeemer crucify'd.

3 Let the vain world pronounce it fhame, And fling their feandals on the cause: We come to boatt our Saviour's name, And make our triumphs in his cross.

4 With joy we tell the fooffing age, He who was dead has left his tomb; He lives above their utmost rage, And we are waiting 'till he come.

XX. The Provisions for the Table of our Lord.

ORD, we adore thy bount'ous hand,
And fing the folernn feaft,
Where sweet celest'al dainties stand,
For ev'ry willing guest.

[2 The tree of life adorns the board With rich immortal fruit; And ne'er an angry flaming fword To guard the paffage to't.

3 The cup flands crown'd with living juice, we The fountain flows above.

And runs down flreaming, for our ufe, In rivulets of love.

4 The food's prepar'd by heav'nly art; The pleasures well refin'd; They foread new life through ev'ry heart. And chear the drooping mind.

5 Shout and proclaim the Saviour's love, Ye faints, who tafte his wine : Join with your kindred faints above: In loud hofannas join.

6 A thousand glories to the God, Who gives fuch joy as this ! Hofanna! let it found abroad. And reach where Jesus is.

XXI. The Triumphal Feast for Christ's Victory over Sin, Death, and Hell.

OME, let us lift our voices high, High as our joys arise; And join the longs above the fky, Where pleafure never dies.

2 Jefus, the God, who fought and bled, And conquer'd, when he fell. Who rose and at his char'ot wheels. Dragg'd all the pow'rs of hell.

3 Jefus, the God, invites us here, To this triumphal feaft: And brings immortal bleffings down For each redeemed gueft.

4 The Lord! how glor'ous is his face, How kind his fmiles appear 1 And, Gh! what melting words he fays

To ev'ry humble ear. s" For you the children of my love,

"It was for you I dy'd; " Behold my hands, behold my feet, " And look into my fide.

6 " Thele are the wounds for you I bore, "The tokens of my pains, 35 When I come down to free your fouls

" From mifery and chains,

WW 3

7 "Justice unsheath'd its fiery sword,

"And plung'd it in my heart;
"Infinite pangs for you I bore,
"And most tormenting smart.

"And most tormenting smart

8 "When hell, and all its spiteful powr's,

"Stood dreadful in my way,

"To rescue those dear lives of your's,
"I gave my own away.

9 "But whi'e I bled, and groan'd and dy'd,
"I ruin'd fatan's throne;

"High on my cross I hung, and spy'd
"The monster tumbling down,

"And tafte my flesh, my blood,

"And live eternal ages blefs'd,
"For 'tis immortal food."

In Vistor'ous God! what can we pay
For favors so divine!
We would devote our hearts away
To be forever thine.

The tribute of our touguet—
But themes fo infinite as these
Exceed our noblest longs.

OUR spirits join t' adore the Lamb;
Oh, that our feeble lips could move
In strains immertal as his name,
And melting as his dying love!

2 Was ever equal pity found?
The prince of heav'n refigns his breath,
And pours his life out on the ground.
To ranfom guilty worms from death!

3 Rebels, we broke our Makers laws. He from the threatnings fets us free, Bore the full vengeance on his crofs, And nail'd the cufes to the tree.] And Sinai's thunder roars no more:
From all his wounds new bleffings flow,
A fea of joy, without a fhore.

5 Here we have wash'd our deepest stains, And heal'd our wounds with heavn'ly blood; Bless'd fountain! springing from the veins Of Jesus, our incarnate God.]

6 In vain our mortal voices frive To fpeak compassion so divine; Had we a thousand lives to give, A thousand lives should all be thine.

XXIII. Grace and Glory by the Death of Chrife

SITTING around our Father's board, We raife our tuneful breath; Our faith beholds our dying Lord, And dooms our fins to death.

- We see the blood of Jesus shed,
 Whence all our pardons rise;
 The sinner views the atonement made,
 And loves the facrifice.
- Thy cruel thorns, thy shameful cross,
 Procure us heav'nly crowns;
 Our highest gain springs from thy los!
 Our healing from thy wounds.
- 4 Oh! 'tis impossible that we,
 Who dwell in feeble clay.
 Should equal suff'rings bear for thee,
 Or equal thanks repay.

XXIV. Pardon and Strength from Christ.

TATHER we wait to feel thy grace,
To fee thy glory shine;
The Lord will his own table bless,
And make the feast divine.

2 We touch, we tafte the Heav'nly bread; We drink the facred cup;

With outward forms our fense is fed. Our fouls rejoice in hope.

3 We shall appear before the throne Of our forgiving God, Drefs'd in the garments of his Son,

And sprinkled with his blood.

We shall be strong to run the race; And climbthe upper fky: Chrift will provide our fours with grace. He bought a large supply.

Is Let us indulge a chearful frame, For joy becomes a feaft; We love the mem'ry of his name. More than the wine we tafte.

XXV. Divine Giories and Graces.

TOW are thy glories here display'!! Great God how bright they shine! While at thy word we break the bread. And pour the flowing wine !

Here thy revenging justice stands. And pleads its dreadful caufe: Here faving mercy spreads her hands, Like Jesus on the cross.

. Thy faints attend, with ev'ry grace On this great facrifice; And love appears with chearful face. And faith with fixed eyes.

· Our hope in waiting posture fits, To heav'n directs her fight ! Here ev'ry warmer passion meets, And strongest pow'rs unite.

Zealand revenge perform their part, And rifing fin defroy; Repentance comes with aching heart, Yet not forbids the jay.

6 Dear Saviour, change our faith to fight;
Let fin forever die:
Then shall our souls be all delight,
And ev'ry tear be dry.

I cannot perfuade mytelf to put a full period to these Divine Hymns, until I have addressed a special long of Glory to God the Father, the Sons and the Holy Spirit. Thos the latin name of it, Gloria Patri, be retained in our nation from the Roman Courch; and though there may be some excesses of superstitious bonor paid to the words of it, which may have wrought ome unhappy prejudices in weaker Christians, vet I believe it fill to be one of the noblest parts of Christian worship. The subject of it is the doctrine of the Trinity, which is that peculiar glory of the divine nature, that our Lord Jejus Christ bas so clearly renealed unto men and is so necessary to true Christi inity. The action is praise, which is one of the most complete and exalted parts of heavenly worship. I have cast the song into a variety of forms, and have fitted it by a plain version, or a large paraphrale, to be jung either alone, or at the conclusion of another Hymn I have added also a few Holannas or a criptions of felvation to Cirift in the fame manner, and for the fame end.

A Song of praise to the Ever-bleffed Trinity, God the Father, Son, and Spirit.

BLB6S'D be the Father, and his love, To whose celestial source we owe Rivers of endless joy above, and rills of comfort here below.

alGlory to Thee, great Son of God; From whose dear wounded body rolls A precious stream of vital blood, Pardon and lifetsor dying souls.

3 We give Thee, facred Spirit, praife, Who, in our hearts of fin and woe, Make living fprings of grace arife, And into boundless glory flow.

Thus God the Father, God the Son, And God the Spirit we adore, That sea of life and love unknown, Without a bottom or a shore.

Chose out his favrites to proceam,
The honors of his grace.

- 3 Giory to God the Son be paid, Who dwelt in humble clay: And, to redeem us from the dead, Gave his own life away.
- 2 Glory to God the Spirit give, From whose almighty pow'r Our souls their heav'nly birth derive And bless the happy hour.
- Th' eternal Three and One, Who by the wonders of his love, Has made his nature known.

XXVIII. If Si ort Metre.

ET God the Father live
Forever on our tongues;
Sinners from his first love derive
The ground of all their fonge.

2 Ye faints employ your breath
In honor to the Son,
Who bought your fouls from hell and death,
By off ring up his own.

3 Give to the Spirit praiso, Of an immortal strain,

SPIRITUAL SONGS. Be HIL Whose light, and pow'r and grace conveys, Salvation down to men.

While God, the Comforter. Reveals our pardon'd fin, O may the blood and water bear

The fame record within. g To the great One and Three,

Who feal this grace in heav'n, The Father, Son, and Spirit be Eternal glory giv'n.

XXIX. 2d Long Metre. "LORY to God the Trinity, Whose name has mysteries nuknowa; In effence One, in Person Three; A focial nature, vet alone.

2 When all our noblest pow'rs are join'd, The honors of thy name to raife : Thy glories over-match our mind. And angels faint beneath the praise.

XXX. 2d Common Metre. THE God of mercy be ador'd. Who calls our fouls from death : Who faves; by his redeeming word, And new creating breath.

2 To praise the Father, and the Son, And Spirit-all divine-The One in Three, and Three in One, Let faints, and angels join.

XXXI. 2d Short Metre. ET God the Maker's name Have honor, love and fear, To God the Saviour, pay the fame, And God the Comforter.

2 Father of lights above, Thy mercy we adore, The Son of thy eternal love. And Spirit of thy pow'r. TO God the Father, God the Son,
And God the Spirit, Three in one,
Be honor, praife, and glory giv'n
By all on earth, and all in heav'n.

ALL glory to thy wond rous name,

LL glory to thy wond rous name,

Father of mercy, God of love:

Thus we exalt the Lord, the Lamb,

And thus we praife the heav'nly Dove.

NXXIV. 3d Cammon Metre.

NOW let the Father, and the Son,
And Spirit be ador'd,
Where there are works to make him known,
Or faints to love the Lord.

XXXV. Or thus:—

I ONOR to Thee, Almighty Three,
And everlasting One;
All Gory to the Father be,
The Spirit, and the Son.

XXXVI. 3d Short Metre.
YE angels, round the throne,
And Saints, who dwell below,
Worship the Father, love the Son,
And bless the Spirit too.

XXXVII. Or thus:CIVE to the Father praise;
Give glory to the Son:
And to the Spirit of his grace
Be aqual honor done.

Which man had done.

XXXVIII. Song of Praise to the Blessed Trinity.

I GIVE Immortal praise
To God the Father's love,
For all my comforts here,
And better hopes above.
He sent his own
Eternal Son,
To die for fins,

To God the Son belongs
Immortal glory too;
Who bought us with his blood
From everlaiting woe:
And now he reigns,
And now he reigns,

And now he reigns And fees the fruit Of all his pains.

3 To God the Spirit's name Immortal worfnip give, Whose new creating pow'r Makes the dead sinner live: His work-completes The great design, And fills the soul With joy divine.

Almighty God, to Thee
Be endless honors done;
The undivided Three,
And the myster'ous One;
Where reason fails
With all her powers,
There faith prevaile,
And love adores.

TO Him who chose us first,
Before the world began,
To him who bore the curse
To fave rebell'ous man:
To him who forms
Our hearts anew.

Our hearts anew, Are endless praise. And glory due.

The Father's love shall run
Thro' our immortal songs;
We bring to God the Son
Hosannas, on our tongues:
Our lips adress
The Spirit's name

With equal praise, And zeal the same.

And angels round the throne,
And angels round the throne,
For ever blefs and love,
The facred Three in One,
Thus Heaven shall raife
His honors high

His honors high When earth and time Grow old and die.

TO God the Fathers throng

Glory to God the Son,
To God the Spirit praife:
And while our lips
Their tribute bring,
Our faith adores
The name we fing.

---XLI.---

TO our eternal God,
The Father and the Son,
And Spirit all divine,
Three mysteries in one:
Salvation, powyt,
And praise be giv'n,
By all on earth,
And all in heav'n.

The HOSANNA, or Salvation afcribed to Christ-HOSANNA, to king David's Son, Who reigns on a fuperior throne We blefs the Prince of heavinly birth, Who brings faivation down to earth.

Z Let every nation, every age, In this delightful work engage; Old men and babes in Sion fing The growing glories of her King. XLIII. Common Metre.

OSANNA to the Prince of grace,

'Sion behold thy King:

Proclaim the fon of David's race,

'And teach the babes to fing.

2 Hosanna to th' incarnate Word That from the Father came; Ascribe salvation to the Lord, With bleffings on his name.

MLIV. Short Metre.

HOSANNA to the Son
Of David, and of God,
Who brought the news of pardom down
And bought it with his blood.

To Christ th' anointed King,
Be endless blessings giv'n;
Let the whole earth his glory sing.
Who made our peace with heav'n.

OSANNA to the King,
Of David's ancient blood:
Behold be comes to bring
Forgiving grace from God;
Let old and young
Attend his way,
And at his feet
Their honors lay.

2 Glory to God on high; Salvation to the Lamb: Let earth and fea, and fky, His wond rous love proclaim; Upon his head

Shall honors reft
And ev'ry age
Pronounce him blefs'd.
